Colophon

The 1995-1996 Warrior Annual theme, "A Time for Everything" was conceived at Yearbook University, a Josten's summer camp, by Janna Sharman and Rebecca Newell.

Order of pages, section length, and layout designs were decided through a process of collaboration. We attempted to tie in our theme, "A Time for Everything," anyway we could--included using a mixture of different fonts for special effect. Layout designs were adapted from Josten's PageSurfer templates and created from scratch. Many staff members worked on layouts wherever there was a need. On the 1995-1996 staff, all but five students were rookies to yearbook production. Many of them learned fast and were able to produce a quality book.

Time After Time....

Last June we left Lebanon Union High to come back just three short months later to the newly named Lebanon High. Students, along with teachers, followed the tradition of making vows to improve themselves. The age old ones included doing our homework without procrastination and being on our best behavior. But time got the best of us. From the beginning, we knew that these so called promises would never last. Especially when our football team took the league championship, noon activities were under way, and the pep assemblies started up the ole Lebanon spirit. Grades ten through twelve were back in action and freshman started catching on to the childlike spirit that was infecting not only Lebanon students but the staff as well...

Taking A Break, Mr. Hildebrandt relieves his teaching stress during his prep period by blowing bubbles. Most teachers spent their prep periods preparing lesson plans, grading papers, or doing errands, and considered the student free time "sanity breaks."

Full Of Pride, the Warrior spirit men show off their Power Ranger costumes. Junior Brock Ditterick, and seniors Andy Propst and Gabe Grossman could be seen at every varsity football game in costume ranging from Warriors to body paint. Their crowd involving antics included tumbling, cheers, and other humorous activities.

A Time For Everything.....

Feeding His Face, senior David Ogden pigs out during the pie eating contest. The activity took place in the student center during lunch to celebrate Homecoming Week and involved four boys, each representing their grade.

Expressing Their Individuality, a group of Lebanon students model their outfits on Halloween. Though there were not very many people that participated in dressing up, those who did came in costumes ranging from classics such as witches and clowns, to the more modern dress of French maids. The Yearbook costume award goes to Cameron Clarke, who wore a jack-o-lantern on his head all day.

...And More!

Standing Her Ground, junior Noreen Fleishman lets loose a string of notes in harmony with the rest of the Lebanon Marching Band. The band performed at many of the football halftimes and competed all around the state, bringing home many trophies and titles.

Marveling at the falling snow, junior Kelsey King and junior Bryan Jackson and freshman Paul Butterworth each have a different reaction to the strange February weather. The year's elements included huge wind storms, freezing rain, floods, and snow, proving there is a little time for everything in Lebanon.

Seconds before the Slurpee drinking contest, senior Jake Olsen, junior Jorj Rou, sophomore Steve Polomo, and freshman Ryan Cash stir the contents of the cups in front of them.

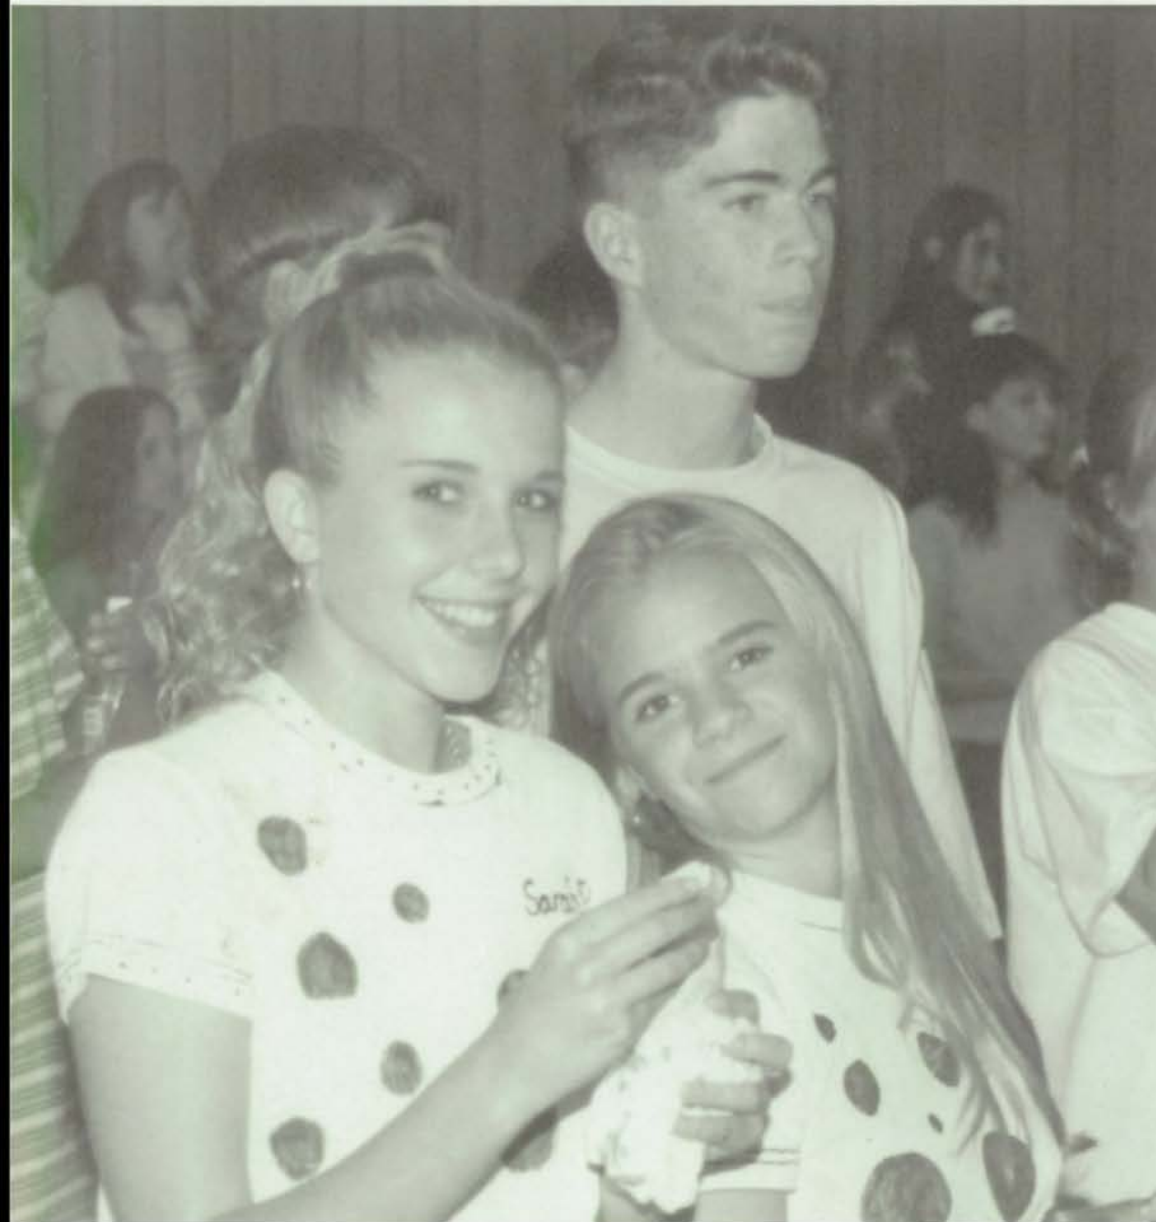

Sporting His Backpack, freshmen Grant Peterson pauses for a picture before heading into freshman hall. Upperclassmen agree this year freshmen hall was almost as dangerous as Double Load.

Taking Time Out, junior Jennifer Gable and senior Julie Sharman pose for a snapshot. This year's Varsity volleyball team made it to the third round of state playoffs, farther than any Lebanon volleyball team before them.

Hamming It Up, juniors Chris Herb, Casey Gonzalez, and Luke Wardlaw display their food appreciation. Students that didn't bring lunch from home bought snack items from the Warrior Trading Post or the student store, or drove to nearby eateries.

Before The Game, sophmores Rachel Lee, Heather Griffin, and freshman Lindsey Fountain take turns braiding each other's hair. The JV volleyball team, often clad in boxers and sporting braids, finished their year with a winning season.

Building The Spirit, junior Karen Bryan bases senior Amy Barnes in a shoulder stand while cheering at a varsity football game. Both Amy and Karen, as well as senior Heather Crockett, were selected to the National Cheerleaders Association team to cheer at the Aloha Bowl in Hawaii.

Spotting juniors Sarah Bartlett and Natalie Moss in a crowd is not hard. Polka Dot and Stripes day was one of the dress up themes for Homecoming week.

Every year, it seems like it's the same old stuff over and over and over and over and over and over...

Time and time again

But looks are deceiving...Homecoming with a 50's theme. A unified school district. The winter formal after Christmas. Seven new teachers. Separate school closures due to excessive winds, floods, and snow. Teachers "working to the contract" and talk of a strike. A completely new block schedule proposed for next year. A noon activity in the student center every week.

LHS instead of LUHS. It may have seemed the same at first, but time took it's toll and brought the Warriors a year like none other.

Up On Tiptoes, senior Julie Sinclair and sophomore Tatum Clingenpeel proudly display a runthrough created to present the players of the varsity volleyball team. The theme "Red Hot" came from a cheer produced by the Warrior spirit men.

Eagerly Waiting, the anxious crowd anticipates the beginning of the weekly noon activity. The seniors traditionally claimed the first few rows of good seats in front of the stage in the student center.

Displaying Their Incredible Spirit, seniors Gabe Grossman, Andy Propst, and junior Brock Ditterick take pride in their homemade costumes. Donned "Spirit Men" by their peers, they provided support and entertainment to the Friday night football games.

to get away...

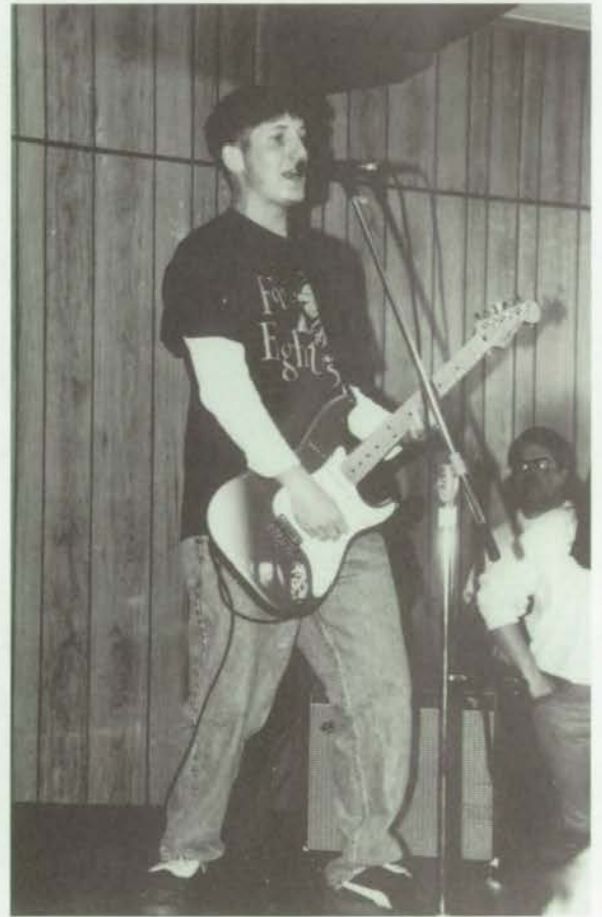

A whirlwind of activities bombarded LHS students during the 95-96 school year. As time marched on toward the big day when the seniors would march out, flurries of events from weekly noon activities, to dances, pep rallies, Mr. LHS and the Strawberry Court kept many would be scholars away from their books. However, the abundance of opportunities to get away from it all was a welcome relief to students frazzled by the daily grind of school work. In the end, no matter what exciting event was planned and pulled off, most still found time to do it all...

Young Man! It takes a certain spirit to survive at LHS and these four senior Warriors are proving that they are not lacking that requirement. Andy Propst, Mark Elder, David Ogdin and Travis Price show the noon activity audience their rendition of The Villiage People's "YMCA."

Rockin' Around The Clock Junior Luke Wardlaw jams at the Homecoming dance in celebration of a 28-14 victory over Corvallis. Lebanon's own garage band was made up of Luke, Casey Gonzalez on guitar, Zach Knight on bass and Lance Seiders setting the rhythm on drums.

A Time For Change

Yakety Yak, Homecoming's Back

Homecoming 95 was exactly what Homecoming wasn't. Instead of the traditional theme previously used, Leadership 2 decided to step out on a limb and try something new. The result was "Yakety Yak, Homecoming's Back."

The week was full of propaganda including noon activities and dress up days focusing around the 50's. On Friday, a pep assembly kicked off the day's string of events. The court of ten princesses were formally introduced to the school by entering the gymnasium on roller skates.

A car rally paraded through town to arrive at and circle the football stadium. During halftime of the game, in which Lebanon defeated Corvallis, coronation was held. The princesses were driven out in classic 50's automobiles wearing poodle skirts. They were seated at soda shop tables with a bubble machine completing the effect.

Finally, the moment had come, and last year's queen Hannah Eckhold crowned the new queen, Joleah Jung. After the game, the night was completed with an after game dance, ending with the song "Yakety Yak."

Red and Blue

Andy Propst and Gabe Grossman are the models of school pride as they pose with 1994-95 Homecoming Queen Hannah Eckhold. Andy, Gabe, and junior Brock Ditterick graced the football games with their creative costumes and amusing antics.

Just Coronated,

Homecoming Queen Joleah Jung signals #1 to the cheering crowd.

100% Warrior Fanatics,

seniors Julie Sharman and Julie Sinclair show off their school spirit at the car rally before the Homecoming game. The decorated cars, lead by a Lebanon Fire Department truck, drove through town and around the stadium honking in support of the Warriors.

Royalty In Red,

seniors Heather Crockett-Washington and Christy Swartzenraber display their Homecoming princess poodle skirts. This year, instead of the traditional Homecoming theme, Leadership 2 decided to break the mold, and came up with the 50's theme "Yakety Yak, Homecoming's Back."

All Decked Out,

senior Kelly Bingamen sits patiently while fellow classmen Ryan Gregory styles her hair for the Crazy Hair Day contest. Each grade received a can of hairspray, a can of styling mousse, and a pile of rubber bands for the contest to use at will. After the five minute time limit was up, the judges announced the seniors had won.

At the end of the week, points were accumulated for all of the activities, including the pep assembly and dress up days, and once again the seniors came out on top.

Winter Nights

City Lights

Cradled in strong arms, princess Amanda Hobbes is escorted to the stage by senior Mark Elder in an unconventional style.

Awaiting their meal, a group of Winter Formal destined students pose for a group shot taken by their waiter at Micheal's Landing. Most students ate dinner at a nice restaurant before heading for the dance, where Italian sodas and refreshments were served.

Under The Stars

A New Place, A New Time

Outside the breeze was cool and there was suspicion of a storm, but inside, LHS students gathered under the dimmed lights to enjoy the romantic setting of the Winter Formal. This year's theme, Winter Night's/City Lights was unique among previous years.

Instead of being held at the LMS cafeteria during December, we went against tradition and started a new one. January was the month for winter romance and formal planning and the Elk's lodge was the setting. The eight princesses nervously awaited the moment of the Queen's coronation. Before the crowning, students and guests smiled for snapshots and showed their stuff on the dance floor.

When the awaited coronation was under way, eight macho senior men escorted their princesses' to the stage. There, while breath's were held, the tiara was place on DeEsta Denver.

As the night drew to a conclusion, people departed either for home or local eateries, the popular spot being Shari's. After a long night, most were very satisfied. The money spent on expensive attire, limos, and dinner was well worth it!

Dancing the night away, junior Jennifer Gabel and her date, senior Brent Dukes gaze into each other's eyes as they drift off into their own world. The two, who are both well over six feet tall, literally stood a head above the rest.

A special moment between a mother and her son. While at the formal, freshman Joey Sharman and his mom Kathy dance together and talk about how the night is going. Kathy was a chaperone for the first time at the Winter Formal and enjoyed a moment alone with Joey.

Her face wearing a huge smile, the 1996 Winter Formal Queen, DeEsta Denver, is crowned by last year's queen, Amanda Speth. DeEsta ws one of eight senior girls chosen by their class for the court.

The roar of the crowd and the echo of the chants keep the game on edge. These sounds help the team when ahead, behind, or when they just need to be pumped up. Cheering and getting behind the team is the purpose of school spirit expressed by the students and cheerleaders at LHS

Many of the "Warrior Fanatics" showed overwhelming school spirit at sporting events, noon activities, dress-up days, and special school activities.

The students feel the sheer exhilaration of being supportive of the team is reward enough for their actions.

We're #1! Junior Emily Dickman and senior Amber Ludlow sport their school colors for a Friday night football game. Painted faces and sport jerseys were students' favorite outfits for expressing their school spirit on these evening occasions.

Going Wild, seniors Gabe Grossman and Heather Crocket help the varsity volleyball team get pumped up at their last playoff game held in Marshfield. The team made it to the third round in playoffs in their 1995 season with the help of the students that followed their games. Both Gabe and Heather were extremely active in school spirit

Senior Spirit! A group of seniors show their enthusiasm at the varsity girls home basketball game against West Albany. There was almost too much spirit, as the intensity rose to such a level that feathers flew and words were chanted across the gym as students from both schools strived to be the 6th player on the court. We were victorious in that regard by winning the game and earning the right to a playoff game a few days later.

WARRIOR

S P I R I T

"Nuts and Bolts!" A gathering of senior and junior guys get into the spirit of things during a varsity volleyball game. Their original cheers were a big help to the team when they needed a boost in the third match. In return the volleyball players attended many football games to support their friends and classmates.

Spirit Men junior Brock Ditterick and seniors Andy Propst and Gabe Grossman stand proud on a hot September night while cheering for the Lebanon Warriors football team. The team lost against this early season game against McNary, but it was only a minor setback. The Warriors went on to win seven straight and claim the bragging rights as the undisputed champions of the Valley League.

NOON ACTIVITIES

HIGH NOON

SHOWDOWN IN THE STUDENT CENTER

A thunderous boom of laughter exits the student center and echoes down the hallways. Some people would say the performances were a sort of torture and embarrassment to the participants. Yet it takes pride, courage, and a little bit of stupidity to partake in these acts in front of hundreds of students and staff members.

The noon activities pull the school together in one room, at one time, for a gathering of fun. Whether they were laughing at you or with you, it was usually something done in "good taste!"

Lollipop, POP! Freshmen Ryan Cash, Jordan Ford, Andy Funk, and Jeremy Gabel use some clever thinking to turn things around, and not just their heads. Their crowd pleasing effort gave them second place for the event, but they weren't able to beat the ultimate Warrior Spirit that the senior class displayed.

How Low Can You Go? Senior Andy Dobson tests his flexibility under the limbo stick. Andy was the irrevokable champion of the "limbo" noon activity. Dobson was an active member in many different areas of school including Theater Arts, Mr.LHS, and Drama Club.

All Dressed Up and No Where To Go. Senior Chrissy Marak and junior Rindi Gaudet model their new makeovers. Male classmates applied great care and used liberal creativity with a variety of cosmetics on the patient females. The new look just may catch on.

Getting Into The Act, seniors David Ogden, Mark Elder, Andy Propst, and Travis Price pump the crowd up with their imitation of the Village People singing "YMCA." This foursome knew how to get the crowd on their feet, especially the girls.

Hasn't Your Mother Told You Not To Talk With Your Mouthful? Freshman Desire Gonzalez struggles to say "Chubby Bunny" as she stuffs marshmallows in her mouth. Desire's good natured attitude allowed her to get talked into many different noon activities including, "Putting On A Face," and "Lip Sync."

Concentrating on Coordination, juniors Kenzie Wagstaff and Stacey Vaughan participate in a "windy" noon activity. The "Card Pass" game was the talkative students easiest test of lung capacity. The fear of dropping the card was always on their mind as they inhaled and exhaled to keep the card "afloat."

Face Full Of Cream, freshman Shane Whitmore, sophomore Ben Stearns, junior Steve Bishop, and senior David Ogden dig in to their whip cream pies with eyes closed and hands tied. Who's eyes were as big as his stomach? Why, of course, it had to be senior David Ogden!

Royal Flush: Royalty Week Plunged

"A chance of showers, possibly flooding in the Willamette Valley." News reporters throughout the valley had their work cut out for them over the duration of Valentine's week. While citizens in the Portland area were rushing to aid workers in building a safety wall on the bridge, where flood waters had reportedly risen out of control, members of Lebanon also watched the effects of the flood unfold in our small community. Waters showered down on us causing the worst flood throughout the Willamette in thirty years.

With the Royalty Court already chosen, a week of unforgettable game nights and noon activities were planned. The flood took its toll on Royalty Week too when school was closed Wednesday through Friday. Although students did have a enjoyable three days off from school, it was still disappointing to find that Royalty Week activities were permanently postponed and the dance canceled.

A community pulling together when it is needed the most. Friends, families, neighbors, and even strangers come together to save what is left of their homes and possessions

Closer to home is the flooded parking lot of the Free Methodist Church. The church, adjacent to the high school, was flooded up to the level of car tires. At five minutes to 8:00am school was canceled, and students, who were brave enough to drive, found they could return home.

The flood took its toll on the entire Willamette Valley. This was a common scene throughout our town. The most damage was done on the outskirts of Lebanon such as: LaComb, Scio, and Sodaville.

EE "We had a blast jumping in the puddles during the flood!" 33
-Crystal Martell and Dawn Grimes.

Fun in the Flood. Juniors Tami Shimmin, Jennifer Krebs, Shannon Lee, and Steve Cripe enjoy a day out of school by drifting on innertubes guided by the current of the flood waters.

Dancing The Night Away,

Senior Joleah Jung and Junior Eric Johnson add a little humor to a slow song. At the home game against Corvallis, Joleah was coronated as Homecoming queen.

How's It Hangin'?

Sophomore buds Jill Anderlik and Amy Dukes are living proof dances are the place to be. The girls from the class of '98 represented one of the largest portions of students who attended the dances.

Catching The Fever,

Junior Holly Yokum gets a little crazy with the motions of YMCA. Of the songs which generated crowd involvement, this was one of the most popular.

Bustin' A Move,

Senior Cameron Clark and Jaime Miller get down and boogie. The seniors contributed tons of school spirit and enthusiasm to the after game dances.

FRIDAY NIGHT FEVER.

After game dances were the place to bust the newest moves, hang with your friends, and release the enthusiasm and tension built up at the game.

After an action packed Friday night game, students needed a place to release their spirit and pent up energy. The combination of the student center, blaring music, flashing lights, and several hundred Warrior fanatics provided the perfect solution.

The Homecoming dance proved to be a highlight with a crowd of four hundred. Oldies complementing the theme "Yakety Yak Homecoming's Back," sent students back into the era of poodle skirts, leather jackets, and bobby socks.

Despite the success of the dances, they were not without setbacks. Problems arose in the form of moshing, crowd surfing, and fights, which served as open invitations for the presence of the police. Regardless of all obstacles, the dances were the place to be.

Getting Into The Frenzy,

SPIRIT IN ACTION

PEP ASSEMBLIES

REDEFINING ENTHUSIASM

Squishing, laughing, popping, cheering. Everyone recognizes the sounds of pep assemblies. They ring in the ears of current students as well as the alumni. They are a part of every student's high school memories.

This last year's assemblies were not great in number, yet no one can deny that they won't remember someone getting shaving cream in the face or one of their friends in a crazy relay. Assemblies were a time for class rivalry, sports acknowledgements, court announcements, and speeches from the teachers.

Assemblies gave some the opportunity to leave school early and miss the spirit, but others took the opportunity to have fun and cheer.

School spirit was at a high at the events and for the students that attended them, even TIME won't be able to erase the memories of their high school assemblies.

Showing their spirit, the varsity cheerleaders perform "IS" at the first pep assembly of the year. "IS" was a traditionally popular cheer that the squad used to get the crowd hyped before a big game.

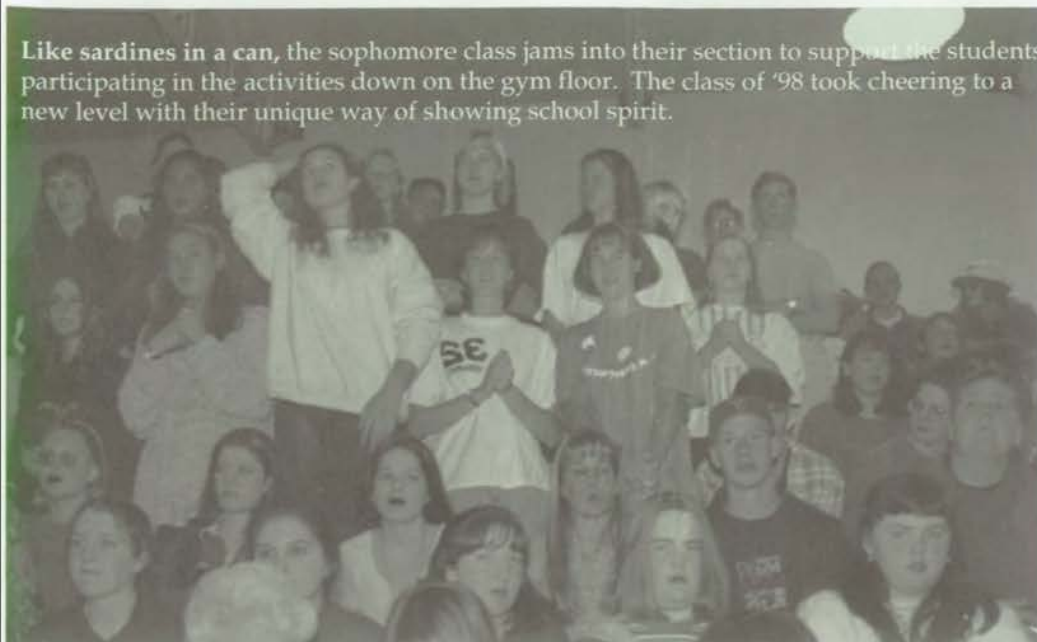

Up for the slam, seniors Travis Price and Brian Tol along with Juston Klum take on the freshman class in a mock volleyball game. The senior varsity volleyball girls were honored in this assembly and chose a senior guy to represent them on the court.

Packed to the rafters, the student body rises to applaud the antics of the activities below. The crowds this year were smaller than in years past but their enthusiasm made up for their lack in size.

Like sardines in a can, the sophomore class jams into their section to support the students participating in the activities down on the gym floor. The class of '98 took cheering to a new level with their unique way of showing school spirit.

With a heart THAT size, senior Amber Ludlow shows how much she loves you. Amber was involved in many school spirit events and went out of her way to display affection for her school.

Going the distance, the student body travels out to the football field for the first pep assembly of the year. An attempt was made at making an arrow while Coach Tomlin gave a pep talk. Eventually the arrow was formed signifying Lebanon's climb to the League Championship.

Showing their skill with a razor, a group of students practice the age old art of shaving.....a balloon! The seniors took home the gold in this event (of course). Similar activities were performed at other assemblies to the cheers of the Student Body.

ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE

...And we are merely players

The auditorium gets quiet, the lights go down, and the doors close. As the curtains come up, the acting begins. Laughter and clapping echoes throughout the auditorium as the play goes on. There were three plays performed this year: The Comedy of Errors, The Musical Comedy Murders of 1940, and for the first time, a dessert theater was planned and pulled off. The play performed was Belles. Hats off to Ms. Edwards, the drama coach, and Ms. Hamer, the technical theatre director. Without their dedication, none of this would have been possible.

The Comedy of Errors

The scene opens in Ephesus, as Egeon, a merchant of Syracuse, has just received a death sentence unless he can pay a fine of 1,000 marks. Enmity between Ephesus and Syracuse has resulted in the imposition of such penalties upon merchants of one city who visit the other.

In answer to the Duke's question as to his business in Ephesus, Egeon relates this story: The ship that was taking him, his wife, twin sons, and the twin sons of a servant woman from Epidamnum to Syracuse floundered in a storm. He and one of each pair of twins were rescued separately from his wife and the other two boys, who were carried to another port.

After eighteen years, Egeon's son begged to be allowed to seek his brother and set out accompanied by his servant, the other twin. For the past five years, Egeon has traveled all over Greece seeking his lost family. Egeon's story moves the compassionate Duke of Ephesus. Although he cannot revoke the penalty, he grants Egeon a day to seek the necessary sum to save his life. And so begins a Comedy of Errors.

How Dare You? Senior Josh Searles fights with junior Mary Dornhecker, sophomore Rachel Sherman, and senior Jessica Baughman as they try to bind him with rope while seniors Christie Schwartzengraber and Randy Dobson look on. Josh played one of Egeon's sons. These actors and actresses made this scene very dramatic with their great acting abilities.

"Keeper of the gate, my name is Dromeo," seniors Josh Searles, Randy Dobson, Vanessa Arnhart, Cynthia Brink, Andy Dobson, and sophomore Brandy Hellums act out the scene that sends Dromeo of Ephesus (Randy) into a state of shock, after Dromeo of Syracuse (Andy) says who he is. "Josh has matured as an actor," said technical director, Mrs. Hamer. Randy and Andy have been acting since they could walk and talk. It shows. The living statues in were an intelligent addition to the set.

Bound by anger, seniors Josh Searles, Randy Dobson and sophomore Rachel Sherman act out a scene in which they make people believe that Antipholus of Ephesus (Josh) is mad or crazy. This was one of many hilarious dramatic scenes.

Chemistry, senior Andy Dobson and junior Mary Dornhecker discuss the chemistry that can happen between two people. "Andy is a creative actor who doesn't know when to quit," says Jason Foster, who has known Andy for years. This was Mary's first and only year acting for LHS.

A little tipsy, junior Mike Snyder and seniors Christie Schwartzengraber and Dawn Draper discuss the play they are rehearsing. Mike continued to impress people beyond his years. Christie is a very strong actress because she was believable. Dawn played many interesting parts, which made her a multi-talented actress.

The Musical Comedy Mur- ders of 1940

Musical Comedy Murders of 1940 is set in a luxurious library in a 1940 New York mansion. The 10 men and women gathered together to uncover a murderer are surprised to find a murderer in their midst. Black-outs, grisly deaths, and mayhem follow, as the few remaining Broadway familiars fight for their lives. When the maid dies three times, then turns out to be not at all what you'd expected, you know you're in for some fun.

Behold the True King

On the fifth night of March, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and ninety six, at seven thirty, ten knights came forth to compete for the greatest honor among all men—to sit as king of LHS. Those brave enough to answer the call were: Sir Andy of Lyoness, Sir Randy of Camelot, Sir Mark of Chambour, Sir Gabe of Loches, Sir Bryan of Locksley, Sir Matt of Joyous Guard, Sir Scot of Cornwall, Sir Travis of Cadbury, Sir Brian of Galys, and Sir Trent of Lear.

The knights showed their strength and agility as muscle men and their creativity with videos. The knights got suited up in armor for the evening wear competition. Nervousness filled the air as each knight answered a question for the interview competition.

As the night drew to a close, the knights anxiously awaited their chance to pull the sword from the stone. Which knight would be the one with the strength to remove the sword? Sir Randy of Camelot prevailed over all and took his rightful place as king of LHS. Sir Andy of Lyoness and Sir Gabe of Loches took their seats beside the king as first and second knights of LHS.

"I'm Gonna Be a Mighty King, So Enemies Beware!" And he just can't wait to be crowned. Randy Dobson won the honor of the 1996 Mr. LHS knights of the round table throne.

Go ahead, make my day!

And the Winner is... A king and his loyal court jester, Ryan Gilbertson and Shawn Elliot are ready to announce the 1996 winner of the Mr. LHS contest. Ryan was the 1995 Mr. LUHS, and as for Shawn, well unfortunately he lost, but he made a good runner up.

When We See Him Smile, We Smile Too, With a knight like Matt Marteney, how could we not smile? His smile lights up any darkroom.

Like a Knight in Shining Armor, Scot Noss relentlessly shows how evening wear makes a man worth while. By the reaction of the girls, he did a great job strutin' his stuff.

As the Stars Twinkled On, Bryan Long is one knight that makes the night shine bright. With his wonderous walk and his smile, this was truely a glorious "knight."

A Knight In All His Splendor, Andy Dobson stands up as he is announced first runner up. He is and always will be a wonderful knight.

Enter the Secret Garden

Once Upon a time...

Enter the enchantment of the labyrinth as your breath is taken away by the willowing atmosphere of the Secret Garden.

This year's prom was decked out with waterfalls, flagstone, and romantic pizzazz. The couples glided across the floor wistfully awaiting the coronation of the new King and Queen. As the moment approached all fourteen royal members held their breath in anticipation as the emcee announced the newly appointed Queen Erin Hamer and King Casey Gonzales.

From Princess to Queen, junior Erin Hamer receives a congratulating smile from the former queen, senior Lana Miller, as she passes on her reign.

In the Presence of Royalty, the newly crowned King and Queen, juniors Casey Gonzalez and Erin Hamer, hold their scepter and don the crown for an exciting reign.

Cowboyed Up, senior Anna Dolan two-steps her way to take a quick picture with her date. Country was a big part of the music played, and it was enjoyed by all who attended.

Anticipation building the 1996 Prom Court waits anxiously for the new king and queen to be announced. Each member had fun participating in noon activities which were required of them for having the privilege of being voted on the court.

1996 Princes: Kevin Corrington, Zach Brewer, Ty Tomlin, Marcos Oseguera, Chuck Agosto, Casey Gonzalez, and Kent Vandiver.

1996 Princesses: Stacey Stiffler, Erin Hamer, Stacey Vaughn, Kenzie Waggstaff, Janna Sharman, Hillary Townsend, and Natalie Moss.

Thumbs up to the male bonding, Seniors Scot Noss, Gabe Grossman, and Randy Fuller kick back and enjoy the enchanted atmosphere. Guys were often found dateless while the girls were off powdering their noses.

Prepared for the party, senior Cameron Clarke and his date sophomore Heidi Schwartzengraber, come decked out in top hat and gown. This year's prom was the place to be if you wanted to see ball gowns or even Cinderella and Prince Charming.

Smiling Beauties, Seniors Karrah Syme and Julie Sharman along with Sophomore Jill Anderlik group together for an impromptu picture. It was common for all the dancers to take a break to rest their sore feet.

Strawberries On Broadway

New year, new court, new coronation location, new policies, new everything! It was definitely a year for adjustments. Everything from how the court was chosen to who took the pictures was different.

In the past, the court had been nominated by teachers and was only open to senior girls at LHS. This year, the court was selected by application and was open to senior girls in all the high schools in Lebanon.

This new process caused some to worry about how well the court would live up to the high standards set by past courts. They shouldn't have worried...this year's court was one of the most dedicated, sincere, fun-loving courts ever. All the girls involved deserved the Queen's crown, but only the test of TIME would determine who would wear it.

Perfect
Poise*

Cowboy Up! Julie Sharman and Heather Crockett-Washington have their first riding lesson on the merry-go-round in Florence. Looks like they need a few more lessons before they try the "real thing!"

Ooo La La! Jamie Zucker displays a gift from her Secret Pal. The girls decided to have secret pals on parade days and had fun thinking of "amusing" gifts.

Simply Marvelous! DeEsta Denver's secret pal had some manicure tips for her.

TOP LEFT: Queen Heather Crockett-Washington always had a smile on her face...even for the rough bikers that lined both sides of the streets in downtown Florence!

TOP RIGHT: Jamie Zucker, Miss Congeniality, was always one to speak her mind. That fact caused her a little embarrassment on a radio interview with her idol, Dangerous Dan on 103.7 KXPC.

MIDDLE: Julie Sharman, the court clown, always had a smart remark to make the girls laugh when their smiles began to droop, something that happened quite often during long parades.

MIDDLE RIGHT: DeEsta Denver, Jamie's "partner in crime," was always on the prowl for a good looking guy... even from the top of a feris wheel!

BOTTOM: Stephanie Graham was the social one of the bunch. You could always find her introducing herself and the court to anyone and everyone in sight.

1996 Strawberry Court

Trying To Quench The Flames, the court takes a photo op on one of Scio's fire trucks. The girls were always on the lookout for "hot" men and there happened to be a couple in the cab of this truck.

Oh What A Night! The 1996 Strawberry Festival Court poses for yet another picture on coronation night. The girls displayed poise, composure, and grace as they "did their little turn on the catwalk" and answered impromptu questions.

Singin' In The Rain. The court's chaperone, Sheree Irwin and her daughter Lindsey make a dash for cover as the rain moves in. Sheree traveled with the girls to all their different functions and made sure they didn't abuse their "princess power."

Lookout...Tidal Wave! On their trip to Florence the girls took time to visit the beach and chase a few waves. The water was slightly cold and lacking wetsuits, the girls decided to just get their feet wet.

Flying High! Jamie Zucker and DeEsta Denver ascend from the sky high ride. While on the ride they got an unexpected shower from an annoying passenger that decided to spit over the side!

Oh, Man! Heather Crockett-Washington wasn't content to just get her feet wet at the beach, her pants got a little of the action too!

GO DUCKS! The court got to meet several "famous" characters in all the parades they attended. They included the Oregon Duck (duh), Ronald McDonald, Hamburgler, and Winnie the Pooh. Photo opportunities were in abundance and the girls took every chance they got to "be seen" with well known personalities.

It's Raining, It's Pouring! DeEsta Denver, Stephanie Graham, and Jamie Zucker huddle under an umbrella trying to stay dry at the Scio Lamb and Wool Festival. The deluge slowed the parade, but the town turned out despite the stormy weather.

Time for everyONE

Years down the road, you won't remember very much of what your math teacher said. You might not even remember much of it next week. But you will remember your math teacher...and your science teacher, and your English teacher...kind of scary, huh?

It won't take too long to forget your locker combination, but you'll never forget who you shared your locker with.

The fact is--the facts leave your memory long before the people who imparted the facts. It's people that matter the most. And in this day of fast food and fast facts, it's more important than ever to slow down and take the time that's necessary to build relationships with people that will last--in and out of school.

Chillin' It. These sophomore buddies Julie Miller, Christina Raposa, Holly Taylor, and Selva Gonzalez don the shades for one of the few sunny days this year. Friends hung out anytime they could and enjoyed good times kickin' it in the sun.

Hanging with Friends, freshmen Jennifer Griner, Camille Stearns, Renee Robertson, and Lorinada Walters pause in Suicide Hall to grin for the lens. Groups of friends often traveled down this hall together because it could mean "suicide" if you didn't know how to maneuver through the crowd. Over time most students learned how it was done correctly to avoid injury, but many people had "bonding" experiences in the learning process.

Displaying Her Courage, teacher Lynden Brown partakes in the unusual task of handling snakes. Her room was famous for being the home of snakes, rats, insects, and anything else living.

Deeply Concentrating, teacher George Geizler looks over the accounts for the Warrior Trading Post. Holding the position of DECA supervisor and teacher of marketing and personal finance, this man literally had money on the mind.

Forever Cheerful, teacher Gloria Knapp shows how to "grin and bear it" while grading papers. Teachers often used their prep periods to grade papers or handed the job over to their student assistants.

Caught In The Action, teacher Steve Speth takes a break while supervising room 24. The dreaded room was often used as a threat by the teacher and administration for pacifying unruly students.

A Time to Celebrate!

Free at Last...

With weather that couldn't be finer, the 1996 graduates waited anxiously on the field of Health Stadium just a few more minutes. They could handle it. They'd been waiting for this moment for years.

The audience rose to their feet as the processional began and watched in wonder as graduate after graduate paraded two by two down the field, in front of the stage, and settle in their seats. Truly this was their day--and they made the most of it.

Class president Kelly Bingaman and vice president Andrew Propst broke the ice with a little stand up comedy routine. Everyone was in a jovial mood. But it wasn't all fun and games.

Playing the tune, "One Sweet Day," close friends of Katie Weinman and Talia Ufford gathered together in front of the stage full of tears and embraces for their lost loved ones. At the song's conclusion, two helium filled balloons were released and sailed skyward. It was a touching moment.

Distribution of the diplomas was soon underway, and all too quickly, the class of 1996 marched out of our lives and into history.

All Smiles. Matt Helget lifts high his coveted diploma--representing years of hard work. Matt was an exceptional student who showed great strength, trust, and faith in God in the midst of difficult trial when his mother, a dedicated and beloved substitute at LHS, suddenly passed away just a few weeks before graduation. Matt, she's smiling at you too.

Taking a bow. Diploma in hand, Dennis Schlizkus dons his cap for the camera.

Proud Parent. Father and son, Bob and Jeremy Clark couldn't be happier. Bob volunteered hundreds of hours at Lebanon High this year for the wrestling program, track, and supervising lunch.

The Three Amigos. Tassel dangling in the excitement, Andy Suing, Nathan Howell, and Jason Guilford take a moment to breathe a sigh of relief after the graduation ceremony.

"We're outta here, and we couldn't be happier!" Flowers in hand, Kayleen Archer, DeeDra Lawson, and Christen Crumpton exalt in the thrill of graduating from high school.

Serving Her Country. With the American flag flying in the background, Rebecca Whistler heads to her seat during the processional. That's not only where Rebecca is heading. This summer she leaves to join the Marines.

Caps off to School! Caps, balloons, silly string...it's all fair game when those long awaited words are spoken, "Ladies and gentlemen--I now present to you the class of 1996." Free at Last. Let the festivities begin!

PARTY ON!

Sky's the Limit. Gambling buddies Heidi Solberg, Kari Nunn, Nathan Reed, and Jodi Yocum take their chances at the black jack table.

Whip it! Whip it Good! Amber Ludlow belts it out as partners Amanda Hobbs, Kelly Binagman, Jennifer Miller, and Sarah Wilkerson sing the melody. Brain Tol and Brent Dukes get into the act too. The karaoke machine was a big hit.

Hoopin' It! Julie Sinclair lets out a laugh while she does the Hula. The senior party had an entire Hawaiian area set up complete with hula hoops, decorations and an opportunity to get your picture taken.

No graduation would be complete without a grad party. Well, this all-nighter at the boys and girls' club was a COMPLETE party. Organized and put on by parents, there was a complete gambling casino, endless food, a game show, a velcro obstacle course, etc. By winning play money, students could buy excellent prizes.

Ferocious Warriors. One of the most popular events of the evening was the Sumo wrestling pit. Seniors would stuff themselves into one of the suits, don helmets and go at it. The first warrior to push your opponent out of the circle would be declared the winner. Getting up after a spill, however, was another matter entirely.

The Moment of Defeat. In a gutsy move, Jon Shurts placed all his winnings on one toss of the dice at the crap table. His grimace tells the story. He lost. At least Jamie Zucker and Steve Lewis got a good laugh out of it.

More Money than you can count. Kellee Gray and Darrell Powell take a break from the night's activities to count their winnings. A full blown gambling house enticed students to take their play dollars and try to win more so they could buy prizes.

We're Outta Here! Cash on the table, Thomas Gjovik's senior T-shirt says it all.

Wild Man. Dawson Koos, strapped in a velcro suit, barrels his way through the human obstacle course.

A Time For Defining Who We Are.....

As freshmen we all try our hardest to fit into our new high school environment. The traditional way is to be initiated by upperclassmen. It's not the most civilized manner, but as desperate as we are for popularity, we find it works best.

The next year as sophomores we realize the initiation process doesn't work as well as we thought. We try to stick to people with the same interests and have role models following the latest trends and hoping one day everyone will notice.

Something happens throughout our junior year. We look at individuality in a different light. We've noticed people of upper levels getting a lot of attention just being themselves. Eventually the importance of being an individual is finally noticed and we as juniors have defined ourselves.

Vouge. Kelsie King expresses herself with individuality. Often students referred to this as the environmental look.

Common Individuality. Holly Yokum, Jennifer Hanson, Robbie McDougal, John Voight and Aaron Kennedy show off their taste of attire. Clothes were found to be the easiest way to express ourselves.

What's HOT

The class of 1997 differs so greatly that the music they listen to is distinctive of their personalities. Revealed by sixty surveys, the junior class is selective in five areas of music. These being COUNTRY, alternative, RAP, ROCK, and gospel. These are the top three artists and titles according to the Class Of 1997.

COUNTRY:

1. CHRIS LEDOUX - COPENHAGEN
2. TY HERNDMAN - WHAT MATTERED MOST
3. REBA MCENTIRE - RING ON MY FINGER

RAP:

A TIME FOR FRIENDS:

True friends are hard to find. It's been said a true friendship is more valuable than gold--and longer lasting too.

Friendships are one of the important reasons students come to school. School is a place to meet and make friends, but most deep friendships grow and develop outside of school.

Whether it's McDonald's to munch on fries, going to games together, or celebrating at Shari's afterward, friendships and school can't be separated.

In a recent survey of a 120 sophomores taken informally in classrooms and hallways around the school, we were amazed to discover that exactly half of the people had light hair and the other half had dark hair.

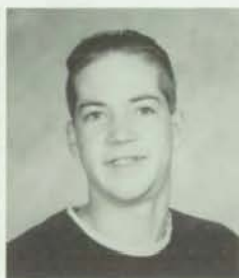

The results were quite ironic, especially with many people dying their hair to match all areas of the color spectrum, but the survey does conclude that a favorite hair color remains undecided.

A TIME FOR SHOES

Shoes are the way many people express themselves. You can tell a lot about someone's personality by looking at their shoes. If a person is very athletic, then you can see them sporting athletic shoes while a person who is more refined and conservative, is usually spotted wearing dressy shoes. We recently questioned some students about life with their shoes, and this is what they had to say:

I will always have a friend wearing big red shoes -Sarah Bultena

I WEAR MY SHOES SO MY TOES DON'T GET LONELY -Jodi Keeling

My shoes are my best friends. I have 40 of them -Crystal Martell

Misty Priszner

"I like to talk on the phone, hang out with my friends, go water and snow skiing, and go swimming."

Joey Sharman

"I like to play sports and dink around on the computer."

Camille Stearns

"I like to play sports and spend time with my family."

Whether it be talking on the phone, playing sports, watching T.V., spending time with friends and family, or playing with their Polly Pockets in class, there are many things that freshmen can do for fun.

As freshmen, it's hard to find time for hobbies. Before high school, there may have been more time for the things they liked to do, but once they got here, it was a different story. There's a greater work load, more finals, more people to deal with, and parents might give them more responsibility. All in all, it's just a really big challenge.

... But even with all the homework and stress, through good times and bad, freshman still find time for fun!

Time Generates Results

The thrill of competition. The rush of adrenaline. The nerve-racking anticipation and anxiety that only sports can produce.

You are born with the will to fight. You acquire the need to win. Through time, practice and hard work you become a competitor. Through time, practice, hard work, and pride you become a true Warrior.

Warrior's compete. Warrior's never give up. Warrior's win. A lot goes into being the best.

I'm Going To Disneyland! Sophomore Tatum Clingenpeel achieves great height after Lebanon won the third set against Glenco in their second preplayoff game. This win led to a third and final preplayoff game versus Marshfield. The varsity volleyball team had a very successful season with a league record of 12-6.

Faster Than The Speed Of Light, junior Kent Vandiver forces his way through the defense. As #1 varsity football team in the Valley League, they played Thurston, a challenging opponent, in the first round of playoffs. Though their last game was a rough loss, the guys had an overall stupendous season.

I Got It! Senior Ryan George makes a play on an infield fly, for the out. George was a versatile player, playing first base, third base, and he also pitched from the mound and was named to the prestigious All-State team. Varsity baseball stretched the meaning of commitment by making it to the State playoffs. This was the first time the team had accomplished such a goal since 1980.

Reaching the Top

Shattering All Expectations

Before the sound of the first whistle, motopponents throughout the league would not have guessed that Lebanon would once again rank near the top.

After a 7-2 record, the Warriors ended their season as champions of the Valley League. The 95-96 team did an incredible job of overcoming the loss of last year's astounding seniors. Many of the players said their goal was to do their best and take Lebanon to the top. Coach Don Tomlin also felt the team did their best. "This team played to their potential more than any team I've coached. Being Valley League Champs etc. etc. etc.....!"

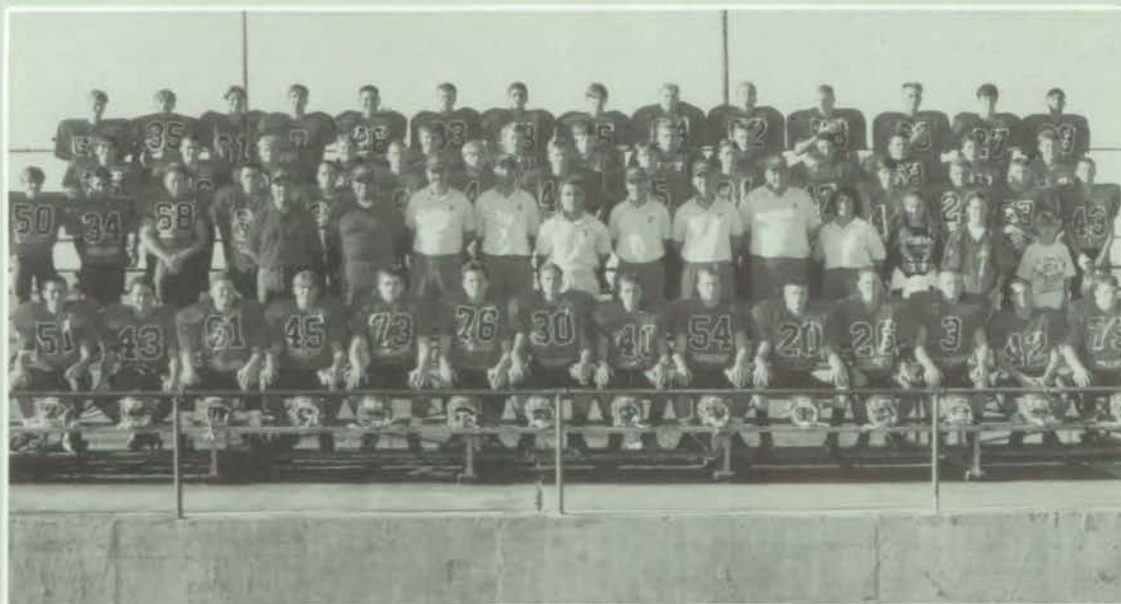

Like in any sport, teamwork played a big part in varsity football this year. Each player knew that if for some reason they could not carry out a play, their teammates would come through for them.

The most memorable moment for the Warriors was, without a doubt, the feelings they had after they came back to beat Crescent Valley 27 to 21, taking our team to State Playoffs. Matt Marteny added, "The bond and brotherhood that the team felt after we beat C.V. for the League Championships, is something none of us are likely to forget."

Unfortunately, our Warriors lost against a tough team from Thurston in the first round of state. Thurston advanced to the semi-finals of the state tournament before being defeated.

Interfering In A Pass, Junior Ty Tomlin covers his opponent well. Tomlin played his position as tight end with dedication and a firm determination that held him and the team through the season.

Ripping Through The Spirit Banner, the Varsity Warriors often began the second half plowing onto the field. This was used to pump up the crowd's enthusiasm and motivate the players.

Snagging A Pass, Junior Kent Vandiver takes the ball to the end zone for a touch down over Crescent Valley. Warriors defeated their opponent bringing them to the State Championship playoffs and a Valley League title.

Looking For An Open Receiver, Senior Ryan George charges forward. George was a valuable part of the Varsity team being chosen first team all league quarterback.

"There is no 'I' in team." Lebanon shows the meaning of this as they team up against Thurston in our first playoff game. When Scott Rhine was asked how the Warriors rated in teamwork he replied, "We knew we could win any game, but only if we were to come together as a team."

Stunning Underclassmen

Skillful Newcomers Swept Up The Fields

Practice paid off for the freshman football team. After losing their first game, they returned to the field to win eight straight. The young Warriors ended their first high school season sitting atop the rest of the league with an incredible 8-1 record.

Led by hard hitting defense and an extremely potent offense, these young players ran and passed their opponents right off the field. By the season's end, they had piled up an astounding 40 points per game average. Needless to say, the school and community alike will be closely watching this group of young men as they mature in their skills.

After Their Last Home Game, the freshman team proudly presents themselves to the spectators. Their season has been described as a "sneak peek" to future Lebanon football.

Taking Down A Rebel, Gage Smiley gets aggressive while Joey Sharman rushes in to ensure the tackle.

Dodging His Opponent, B.J. Dobrkovsky attempts to score a touchdown. In their first year the freshmen team established their status with the school and community.

"It was hard work and good experience. In the end it all pays off."

Tough Practices But Harder Games

All The Right Pieces But A Complicated Puzzle

Tough competition is something any Junior Varsity football player can tell you about. This year's team had potential, what they were lacking was teamwork.

"We had teamwork in two of our nine games," states a sophomore Nathan Bailey, "The other games were played individually."

The desire and ability was there, but the motivation was not. When Kris Judy was asked what he would remember about this team ten years from now, he replied, "I will remember how much we wanted to win but wouldn't work for it."

While some of the players will move up to Varsity next year, others will continue to play for J.V. Either way, they will carry important lessons with them, such as working together and contributing to the team.

Running The Ball, sophomore Ben Stearns sprints toward the end zone as sophomore Steve Palomo helps him out by blocking. Both players had personal goals of doing their best and improving individually.

An Important Part of teamwork is bonding. These players demonstrate the bond that they have made over a hard season.

Ready And Roaring, The Junior Varsity takes off to challenge an opponent in a rough game. J.V. had tough competition this year.

A Challenging Season

SOCCER

Tougher Opponents

The Varsity boys soccer team started out their season with a new coach and high hopes. The 95-96 season began with a smashing start. The players were all looking forward to competing in the tough Valley League, but as the season went on, the competition got tougher.

Goals became hard to come by making the players push and strive all the harder. By the season's end, they had given it their all and brought respect back to Lebanon soccer with three wins.

John Sherman, who completed his last year of soccer, stated, "Even though we didn't have a winning season, we had fun losing."

Receiving The Ball, senior Evan Myoye fights to make a goal against the tough Crescent Valley team. The ending score, at 0 to 4, didn't fairly reflect the hard work and effort the Warrior boys gave to the game.

Dancing Around The Opposing Player, junior J.J. Westby shows his stuff. J.J. received the Most Improved Player Award because of his efforts which resulted in him making the varsity team his first year on the field.

Taking Time Out, junior J.J. Westby waves at the camera, letting everyone know Lebanon is number one, as teammate Luke Bjornsted and friends discuss the game.

Racing To Keep Possession of the ball, senior John Sherman momentarily controls the game from his forward position. John was a great asset to this year's varsity team.

A Season To Build

S O C C E R

Gaining Valuable Experience

Gaining valuable experience was a high priority of the J.V. boys' season. They worked hard and gave their best every game. By the season's end, their work paid off with a well earned win over Crook County, resulting in their first victory in six years.

The team not only practiced hard, but had a lot of fun. The players were full of good humor, often playing jokes on each other. A highlight of the season occurred on the way to a Salem game when Coach George caught a teenager breaking into a car and stopped him. With experience and a win under their belt, the J.V. team has a strong future ahead of them.

Going In For The Steal, Sophomore Jeremy Howard takes advantage of the moment, while the opposing player takes a spill.

Passing To A Teammate, Sophomore Aaron Brodrick avoids a Crescent Valley players. Quick thinking proved to be one of the essential skills used by the team.

Rising Talent

On The Tide To Excellence

The girls J.V. soccer team started out having a rough time, but as the season progressed, they moved up the scale of excellence towards becoming a better team and working together as a result.

Sophomore Amy Dukes, a forward, commented, "Some really great stuff happened, and the bus trips got pretty exciting, but we paid for it later by running two miles and getting an ear full from the coach."

The girls did an excellent job of improving their skills and gave even the toughest teams a run for their money. Morale started high and continued to grow as the team became closer. During the daily doubles on scorching summer days and the muddy fields in late fall, the J.V. girls continued to look on the positive side and have fun.

With the majority of the team being made up of Freshman and only a few Varsity spots open for next year, the J.V. team for this upcoming year will contain many familiar faces. They will be depended upon to teach the incoming Freshmen not only about the game, but also about Warrior Pride and teamwork.

Just Kick it! Sophomores Amy Dukes and Cindy Keizer take a quick time-out to give a "Thumbs Up!" Amy Dukes was the leading goal scorer for the team. Cyndi Keizer did an awesome job playing halfback and was a great offensive player!

Sprinting For The Ball, Sophomore Shannon Alley races past a player from the opposing team. Shannon was an alternate between the Varsity and J.V. team.

Ripping Up The Fields

Forgetting It's Only A Game

With every game, these soccer craving bunch of wild, Warrior girls went out to tear up the field and have a great time doing it. This year's Varsity team went to their games filled with pride, win or lose. Coach Steve Atkinson stated that he is very proud of his girls, who had one of the best seasons in the history of Lebanon girls' soccer.

Their competitive attitude and hard work left them undefeated in pre-season games. Their determination continued and the team earned the honor of being ranked fourth in league.

Getting Ready To Tear Into North Salem, Sophomore Holly Taylor displays her valuable defensive talent. Holly, who has played Varsity since her freshman year, was named All League Honorable Mention.

Stealing the Ball, Junior Beth Nixon pumps up the intensity in a 0-0 tied game against North Salem. As a third year Varsity soccer player, Beth was recognized for her outstanding defensive skills and received the honor of being named Second Team All League.

Sending The Ball over North Salem opponents, Junior Hillary Townsend displays her soccer talent. Both teams were extremely competitive and well matched, ending the game in a 0-0 tie.

Hard At Work, Coach Steve Atkinson advises his girls on how to get the job done. His excellent coaching formed a foundation which led the girls to a winning season. Atkinson was very proud of this year's team.

Running The Distance

Ready, set, GO!

Rain or shine, in sickness or in health, the Warrior long distance runners put their mind and body on the tracks and trails that they had to overcome. Throughout the season, their strength and determination paid off, win or lose.

Many members received academic awards for earning grade point averages above a 3.25 or above. Apparently, the discipline they learned on the courses was an ability they brought into the classroom as well. This created a good reflection on their coach, science teacher Marty Dannen—who at one time during the season was jokingly accused of excessive cruelty to his runners.

The Most Outstanding Runner award was given to Renee Growcock and Jason Curtis. Rachel Knight and Marcos Oseguera received Most Improved.

Focusing On The Finish, junior Rachel Knight concentrates intently on the steps ahead as she completes the path to the awaited finish line. Rachel's hard work was recognized when she was given the award of Most Improved.

Gaining Ground, sophomore Sean Leuhning strives diligently to stay ahead while running the tough East Linn course. Overall, the '95 J.V. Boys Cross Country team did well, creating a foundation for Lebanon in the next few years.

Setting The Pace, junior Dawn Grimes trots along the path at Waterloo Park. The main goal at the meets among Lebanon runners included placing in the top ten finishers and beating their personal bests.

VOLLEYBALL

Soaring Above 'em All

With the playoffs at their finger tips and the ball inches from the ground with every play, this year's Varsity spirit led the team to one of their best seasons ever. Not knowing the outcome of the tough league, Coach Steve Speth expected the best from his well chosen players. They were all over the court with every muscle being stretched to the limits and the crowd going wild with every point. "We had an outstanding season," said a pleased Coach Speth after making it to the third round in Pre-State.

Airborne, Junior Tami Shimmin hits a tough outside shot as Seniors Jamie Miller and Julie Sharman along with Junior Jennifer Gabel cover for a returning block. Shimmin had 38 kills on the season. Tami was noted as an honorable mention to the All League 1995 Players list and one of the four Dig Leaders on Varsity this year.

Concentrating, Senior Christy Schwartzengraber serves one of her aces to lead the team with 54 in the season. Schwartzengraber served 83% on the season with 144 service points. Christy was named to the First Team All League 1995 Players list with 5 aces and 12 points in separate games.

Coach Steve Speth explained the reasons for their success: "We were getting the ball on defense. We were making passes. We were getting the ball to our setter and she was coming through for us. We got the ball to our hitters better than we have for a long, long time."

Consistency by Senior Jamie Miller assisted the team to generate plays during the Warriors' season. Miller was named to the Second Team All League 1995 Players list as a defensive specialist. Jamie was one of four "Defensive Maniacs" as Coach Speth called them.

Stretching the Limits, Junior Jennifer Gabel flattens the ball against the South Salem Saxons. Gabel recorded the season's best with 20 kills in one game against McNary. Jennifer was named to the First Team All League 1995 Players list with 322 kills during the season.

Lebanon High School's Varsity Volleyball team calls a time-out to pull things together. The lady Warriors placed third in Valley League with a 12 - 6 record. Overall they were 25 - 11 losing their last game to a tough Marshfield team in the third round of Pre-State.

Better Than Ever

Returning Freshmen had high hopes for another record breaking season, but nothing prepared them for the new league they were entering. With the skills possessed by the returning J.V.'s, and the desire to learn expressed by their new teammates, this year's J.V. Volleyball team had their most successful year in Lebanon's history. They surpassed their opponents, most of the time more than once, and ended the season with a 16-2 record in league.

Hard Hittin', Sophomore Rachel Lee smashes a cross-court kill during a game versus McNary. Lee had 67 kills during their 16-2 season. Rachel led the team in kills and was one of the dominating players on offense.

Lebanon's J.V. Volleyball team takes advantage of their opponent's time-out. Meanwhile, Sprague unsuccessfully planned their attack on our Warriors. Lebanon defeated the Olympians in two matches at home.

Never Say Die

VOLLEYBALL

Establishing Their Ground

After a slow start, losing eight out of nine matches, the Freshman Volleyball team rebounded back and finished the season strong, winning eight out of their last nine.

Refusing to give up, this bunch of girls never quit. Rather than get discouraged, they worked all the harder, and found themselves doing things right. They kept good attitudes in the midst of trying times...and it paid off.

In the true Warrior spirit, they defeated would be champions North Salem twice, thus effectively spoiling their bid for the title. Lebanon's volleyball future looks bright with these young upstarts who, despite all the odds, never gave up.

Schmackkkk It! Rachel Hoover lets fly an ace of a serve. Strong serving was a crucial element to the girls' recovery. Camille Stearns and Bobbie McKinney led the team in serving.

Bonus Bump. Kara Frey gets down for the bump and pops the ball up for a set to the front row while Hoover and McKinney look on. After the set will come the spike.

Reaching Great Heights

Building The Spirit

With the crowd on its feet, and seconds left in an action packed game, anyone present would feel the surge of excitement. No one, however, could truly feel the energy of an ecstatic crowd or the pride of a winning team more than the cheerleaders.

The thirteen girls which made up the varsity fall Cheerleading squad experienced this feeling, and it drove them to near perfection, achieved during countless practices. Time paid off when the squad combined experience and talent to reach new heights in stunting and overall enthusiasm, which was contagious to the crowd.

Performing at Red and White Night, two halftimes, and two pep assemblies were just the cap of the fall season, which began for the cheerleaders with practice in July. They also cheered on the Warriors at volleyball games, pep assemblies, and public events, such as the DARE rally.

The individual and team talent of the squad was recognized at camp, when Lebanon received a bid to Nationals, a Safety Award, and a Spirit Stick. Seniors Amy Barnes and Heather Crockett-Washington, and junior Karen Bryan were selected to the NCA team and traveled to Hawaii over Christmas break, where they cheered at the Aloha Bowl.

The close of the fantastic season ended with the Cheerleading Awards Banquet, where outstanding squad members were recognized. Such members included senior Heather Crockett-Washington, who received Most Inspirational and Coaches Award, sophomore Rebecca Newell, with Most Spirited and Most Improved, and senior Amy Barnes, who was the only member of the squad to earn the plaque given to graduating four year cheerleaders.

Bursting With Excitement, the varsity cheerleaders pump up the crowd with their season cheer "We're Back." The routine, designed by the squad, contained stunts, jumps, and motions which took hours to perfect, and wowed spectators when performed at events such as pep assemblies, half times, and Red and White night.

Far Above The Crowd, senior Amy Barnes executes a defensive chant while being base in a full extension press by her teammates. Amy was the only four year cheerleader this year, having three years of varsity experience.

Huddling Together, the varsity cheerleaders endure the cold during a football car rally. The rally, consisting of students and parents, wished the team good luck before heading to Crescent Valley for the last game of the season. After Winning the game our hardworking football team became Valley League Champs and were on their way to the state playoffs.

Flying High, sophomore Amber Angerstein and junior Kelly Davis execute flawless star jumps during the crowd's favorite cheer, IS. Both Amber and Kelly were first year varsity cheerleaders, as was the rest of the young squad.

Though the 1996 winter cheerleading squad did not have quantity, the young squad made up for it in quality. Composed of seven first year varsity members and a new coach, the squad strived for success, putting in 100% every moment. Between two games a week and practices on the remaining days, their hard work was obvious to all those watching.

Though the long season was often strenuous on both the cheerleaders and the teams, moments of victory made it all worth while. "Cheering from November to February was an overwhelming demanding commitment, especially when you add it on to football season, and summer long practices. However, having a packed crowd going wild, such as the games against West Albany, made the season seem short," stated sophomore cheerleader Rebecca Newell, who was voted Most Spirited.

Others receiving awards, which are voted on by the squad, were Kelly Kelso, who received Most Improved, and Wendy Walnum, who earned the honor of both Most Inspirational and Coaches Award.

Stirring The Crowd, the varsity cheerleaders display their spirit with a victory cheer. Time-outs consisted of crowd involving chants and stunts designed to pump up both the team and the students.

Performing Perfection, the 1995-1996 varsity basketball cheerleading squad shows the crowd that hard work does pay off as they end their cheer with difficult stunts. The squad choreographed the cheer for half times and pep assemblies.

As the year draws to a close, we must recognize the loss of one of our most talented coaches. Lydia Bryan has been the varsity cheerleading coach for the last three years, putting in not only time, but dedication and love. She has brought the status of cheerleading from an afterschool activity to a recognized sport, always pushing her squads to their full potential.

Her outstanding coaching was recognized not only by the cheerleaders, but by other coaches, resulting in her nomination for Coach Of The Year. Her "girls", as she fondly calls them, are witnesses to her love for the sport, and set their standard of coaching by her examples.

Lydia Bryan may be retiring from coaching cheerleading, but her legacy will long be remembered. She is truly the kind of coach every sport needs. We will all miss her.

Pumping Up The Crowd

Rocking The Stands

Starting from scratch, the 1995 junior varsity cheerleaders began the season with enthusiasm and raw talent. All first year cheerleaders, they made up their lack of experience with pride and dedication. Strengths gradually overcame individual weaknesses and the Warrior girls grew confident with their newly learned skills.

At U of O cheerleading camp, the hard work of earlier practices paid off, and the team swept the competition, winning the Top JV Team Award and a Spirit Stick. September brought the beginning of a new school year, and the terrifying, yet exciting event of cheering at the first game.

The team of eight cheered for both JV and varsity football games, learning from the experience of the varsity through respect and competition. "Though the practices and fundraisers of the summer got really tiring, it brought us all together. Despite the occasional disagreements, we ended the season pretty good friends," said sophomore Caron Garlinghouse, who was voted Most Improved for the fall season.

Others receiving awards were freshman Amy Garlinghouse, with Most Spirited and Coaches Award, and freshman Amy O'Berry, who was voted Most Inspirational.

Even though camp consisted of long, hot days, and we got on each others nerves, it brought us closer together as a team, and we all became better friends.

Peaking At Perfection, the JV cheerleaders flawlessly perform an extension prep. Freshman flier Amy Garlinghouse was voted Most Spirited by her teammates and received the Coaches Award for the season. Other awards were given to freshman Amy O'Berry, who received Most Inspirational, and sophomore Caron Garlinghouse, who received Most Improved.

Heads Held High, the JV cheerleading team performs a chant to encourage their team during a tight game. Rain or shine, their spirit and enthusiasm contributed to pumping up their team. Looking back at the weather, sophomore Corinne May stated "Finally, we convinced our coaches to buy us gloves because our hands were always frozen."

With Unbelievable Height, sophomore Jenny McClain executes a side hurdler. Jenny was a strong tribute to the team and was voted Most Spirited during basketball season.

Reaching Great Heights, the JV cheerleaders show their strength with an extension press. The squad was made up of four sophomores, all first year cheerleaders, and freshman Misty Prizner, who began basketball season with five years of previous cheerleading experience.

Though small in numbers, the Fabulous Five made up for it in enthusiasm, talent, and drive. Made up of four sophomores, each with one season's experience under their belt, and a freshman, who had five years of previous experience, the JV cheerleading team set and exceeded their goals.

The team started their season in November and worked hard for the next three months, earning the respect of the crowd and their classmates. With an unsurpassable skill for stunting, the JV team focused on varsity stunts, such as basket tosses and full extension presses.

Due recognition was given at the cheerleading awards banquet, where freshman Misty Prizner received Most Inspirational and Coaches Award. Sophomore Jodi Keeling was voted Most Improved, and sophomore Jenny McClain received Most Spirited.

Standing At Attention, the Lebanon JV and varsity cheerleaders perform the National Anthem ritual. During the last few games, junior varsity performed the team introduction with varsity, and the teams often mixed for stunts.

Living On a Prayer

Our Prayers Have Been Answered

They were livin' on a prayer, and they went out in a blaze of glory.

With only eleven out of twenty-five returning members, spirits were low, but they rose fast. With a fourth place trophy in hand, the team came home from their first competition with perseverance in their hearts and determination in their eyes.

These hard-working girls and Gabe devoted many hours, days, and weekends practicing for the competitions ahead. The team took the challenge head on resulting in great rewards by bringing home two second places, one third place, and one fourth place trophy. This team was on their way. Of course, this sport had to fund itself. Lots of fund-raising went into it all year long-- including the first annual dance clinic.

Funding was not the only problem for the team. There were other "bumps" along the road. By the time state rolled around, this team of twenty-five had dwindled down to twenty-one--just enough dancers to be in a larger division. Being in the 4A Large Division involved a lot more commitment to the team. Although the team did make it to the final round, they did not place at state. This was upsetting, but they competed well and accomplished their goal of making it to the final round.

See Ya! The "Explosion" hits their finishing pose. The "Explosion" performed during halftime at basketball games. This gave the team a chance to show off before a home crowd.

Goodbye is Hard to say. Seniors Gabe Grossman and Heather Crockett-Washington leave with smiles.

Gabe was an inspirational captain this year. Being the only guy on the team, he left his shoulder open to all of his sisters.

Heather, a 3 year captain, won numerous honors this year including the following: All-American at the NCA Dance Camp, and First All State team for the 4A division. She was also featured on the cover of the OSAA State Dance program. At the awards banquet she was voted Most Valuable Dancer two years in a row by her teammates.

We will miss you Gabe and Heather!!!

Good Friends and Good Times! Sophomores Jill Anderlik and Sarah Bultena show us that even when you're not performing, football games can be a blast.

Powerful Competiton

Talent vs. Experience

Strutting his Stuff during warm-ups, junior Ty Tomlin jogs away from a well executed lay-up. Tomlin was a strong defensive wing for the varsity team.

Exerting for Two, senior Brent Dukes soars up over the defense to sink a shot for the Warriors. Dukes was always inside the game with strength and skills.

Exploding Through the Defense, junior Kent Vandiver gets hammered as he lays one in for two. Varsity used Vandiver for his ability to get down the floor quickly. Kent played point guard and was a strong ball handler during the season.

Poised in Mid-Air, senior Brian Tol stops and pops for a long jumper. Tol led the team in points scored with 238 over the season. "He was our 'Go-To Guy,'" stated coach Buglione.

As a varsity head coach you have a desire to win. Even with a group of talented athletes, going against one of the strongest leagues in state made it tough for a young team to succeed.

In an old league, the team found their pride before each game to fight for a victory. Though few games led to triumph, the guys gathered their composure and walked away winners in their hearts. "The players had a lot to learn this year with a new system," recollected coach Joe Buglione at the season's end. "It became frustrating for players during the year, but they did get better."

With a callow team in the mature valley league, which sent four teams to state, anyone would have liked to have done better against these teams. As four graduate and six return next year, the team is sure to make progress.

After his first year coaching varsity, coach Buglione sounds confident in the growth for next year. "We were a young team in an old league. I'm hoping to keep making improvements."

Swift yet Cunningly, junior Joe Knapp executes an ideal jump shot during a fast break. Knapp contributed advanced shooting abilities to the varsity team. "We needed him to be shooting," mentioned coach Buglione.

Challenging his Rival, sophomore Jeff Ruth informs the team of the next play, as he proceeds to pass his opponent during a full court press. Ruth provided proficient point guard skills and an inspiring touch to the game. Jeff was exceptionally well at running the floor.

Extending for Success, senior Brian Tol exerts himself to the limits for a banked in two. Tol led the team in almost every category. Brian played hard as a strong post and was the team's power on offense and defense.

Block Out! Rebounding was the most aggressive part of the Warriors game. With intense elbowing below the net, the ball bounced around the rim for what seemed forever. As the "Big Man," Brian Tol led the team with the most rebounds during the season.

A Young Team Strives For Success

Working the Defense, freshman Ryan Cash attempts to maneuver around his opponent for a chance at two. Cash was the starting guard and led the team in steals, points, and points averaged. Ryan was a big contribution to the J.V.'s successful season by coming through in the last seconds, whether it be a three, two, or a free throw, for the

As the clock runs down, and with a timeout called, the team ambitiously searches for the strength to win. With seconds remaining the game relied on talent and teamwork. Many of their games were won or lost in the last nerve wrenching seconds. This repeated tension resulted in the nickname of "The Cardiac Kids." They averaged nineteen of their 60.3 points per game in the fourth quarter with a total of 1327 points over the season.

"Their game improved dramatically as a team, as they neared the end of the season," stated coach Jerry Cash. "One very good trait the team had was that they never gave up." With seven of their eleven victories won in the last half of the season, they proved that, "They came together at the end of the season to play their best games as a team."

Think Fast! Junior Ryan Quigley fires a pass to teammate junior Steve Cripe. Quigley was a strong defensive player as well as on offense. Ryan was the third leader in block shots with 13.

Pulling it Together, Lebanon's J.V. squad calls a timeout to regroup for a comeback in the fourth quarter. Teamwork was the team's best skill in the last minutes of the game. They were known as "The Cardiac Kids" for this reason.

"We achieved more than people thought we would."

Earning Their Respect

Shooting 500 with Pride

As the freshmen team enters the locker room at the half, they are down by ten. The group pulls together to seek the pride and skills in which they won with in the game before. This special teamwork helped them come back and tie the game in the fourth quarter. Even if they weren't able to win, the guys still played with heart.

Everyone contributed to the season, whether it be Sean Miller for three, Andy Funk with a rebound, or Jordan Ford on the drive and a dish. They played hard and together as a team.

They are looking forward to the future and what it may hold. As the upcoming varsity, they have a good chance of recreating a name for Lebanon's basketball program.

How Sweet It Is!! Freshman Sean Miller glides up to the hoop for two after a steal at their opponents end. Miller contributed his shooting skills with an average of 11.3 points in twenty games. Sean led the team with thirteen points in this game. The guys went on to win sixty-five to fifty on Corvallis' home court.

With Brute Strength, freshmen Andy Funk gets pounded and still manages to score two for the Warriors. Funk always had his head in the game and contributed durability below the net.

Endurance To The End

Going All The Way

With stands full, pressure building, and anticipation high, our girls hit the court this year with a sense of confidence they built in the early season. They were ready to conquer their opponents and make their way into playoffs.

With these goals in mind, they took their skills and abilities to the point of triumph and defeated team after team, winning the last six most important games of their season.

"It's all good! I like it when I'm not double teamed. But it's something you just have to deal with."

--Jennifer Gabel

Beating West Albany for the seniors' last home game was a very emotional, high-strung game that got the rowdy crowd involved in chants that encouraged the team to do their best. With this victory came a tiebreaker game that would determine which team would take the 4th playoff spot.

A proud coach, Mr. Benedict commented, "The girls finished strong and really started coming together as a team. We will miss the seniors and their leadership and look forward to having the nucleus of the team come back next year."

Blocking The Offense, juniors Karen Bryan and Jennifer Gabel assisted by sophomore Carrie Wilson hold the opponent at bay.

Racing Down The Sideline, senior Lana Miller glances back to receive the ball. Miller was voted Most Inspirational on the team.

With A Flick Of The Wrist, junior Karen Bryan sinks her jump shot. Bryan was the leading rebounder and was a contributor to the team's success.

Waiting For The Rebound, Juniors Tami Shimmin and Jennifer Gabel anxiously await the falling ball. Gabel was a valued player on the varsity team holding a school record for most points scored in one game. Shimmin was voted Most Improved this year.

Unquestionable Commitment

BASKETBALL

Talented Team Takes It To The Top

The J.V. Girls Basketball team is unquestionably committed to the game of basketball. The girls had an extremely powerful team that played successfully in offense, defense, and rebounds.

The team was well-balanced with each girl contributing their own part through out the year. The Warrior Ladies were proud to say "Win or lose, we had fun playing the games." Although confusion among the team came every now and then—like attempting to score for the opposing team—overall the girls excelled on the court and romped on team after team in route to snagging second place in the district with a 13-5 league record.

A Free For All. sophomores Melinda Prince and Beth Schuld show no fear diving for a loose ball while Kindel Warren moves in to help. It was efforts like these that made the team a success.

Scrambling for a fast break, sophomore Rachel Schuld becomes tripped up in all the commotion by a Thurston team member. Rachel had a successful year playing both JV and varsity. Schuld led the team with total points scored and points averaged per game during the season.

■ Every point counts. Junior Kendel Waren sets up for a free throw shot against Canby in a game the Warriors walked away victors, 51-43.

Working Together

BASKETBALL

Dedication Makes It All Worth While

Off to a slow start, the freshman girls' basketball team soon improved their skills and began to work together as a unit--and then the wins started rolling in.

Crashing the boards was Lori Zucker. Knocking in the shots from the outside was Lindsey Fountain and Malia Terkelsen. Jennifer Grinner was all hands on defense while Carley Harris exhibited no fear whatsoever on the court. Coach Mundy honored her with the "Crash Helmet Award" due to her exuberance and all out hustle on and off the court.

Near the season's end, Fountain and Terkelsen were moved up to junior varsity from the freshman team. The wins were a little harder to come by afterwards, but the girls never gave up in their quest for greatness. This was proved by their record of seventeen wins and only five losses.

The girls had a good season and are looking forward to future Warrior seasons.

Getting to the Point. Lori Zucker shoots to score after being fouled.

Looking for an open teammate, freshman Katie Soltau makes her move in the red and white game.

Making A Splash

A Dive Into Action

At the sound of the horn, they are off. Like horses from their starting gates, they spring off of their blocks, diving into the depths below. The Warrior swim team submerges into uncharted waters searching for a win. Swimming fast and furiously for the finish line, the athletes must not give up. This is when the long afternoon practices of conditioning and strengthening kick in. Even razors are used to increase speed, for the skin of a swimmer must be sleek.

With a new coach and eleven returning swimmers, it became a rebuilding year for the young Warriors. As for returning member, Andrew Myrtue, he went to state.

Bursting Through the Water, Senior Shawn Hazen explodes for the finish line. A transfer from Eastern Oregon, Shawn was a welcome addition to this year's team. In addition to individual events, he participated on several relay teams.

Ready to Explode, Chuck Agosto and Ryan Purser are poised and ready for action. Getting off to a quick start is important to every swimmer.

Full Arm Extension. Powering his way through the water, Todd Juhnke exerts his strength in the breast stroke.

Still Smiling. Clair Luna takes a moment to relax and look a photo in between races. Swimmers often spent the tense moments between races joking with one another.

WRESTLING Ultimate Ironmen

Two Boys Enter, One Man Leaves....

Heart pounding, sweat dripping, stepping forward, facing off, whistle blows, adrenaline rush, focus in.....SHOOT!!

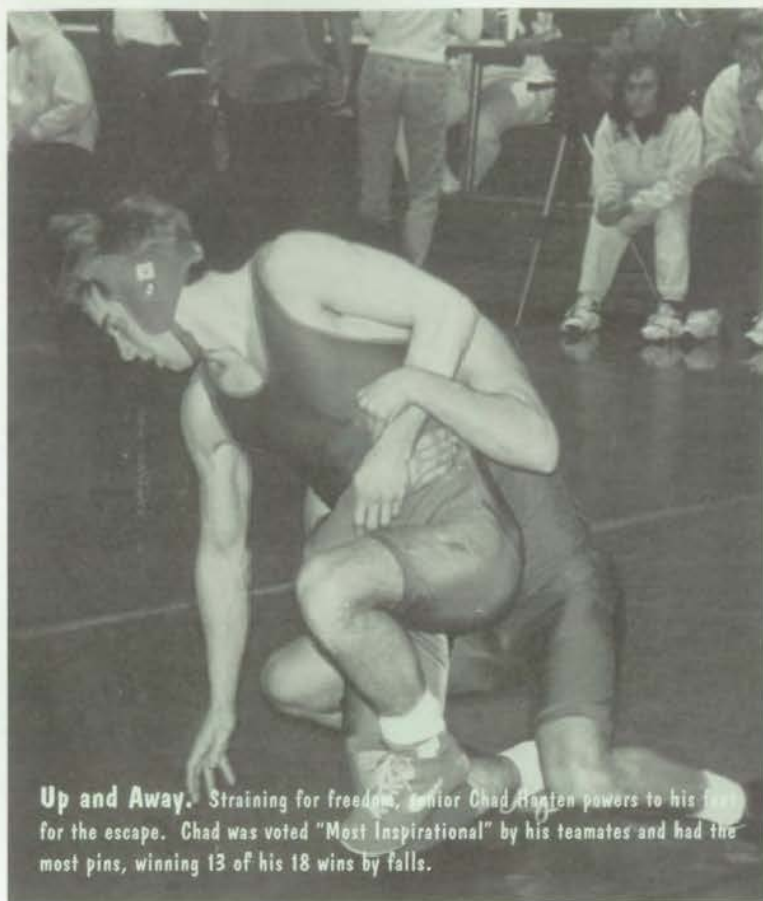

Another season loomed ahead and with only four seniors on the team, the young wrestlers were forced to create experience instead of draw from it. From the very first second in the very first match, they met the opposition with determination, hard work, and a desire to be on top.

The team of thirty wrestlers competed in 546 total matches during the year and more often than not, succeeded in giving their opponents a run for their money. Their success was due to the physically challenging practices. It was not uncommon to find the team running stair laps, early before school each morning, to sweat the pounds off. Every practice required perseverance and sweat soaked warm-ups to prepare each individual for that one match that seemed to go on forever.

This grueling season eliminated all but the most dedicated and only TIME determined the "ironmen."

Hard at Work? Relaxing between matches at State, junior Matt Simpson kicks it with Coaches Jeff Moseman and Bob Clark. Matt was an energetic wrestler and was one of just two wrestlers that made it to State championships. He also shared the title of Most Valuable Wrestler with Steve Weischedel, who also qualified for the State tournament.

Up and Away. Straining for freedom, senior Chad Hanten powers to his feet for the escape. Chad was voted "Most Inspirational" by his teammates and had the most pins, winning 13 of his 18 wins by falls.

The Warrior. Working his way behind his opponent, senior Steve Weischedel grapples for a move called "The Warrior." Steve placed third at districts and competed well at the state playoffs.

5 Point Move. Tying his opponent in knots, junior Kyle Moyer hangs on for the referee to count the near falls. Kyle was a consistent second varsity point scorer.

Shall We Dance? Locked in head to head combat, senior Jerry Black maneuvers in for his "Black Attack." Jerry was a consistent point scorer. He placed fourth in districts and was one of Lebanon's top wrestlers.

Hello? Anyone There? Taking (another) break, freshman Joey Sharman wanders around between matches loosening his teammates up with his antics. Joey, wrestling mostly second varsity, was always the matroom cut-up. He was also the highest point scorer in team points as well as in laughs!

Going To KFC. Straining for his position, senior Ryan Bloom goes for the "Chicken Wing" hold to turn his opponent. Ryan wrestled all four years of high school and finished the season placing 6th in districts.

Wimps Need Not Apply

Speed and Strength Required

Up Tyler Hill, down the runways, in the weight room, out practicing, around the track, running the bleachers....all of this constituted a typical track workout. No one was left sitting around, if they were, they had the standard workout plus EXTRA conditioning. The coaches saw to it that, with TIME, whiners became workers and wimps became Warriors.

The season began in heavy showers with a chance of thunder storms. Practices and meets were cold and soggy, but the Warrior spirit prevailed and the team took on a competitive attitude.

The season continued with light rains and patches of sunshine. With the weather clearing, the team took the opportunity to excel and challenge their limits. They prepared and anticipated for the end of the season where their skills would be put to the ultimate test at Districts. The weather did not improve and as track season came to a close. All the TIME that had been spent in training paid off. The Warriors sent half of its team to the District Track Meet and twenty of the participants came back with PR's. The group may have been small in number, but they had great heart.

Standing With The Champs, sophomore Brianne Barnes takes 3rd place at Districts. Brianne competed well all season and more times than not, finished in the top three places.

With A Mighty Heave, freshman Lori Zuker launches the shot put into the pit. Lori participated at Districts and was the League's first ranked freshman. During the season, she also succeeded in breaking Heidi Fisk's freshman shot put record by more than a foot!

Aiming High, sophomore Abe Wheeler prepares to hurl the javelin into the sky. Abe was a consistent placer and gave the competition someone to reckon with. He was often heard singing songs to pass the time in practice and was famous for his "Chickie" song.

Popping Off The Board, junior Kent Vandiver proves that gravity does not exist for a split second. Kent was involved in four events and had the difficult job of juggling them during the meets. He excelled in the long jump and enjoyed competing in that event.

Pausing Between Races, junior Jason Curtis pals around with seniors Raphael Ortiz and Randy Fuller. Jason and Raphael ran the grueling long distance races while Randy took on the difficult 400 meter races. All three guys competed with determination and stamina.

Head Over Heels, freshman Amanda Stanko arches over the bar. Amanda was a consistent jumper, but excelled in the pole vault. She set and then re-set the school record for pole vault. She was involved in four events that included high jump, pole vault, triple jump, and the 1600 meter relay.

Spiked For Districts, junior Luke Bjornsted tries to stay focused for the varsity 4 X 100 meter relay race. The entire team also included juniors T.J. Tomlin and Kent Vandiver and freshman Gene Benneth. They spent many, many practices perfecting the timing and marking their steps. The team finished 8th at Districts.

Making Her Move, senior Renee Growcock runs down her competition at the invitational meet in North Salem. Renee ran with the long distance crew and concentrated on the 3000 meter run. Finishing strong at Districts, she gave her competition a run for their money...literally!

Loosening Up Before A Race, junior Hillary Townsend prepares physically and mentally for the challenging race ahead. Hillary specialized in hurdles and was one of the League's top contenders at the District meet this year. She ended the season with a strong finish at Districts by placing 8th in the 110 meter hurdles.

Huddled Around A Schedule, senior Randy Fuller and juniors Jason Curtis and Jarred Clark try to determine when their events are taking place. Districts were a confusing time for those who hadn't been to the meet before and several participants had trouble juggling events.

1996 TRACK TEAM

Defying the Odds

16 years of Determination

After sixteen years of recreating a playoff team, a varsity head coach's dream comes true. The last time Lebanon attended a playoff game, most of today's athletes were tots, just learning the fundamentals of life.

"There will be a chance of scattered showers throughout the day." That's one sentence baseball players got tired of hearing. The season got off to a rough start with numerous rain outs. Though some were forced to be played on a dreary day, very few were finished. Several games had to be made up on Saturdays. Even their playoff game was cancelled for a day. The season finally ended with the Warriors in fourth place, in the Valley League, earning a playoff birth.

Lebanon High sent a group of talented young adults to the state playoffs. Facing a tough southern Oregon team, Grants Pass, made the guys want to win more than ever. As five seniors left the squad this year, it made it even tougher to take the defeat.

With teamwork and dedication the team reached a goal many opponents feared - a winning season.

Straining for Speed, senior Brent Dukes uses every muscle to blow one by the batter for a strike. Brent was a well rounded player with average stats in all the categories. Dukes played outfield and pitched from the mound during the season.

Shortening the Distance, senior Brian Tol stretches himself for the out at first. Brian was one of the main pitchers and also played first base. Tol had the third best batting average on varsity with a .286 during the season.

Giving it his All, junior Jason Richardson makes a clean cut for the connection in a close game. Jason started as varsity shortstop and earned every right for that position. Richardson was known to come through in tough situations for the team.

Laying Down a Sweet Bunt, junior Mason Richardson sacrifices himself for a run made by Ryan George. In tight competitions Coach Stolsig was known to attempt the sacrifice for the win. Mason played outfield for varsity in his first year.

Hold 'em!! The Warriors huddled together to hold their opponent for the win. The Warriors' stats showed that as a team they did well overall in each category. The team had a .282 batting average with only 142 strike outs of 811 at bats.

In a Cloud of Dust, junior Levi Gill tags the runner with the tag a few feet from home plate. Levi made the All Valley League second team as varsity catcher. Gill did well defensively as well as offensively, with some massive hits including 2 homeruns, 2 triples, and 5 doubles.

Hanging in for the Out, senior Ryan George gets plowed over but clings on to the ball for the out. Ryan led in 7 of the 13 categories including the best batting average at .516 and 6 homeruns. George was also named Valley League Player of the Year.

Batting 5000 Overall

Making an Even Cut at the Competition

A frustrating, gloomy season left this year's J.V. guys more experienced and better skilled than the year before. There are many positions open with many players leaving the varsity team. Their abilities combined with the will to learn should allow them to do well at the next level-VARSITY.

A Powerful Surge of Energy from junior Zak Brewer gave the Warrior's a 0 and 2 count on the fourth batter in a tight game. The Warrior's had many pitchers on this years team. Their main starters were Brewer and freshman Jason Pointer.

Colliding for the Out, sophomores Ben Stearns and Ben Poole aggressively go after a pop fly that was fouled off the opponent's bat. Both Stearns and Poole were dedicated to this year's season and never gave up.

Sacrificing Time For Triumph

Giving the Competition a Run for Their Money

Teamwork Counts as the second baseman freshman Jordan Ford fires a throw to teammate freshman Adam Grenz, at first, for the out. Ford was one of the most valuable hitters, with a batting average of .484 and 20 RBI's. Also Jordan led the team with 31 hits. Grenz was named as one of the most valuable defensive players as their main first baseman.

Making the Connection, freshman Stephen "Nutter-Butter" Stiffler makes dead center contact for a hit in the hole. Stephen won the positive attitude award for his team.

With a strong squad of freshmen guys, defeat is not around the corner. As this year's baseball season got underway, the freshmen proved themselves as the toughest team in the league. Starting the preseason with a record of 6 and 0 brought great faith into their coaches and themselves.

This year's team was one of the most talented and experienced freshmen teams Lebanon has had for a long time. Hopefully, in the years to come, the freshmen can earn Lebanon another playoff birth.

Safe By A Mile, freshman Zach Smith eats dirt as he slides head first at home. Smith was the main catcher and also pitched for the freshmen team. Zach led the team by batting .500. He was named as one of the most valuable pitchers by striking out 68 and only walking 18.

SOFTBALL

No Place Like Home

With the Playoffs at their Fingertips

The Warrior's softball team had a strong and successful season in a tight race for a playoff berth. They needed a strong ending to a flooded season. The pouring down rain forced many games to be cancelled, rescheduled, and cancelled once again. This caused the season to be played in basically three weeks with sometimes five to six games in a one week period.

Even though the days were dark and dreary, the girls were enthusiastic throughout each and every game. If it was raining, you could never tell. The girls always played with heart. For most of the graduating seniors, these were their last softball games they would ever compete in.

Overall the girls matched up with every team they faced in head to head competition. They broke through the Salem teams and played their best games. Many of the girls were lost due to their seniority, yet none will be forgotten for their endless dedication and effort given to this year's winning season.

Am I Safe? Sophomore Heather Griffin tackles the Saxons third baseman for the advance on a past ball. Griffin had no errors playing in center field. Heather was the only sophomore to play the whole season on varsity.

Solid Contact, junior Cami Humphrey drives another hit out of the infield. Humphrey led the team with the highest batting average at .421 including 5 doubles and 4 triples. Cami also had the most put outs at 5.

Scrambling for the Ball, junior Cami Humphrey flicks the ball to teammate junior Beth Nixon for the out at first base. Nixon and Humphrey combined for 9 of the 14 put outs the team committed throughout the season. Cami and Beth have been playing softball for a long time together and communicate well on the field.

Exerting Herself from the Mound, senior Julie Sinclair strives forward for another strike. Julie had the second highest fielding percentage at .896 and pitched quite a few no hitters. Sinclair is planning on attending Western Oregon State College in the fall and playing softball the following spring.

Like a Speeding Bullet, senior Alisha Bodi fires a throw to the first baseman for the third out of the inning. Bodi led the team with seven sacrifices. Alisha was the starting third baseman on varsity.

Achieving Experience

Capability Beyond Belief

As a J.V. player you have the potential to play on varsity, yet lack the experience and capability needed. With 10 sophomores, 2 freshmen, and 1 junior, this year's J.V. had the skills to compete, but had to acquire teamwork and acceptability.

Against one of the toughest pitching leagues of Salem, this year's J.V. squad competed until the last out was made. Their best game was against Sprague, where they worked together as one and went on to win, 11 to 0. The Warrior softball program will have a couple of strong seasons in the years to come, with these girls

The Heat is On! Sophomore Rebecca Newell fires in another strike at home versus Crescent Valley in a 4 to 3 victory. Newell had 94 strike outs overall with one no hitter. Rebecca displayed tremendous improvement this year--including strength, speed, and accuracy in her pitching skills.

Laying Down the Sacrifice, freshman Cassie Beveal bunts one down the third baseline to advance the runner. Beveal proved herself capable of the J.V. level by making some outstanding catches in right field.

Full of Confidence, the J.V. squad takes a moment to express their victory over Willamette in a preseason game. The team had fun throughout preseason, winning six games out of seven.

SOFTBALL Back To Basics

Learning the Fundamentals

With the Crack of the Bat, freshman Linda Tyman goes out of her way to smack the ball out of the infield. Linda made quite an improvement over the course of the season. Tyman had a few sweet hits during the freshmen softball year.

Waiting for the Right Pitch, freshmen Angela Souryavongsa holds herself back from swinging at a bad pitch. Angela was chosen to play on J.V., due to a shortage of players.

Releasing a Strike, freshmen Brandi Bladen concentrates on her motion. Brandi pitched most of the freshmen season. Bladen made some valuable connections during the season.

A rainy season left the freshmen girls with experience and goals for next year. Many were taught skills they never knew they had. Others went out and made the season fun, yet competitive to their capability.

As freshmen they have a lot to look forward to in the future. Some may find another sport and others may continue high school as softball players. All in all, most players will never forget the memories created this year..

Smashing the Opponents

any questions.....

With feet moving fast and power in their swings, the men and women playing tennis this year tried their hardest to make it to the top. The intensity and pressure built up as the season came to a close with districts. The point of the game is to clear the net and hit the ball past the opponent. Tennis is a sport of speed, power, and grace. Senior Evan Moye won the Dave Phelps Memorial Award for his 4 years of excellent effort and improvement. Senior Matt Marteney received the Dalton Johnson Most Inspirational Award for his consistent enthusiastic support of the tennis program, fellow players, and for the game of tennis.

"This year the team was really young and it was a building year."

Jennifer Miller

"I was dissappointed with the way I played, until I got to districts."

Stacey Stiffler

"It was an old unexperienced team and we had a bad season."

Matt. Rae

"This was a laid back, fun season."

Matt Marteney

"The season could have been better, if we had better weather and got more practice time in."

Jennifer Miller

In The Swing Of Things

Swingin' in the Rain

As a hush falls over the rolling hills of the golf course, the game begins.

During one of the wettest springs in recent history, the Warrior golfers had more than their opponents to contend with.

It takes great concentration, skill, and practice to play the game of golf. Sand bunkers, water holes, and difficult courses are all objects the golfer must face. Will the ball go straight down the course, or will it hook or slice? Who Knows! It all depends on the weather. Rain or shine a dedicated golfer plays. This Lebanon High School team was just that. With no complaints, just fun and hopes for sun.

Smiling Ear to Ear Coach Mausen is proud of his team as he watches his team triumph on the course and give it their all.

Mighty Swing. Nick Barnes uncorks a drive on the opening tee of a tournament.

A Time for

It's only a matter of time. Sooner or later, we all find ourselves involved in school work, but school is more than just work. School is a place of learning, growth and development. A place to get involved. And the best learning experiences happen outside the classroom.

Clubs and classes are not only places of preparation for the future, but places that shape and define who we are. Whether it's drama, drafting, or a trip to D.C., the places we go and the things we do make up a vital part of the timeless institution we call school.

Anything

Filling out a worksheet, freshman Justin Kennedy finds it difficult to concentrate on his classwork. Maybe he had something else on his mind. Time will tell!

Working on a lab, the students from Mr. Dannen's class observe the reactions of their experiment. Labs were a common assignment required in science classes and gave students time and opportunity to see if the theories they learned in the books really worked.

Public Servants. Senior ASB president Heather Crockett-Washington, Secretary Cameron Clarke, and Zach Knight pitch in to move some bark dust on School Pride Day. Organized by ASB and the Senate, the entire school appreciated all of the improvements students contributed to on this special day.

Hard At Work, senior ASB treasurer Heidi Solberg and next year's ASB vice president, junior Erin Hamer spread bark dust at school pride day. Heidi is this year's Co-Valedictorian with fellow ASB member Mandy Hobbes.

*Heather Crockett-
Washington
President*

Serving as the 1995-1996 Associated Student Body President was senior Heather Crockett-Washington. Both academic and athletic, she portrays the very ideal of a true leader. As a dance team captain, she was singly selected from hundreds to be a member of the elite NCA Danz team. As a varsity cheerleader, Heather represented our school by cheering at the Aloha Bowl, an honor made possible when she made the National Cheerleading Association team.

Heather has been involved in student government her entire high school career, serving as freshman and sophomore class secretary and junior class representative. She is an active member of Key Club, International Club, Proactive Youth of Lebanon, and National Honor Society carrying a 3.84 GPA.

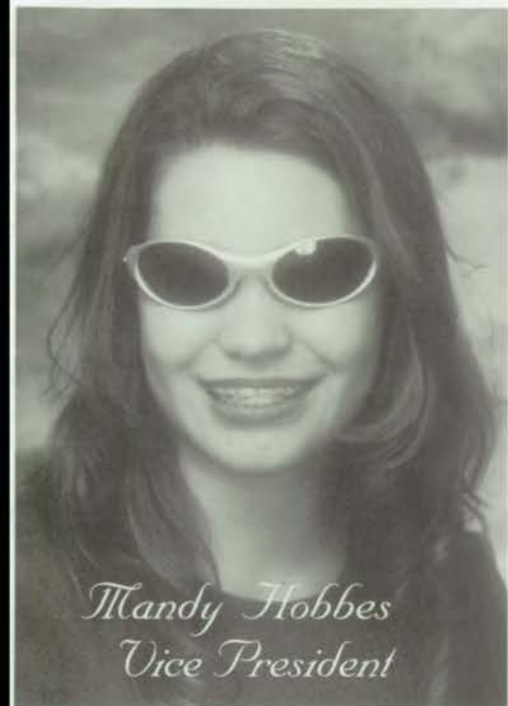

Heather has participated in scores of community service projects, from collecting canned food for the homeless to maintaining the role of candy striper at the Salem Hospital. Her classmates also realize Heather's qualities. She was selected by her peers for courts including: Prom, Homecoming, Winter Formal, Strawberry Court, and she was voted Most Likely To Succeed.

Heather's name is also well known in the community. Chosen Business and Professional Girl of the Month, Junior Rotarian, Girl's State participant, and she was the 1996 Strawberry Queen. Her accomplishments have not gone unnoticed. Heather stands as a prime example of reaching one's potential, and has well fulfilled the job of ASB president.

TRUE LEADERS

Associated Student Body

Accomplishments Beyond Belief

*Mandy Hobbes
Vice President*

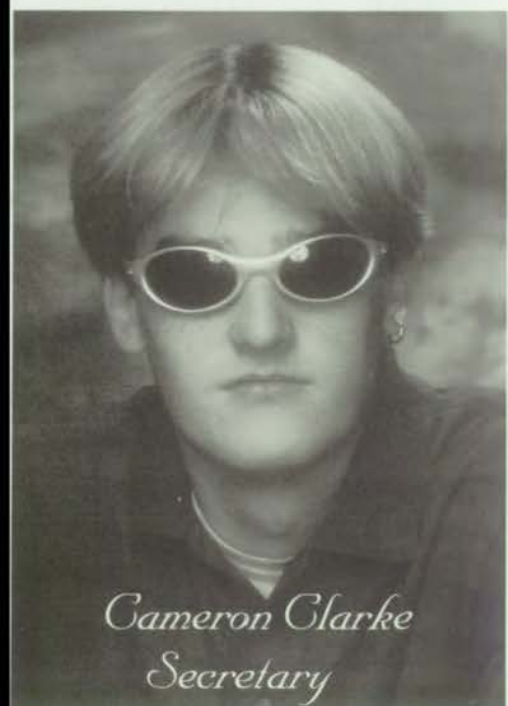

Senior Mandy Hobbes served as president of her junior class before being elected Associated Student Body Vice President. A member of National Honor Society, she holds the position of Co-Valedictorian with a perfect 4.0. Mandy has been involved in countless community service projects and served as a Peer Helper and Peer Tutor. Enthusiasm and friendliness contributed to her being voted Most Spirited by her classmates.

Senior Heidi Solberg served as this year's Associated Student Body Treasurer, and was Co-Valedictorian with fellow ASB member Mandy Hobbes, both holding a perfect 4.0. Her grades resulted in her membership of National Honor Society, which she has been involved in since her sophomore year. Heidi played basketball her freshman year and has continued to be a strong role model at Lebanon High School.

*Heidi Solberg
Treasurer*

The most important student filled positions at Lebanon High School is that of our ASB officers. The talented group of five, elected by the associated student body, supervise the senate and events produced through Leadership. Their enthusiasm and commitment was apparent through their work for the school and the community. They represent the brightest and the best at Lebanon, and will continue to represent us in the years to come.

*Cameron Clarke
Secretary*

Senior Cameron Clarke filled this year's role of secretary. Actively involved in Leadership and a varsity tennis player, he proved to be a key part of the ASB team. Cameron played soccer his sophomore year, and will always be remembered for his Lunch Lady acts during pep assemblies.

Junior Luke Lardlow was elected Historian and was the only ASB member not of the class of '96. A varsity soccer player, Luke has been involved in Leadership, participating in Fall Conference for two years. We will be seeing more of Luke in the future, as he has been elected to serve as the 1996-1997 ASB president.

LEADERSHIP II ...

Organizing the majority of school events like dances, pep assemblies, noon activities, class elections, Homecoming, Mr. LHS, School Pride Day, Winter Formal, Prom, and Mayfest is a huge task. Events like these take a lot of TIME, effort and planning from dedicated students and their fearless leader Mr. Ed Cinquini.

His two Leadership II classes faced this year with numerous activities to plan and some pretty high standards from years past to follow. With all these expectations, the two classes threw themselves wholeheartedly into entertaining the entire student body for another school year. They thought of new themes for dances and spirit weeks. They created fun relays for noon activities and pep assemblies. They pumped out posters and publicity stunts to advertise these events and tried to make high school a little easier to bear.

Leadership activities helped TIME pass with more

Returning From The Eye Doctor, juniors Shawna Steinhabel, Brenna Olson, and Kinzie Wagstaff, along with sophomores Paula Graham and Summer Duffield, and freshman Jamie Whitt, display their stunning eyewear. The goggles were used in the Mayfest pep assembly for the money throwing contest between the classes.

Charging The Camera, Mr. Ed Cinquini is caught giving "the finger." Mr. Cinquini was Lord, Master, and King of the Leadership II classes and the sooner new students discovered and acknowledged this, the easier their life in his class became!

Facing The Music, seniors Julie Sinclair and Juston Klum had the tedious job of going through ALL the tapes to choose songs for the Mayfest Dance. Music was just one of the things that made the school dances THE place to be!

2nd Period Leadership: Jeremy Kinzer, Andy Dryden, Chris Faught, Breyane Roth, Janelle Anderson, Chrissy Miller, Gabe Grossman, Shawna Steinhabel, Kenzie Wagstaff, Zack Brewer, Brianne Barnes, Shannon Tuma, Stephanie Graham, Annie Sterling, Jennifer Ulburg, Jamie Witt, Yoon Park, Paula Graham, Amina Turgulova, Mercedes Mah, Julie Sharman, Julie Sinclair, Juston Klum.

Students WITH Vision

Piled In A Heap, a group of Leadership students relax after the daily sessions at Fall Conference. The conference gave leadership students around the state a chance to share their ideas and gather new ones.

Flexing Their Muscles, senior Chrissy Marak and junior Jeremy Kinzer heft a rubbish can full of water balloons across Mr. Cinquini's room. The water balloons were used in a giant water fight after school on the Friday in Mayfest Week '96.

Gathered At The Trough, a few dedicated students take a break from shoveling bark dust in the courtyard on School Pride Day to shovel food in to their mouths.

Arm In Arm, senior Heidi Solberg, junior Erin West, and sophomores Kerry Schmidt and Natalie Brewster give a weekly presentation. Presentations were used to convey traits of a Leader and were required to pass.

Like Squashing A Bug, seniors Andy Propst and Cameron Clarke along with junior Luke Wardlaw take the opportunity to gang up on senior Andy Dobson. This group could often be found doing something to give Mr. Cinquini stress and enjoying every minute of it!

Sprawled Across The Paper, senior Jennifer Miller creates one of the many posters that graced the halls of LHS. Publicity was a major task for the Leadership class and many hours were spent on posters publicizing school events.

A Cut Above The Rest

Honor Society

Proud Man.
Blake Harris, a member of the National Honor Society holds his head high during graduation. Because he finished in the top fifteen percent of his class, Blake received the Teledyn Wah Chang medallion.

There are many clubs and organizations at Lebanon High School with purposes ranging from community service to industrial arts. But one of the most nationally recognized clubs is National Honor Society. It's members are known for their dedication to their schoolwork, good citizenship, and character.

The requirements for belonging to this prestigious organization are maintaining a 3.50 GPA or above. Also held into account are the students citizenship and extra curricular activities. Besides receiving a pin, members receive the honor of wearing the National Honor Society white collar for graduation.

Supervised by teacher Marsha Ray, the society held several ceremonies for it's members, and passed out programs at graduation. Congratulations to the class of 1996 Honor Society members and good luck.

Practically Perfection

Upper 10%

Seniors Graduate With Honor

With the many obstacles that come along in one's high school career, grades are one of the most constant stressors. Some are satisfied with a passing grade, and there are those that strive for nothing less than the best. The dedication to school shown by individuals often accompanies good citizenship and character.

As graduation draws near, those students who put forth such incredible effort stand out. Held high by their outstanding grades, they have earned the honor of being one of the upper 10% of the class of 1996. These individuals mark the formula for success, and their hard work will pay off for their futures.

KEY CLUB Above And Beyond

Going The Extra Mile

Spending an afternoon at the local soup kitchen or volunteering at the Oaks may not be everyone's idea of an exciting afternoon, but to the Lebanon Key Club members, it was a chance to put something back into the community.

Unlike some organizations who do occasional service projects, Key Club (Kiwani's Educating Youth) focused entirely on community service. The thirty plus members did year long jobs, such as the Oaks and Kiwana's events, and local projects such as Community Pride Day and Christmas Caroling.

Led by president Zach Knight, senior, the club was continually active throughout the year, putting in hundreds of hours of service for their school and community.

Trying To Relax, a Lebanon High School student has her blood drawn at this year's Red Cross Blood Drive. As an annual event sponsored by Key Club, the drive collected over 90 units of blood.

Pausing From His Work, senior Zach Knight takes a moment to laugh in response to a humorous comment. Zach served as the Key Club president this year, as well as playing varsity soccer and maintaining the position of newspaper editor.

A Message To Remember

Instilling Strong Values For The Future

In a decade of rising crime rates and violence, our future is literally in the hands of today's youth. Individuals, such as those in OSSOM, work hard to teach and instill strong values throughout the children of the community.

This year, Oregon Student Safety On the Move has sponsored and helped organize events such as Red Ribbon Week, which was a community wide event. Slogans such as "Hugs Not Drugs", and "Just Say No" were produced upon thousands of red ribbons worn throughout the week.

At the DARE rally, over two thousand elementary aged children gathered at Heath Stadium for a presentation by local law enforcement officers. Other highlights included a visit from Ms. Oregon, demonstrations from the Coast Guard, local businesses, and a climbing wall.

The planning of these events must be credited to advisor Roy Humphrey and Penny Steele, and president Julie Sinclair. Julie, a senior, has occupied the presidential position for three years, putting in time and heart into her work. OSSOM members will all miss her smile and wish her the best of luck in college.

Quenching Her Thirst, senior Julie Sinclair takes a break from her hard work at school pride day. Julie spent her junior and senior year serving as the OSSOM president.

Almost To The Top, juniors Aaron Kennedy and Hillary Townsend try their talent on the climbing wall. The wall and other activities were featured at DARE day.

With Packed Bleachers, the DARE officers begin their presentation. Fifth graders flocked from all over the state to take part in the DARE day put on by the local police department.

Deadlines...anyone who took annual heard this word every day of class. Mr. Hess drilled it into the student's thinking and required that all deadlines be met on time. But TIME was not in abundance. Students had to do the best with what they had. Many of the staff members made an extra effort by working study halls, lunchtime, and after school.

The work that went into making this yearbook a success took creativity and dedication which was supplied by the minds of every individual in the class. In the end, TIME took its toll and the students finished the year stressed but satisfied with a yearbook they could be proud of.

Posing For A Group Shot, at the annual press day at OSU, yearbook students Amanda Backman, Melissa Fouts, Caron Garlinghouse, Rebecca Newell, and Rachel Lee document their introductions with the actual artist (a Lebanon graduate) who painted the larger than life "Warrior" on the outside of the gym.

Ultimate Lady Warriors, sophomores Elizabeth Erwin, Rebecca Newell, and Tatum Clingenpeel prove that softball is only for the toughest. "They called the game after the second inning because of rain, so our team got in to a big mud fight. About three of my teammates thought it would be funny to shove me in the mud, but I got back at them with a few well aimed mud balls," said sophomore Rebecca Newell, JV Softball pitcher and Yearbook Editor. Many students on the yearbook staff also participated in sports, and it was not uncommon to see the Warrior athletes lugging around cameras to their own games.

Mr. Hess--unedited. Trying to prove a point, yearbook adviser Robert Hess shows what unedited copy looks like to the reader.

Flashing A Huge Smile, junior Misty Yoder shows the friendliness that she displays on an every day basis. Selected Most Creative, Misty was also chosen as next year's editor of the People section.

Hard At Work, senior Melissa Fouts flips through pictures for a layout. Melissa was chosen Most Dedicated for the 1995-1996 yearbook Staff.

NEWS PAPER

Extra! Extra! Read all about it! The Warrior Image started circulating early. With in-depth interviews, advice columns, and movie reviews covering the pages, the school became more in tune with what was going on. Current events and letters from Administration also kept us up-to-date on the hot topics that blazed through our every day lives. ~~TIME~~ and history were documented temporarily on sheets of ordinary news print, but forever on the minds of those that read what was printed on those pages.

Looking over their work, newspaper students Tim Sawyer and Bianca Gonzalez critique the last edition of the Warrior Image. Tim, a junior, and Bianca, a sophomore, were both first year newspaper staff, which numbered seven.

Proudly Displaying Her Work, senior Nessa Arnhart holds up a notebook with completed newspaper articles in it. Nessa was a vital member of the paper, writing pieces ranging from features to editorials.

Foreign Language Classes

A Time For Unity...

Unité, Unidad, Zusammenheit. In any language it is still the same. Unity is defined as the state of being one. The goal of each foreign language teacher is to help broaden students cultural views and help eliminate the barriers. Throughout the year the French, Spanish and German teachers have taken unique routes to emphasize the importance of unity in the courses.

F r e n c h

French students participate in a variety of activities from map making, and creating dialogues to playing, "Le Fûret" (Duck, duck, ferret!) and employing the multiple intelligences. This year, the French I classes have been small but enthusiastic, and once French 2 got the hang handling fire drills without chaos, they proceeded in the "Esprit de la France."

One creative way of teaching French is a hands on competition. Students created models of shops based on their vocabulary. Pictured here is the first place winner, "La Shoppe de Meuh", the dairy created by Crystal Martell and Cassie Tenbusch.

S PANISH Go south of the border! Ciñco de Mayo celebration, fiestas, piñatas, and a popular dance, the Macarena. Who else knows how to teach Spanish like Mr. Gonzales and Ms. Fañdino? Even though it sounds like fun and games, their students can tell you that it is hard work.

Juniors Kirsten Lee, Julie Thayer, and Lori Nylund prepare for Ciñco de Mayo by creating a piñata. To receive an honor award for foreign language students need to carry at least a 3.50 in their class for a minimum of three years. All three of these students are in their third year of Spanish.

G ERMAN Journey to Duetschland where the grand tradition of Octoberfest started. German beer, sausage, and all the sauerkraut you can eat. Seventy students celebrate this occasion and many others such as: Christmas, Easter and Mardi Gras. If you think all this class does is celebrate, don't be fooled. Throughout the year the German class is perfecting their second language by doing speaking and writing drills, writing letters and role playing in situational dialogue. Mr. Hildebrandt must be doing something right in German class. There are an estimated 125 students already signed up for next year's class.

During the 1995-1996 year Lebanon High School was home to five foreign exchange students. Each student came from different corners of the world, each with their own customs, language, and cultures. These differences were not barriers for the students, but were gates of opportunity. Each student brought likes, dislikes, and talents with them to LHS. Bert found his home away from home on the basketball court playing varsity. Caitlin found her place among a new crowd. She fit in perfectly with her sense of humor and wit. With Spanish as his language, Edgar helped Spanish teacher Mr. Gonzalez as an aid, and Cecy put her musical talents to a wide variety of uses and played, among other instruments, the bass for the Jazz band. Her abilities won her the distinction of "Rookie of the Year" from the music department.

Bible Study : Because We Live in Uncertain Times

"It is important people realize that it is a relationship with God not just a religion"
 -Gabe Grossman

In a world of uncertainty, curiosity, and confusion Gabe Grossman finds his place as a source of inspiration. Gabe is the leader of Lebanon High School's student led Bible Study. He has dedicated himself to teaching the word of God three days a week during the lunch period. Even though Gabe has many other activities to participate in, this is the most important to him. The messages Gabe sends when talking to students have turned lives around, helping people to face an uncertain world with the certainty that God is real.

And The Band Played On

... And on and on and on...

The marching band showed their spirit for the school week after week by rallying the fans with the school song and helping to get the crowd into the football games with awesome half time performances.

Dedicated to long hours of practice, this year's band brought home a record number of trophies. "The Marching Band took a serious attitude toward the season," said director Kim Miller. It worked.

The band brought home trophies from every competition they entered. Their road to success started at Columbia River H.S. "Tournament of Stars," and continued through the "Festival of Bands" at the University of Oregon in November.

Leader of the Band. Jeanie McDermott directs the Lebanon High School Marching band during a football game. The band could often be seen practicing long after the football team called it a day in preparation for their performances all year long. Jeanie, along with Lance Seiders, won the Outsanding Music Department Award.

Dedicated musicians Jessica Baughman, Cecilia Raikkonen, Bobby Villeneuve faithfully play at another football game. The Marching band placed second in the Tournament of Stars, first in the Pacific Coast Invitational, first in Pride of the Northwest, and first at the Festival of Bands.

STATE SOLO-PLACE- Lance Seiders, Tuba

This year's Concert Band made huge strides musically. They almost qualified for the State Band Contest, missing by five points. So close. They received a rating of second at the W.O.S.C. Concert Band Festival in Monmouth and Most Improved Band in the Valley League. This honor brings with it a $200.00 scholarship for private lessons. The band also gave four home concerts, all of which were extremely successful.

JAZZ BAND MEMBERS:

Tanner Ward, Lonnie Seiders, Christy Curtis, Director Kim Miller, Erik Johnson, Lance Seiders, Cessi Raikonen, Matt Coulsen, Allison Grohn, Kim Herzberg, Josh Rankin, Laura Cohen, Heather White, Joleah Jung, Steve Ward, Kim Johnson, Jeff Young, Libby Shockley, Norren Fleishman, Katie Harding.

Jazz Band members Tanner Ward and Lance Seiders provide the music for an LHS play. The Jazz Band was very busy this year. They performed at many concerts and competed in festivals including: The W.O.S.C. Jazz Festival in Monmouth, The Clark College Jazz Festival at Willamette University, The Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival at the University of Idaho, and The Pleasant Hill Jazz Festival. The jazz band also had a Grant Johnson Concert here at the school which was a huge success.

A Pleasant Melody. Katie Harding smiles as she makes music. In addition to the flute, Katie played the piano for the Jazz Band.

The Lebanon High School Concert Choir was very active in '95-'96. They started off with the annual Fall Concert, which included selections from "Les Miserables." They also performed at the annual Christmas Concert. Then came the Broadway Concert in which the choir presented "100 Years of Broadway" to the student body. The Winter Choral Concert was given in March, which included the group's Festival selections.

The choir performed at the District Festival held at Willamette University and received a rating of Excellent (Second). The choir concluded the year with a performance at the Senior Honor Dessert and Spring Concert.

Individual award: Anna Phillips participated at the District II Solo Contest and received a rating of second.

Concert Choir Members

The Sound of Music. Lebanon Band members provide music for graduation. Several selections were played, but none was more memorable than everybody's June favorite, "Pomp and Circumstance."

Showing his spirit, Junior Mike Walker plays his saxophone with the Pep Band. The Pep Band was made up of volunteers who wanted to show their support at basketball home games.

All Jazzed Up. Joleah Jung concentrates on playing out a string of notes on the Baritone Sax. Joleah participated in the PLU Honor Band, District Solo/Ensemble, and in the State Competition. She also won Lebanon High's Louis Armstrong Jazz Award and the Semper Fidelis Music Award.

Marching to the Finish. Lebanon Warrior Marching Band conductor Kim Miller waves to the crowd as she leads her band in the Junior Parade. The band also showed their intrepid talent for tunes in the Grand Parade the next day during Strawberry Festival Weekend. Kim was a dedicated teacher responsible for all of Lebanon High's talented bands. Christina Curtis was voted the Outstanding Senior band member and took home honors as the band's Most Valuable Player.

IT'S SHOW TIME!

Students learn first hand what it's like to produce their own T.V. news program

Spearheaded by the automotive genius and computer guru Ken Clark, the video production class works all year round to bring the student body announcements, live and on the air.

This year the class took the show on the road and brought us announcements from locations all over town including ShopNCart, and the Strawberry Fairgrounds.

Anchorman Mike Snyder made the broadcast so interesting with his "In the News" excerpts, that the whole school would tune in just to see what weird and strange thing was happening...in the news!

Matt Helget 12

"From the pranks to the seminars, the trip was great. The best part was meeting new people and going to the White Water hearing. The worst parts were the fights, but over-all it was the best time I've ever had."

Katie Pearson 10

"It was nice to get out of Lebanon for a week and be exposed to some culture (i.e. the real world). It was interesting to gain some idea of how our government works and it's weak (slightly if not corrupted) parts and it's ok parts."

A group of 20 Lebanon High School students participated in the annual trip to Washington D.C. During this trip, they attended many long seminars, went on trips to museums, and saw many national monuments. They also sat and watched a session of the White Water trial. The White Water hearing seemed to be one of the events that they favored the most. Because the cost of the expedition was so high, many students had to raise their own funds. These fund-raisers began at the end of the 94-95 school year and continued on through the 95-96 school year.

Home sick, Ronita Modderman, Natalie Brewster, Katie Pearson, Rebecca Tucker, Ann Jordan, and Kristin Sawyer point to a war monument in Washington D.C. that says "Lebanon." They participated in many seminars and other events while they were on their Close-Up trip.

Deca

DECA. The Association of marketing students. This class of twenty-five, led by the wisdom of Mr. Geizler, are starting to learn the fundamentals of marketing and are sure to succeed. These students run the student store, attend conferences, compete in competitions, and even are interned at some local businesses. Some of these marketing students have even gone on to higher levels of competition such as Western Regionals or state. This year four of our very own Lebanon High School students attended the state competition. Those competing were Kelly Davis, Jennifer Gray, Kelly Primasing, and Shannon Tuma.

Can I help you? Junior Shannon Tuma blows up a balloon during lunch. Shannon was one of the marketing students that attended this year's state competition.

Hard at work, seniors Jennifer Gray, Kelly Primasing, and Amy Barnes prepare food to sell in the student store. Marketing students are required to work in the store as part of the class. Jennifer Gray and Kelly Primasing both attended this state competition.

VICA. Otherwise known as the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America. VICA is a nationally affiliated professional and technical student organization that is both on the state and national level. There were nine finalists who went to state this year and two went to the national level, Mrs. Clausen and James Gaskey. VICA is a widespread group of activities such as sewing, construction, machinery, welding, electronics, drafting, and of course cooking.

Let's get this thing runnin', senior Blake Harris contemplates what to do while junior Ray Priszner looks on.

It's a group thang, sophomores Derek Lingar, James Gaskey, Robert Pitts and senior Nathan Howell gather around the computer to work during their drafting class.

Led by the capable Ms. Edwards, Lebanon High School has one of the most recognized and talented drama clubs in the state. Year after year, Lebanon High School students are recognized and honored in state wide drama competitions.

This year our drama troupe had the honor of performing A Comedy of Errors at the State Thespian Conference. It was quite an honor and showed people all over the state the level of excellence students can achieve when they put their mind to it.

At the same conference, Randy and Andy Dobson placed second in the Duo Comic experience, and Mike Synder was pronounced a Thespian Drama Conference Representative--one of only three in the entire state of Oregon.

Besides awards, honors, and the thrill of being on stage, the Drama Club provides a fun and exciting experience for all its members. Drama builds an appreciation for the fine art of theatre, and members take several trips all over the state to not only watch and learn from professionals, but also to compete with other students.

On these trips members have an opportunity to have fun, laugh, meet friends, and create memorable moments--such as the time this year when the Drama Club got caught in Portland during the big ice storm. The students were at Portland for the national acting competition.

Every year the group organizes a trip down to Ashland to see a play at the Shakespearian Festival. Another trip was to the Improv Festival. At these events members meet people from high schools all over the state.

Just Say NO. Senior Andy Dobson and junior Mike Synder boast of being able to drink and drink and drink. Members of Ms. Edwards theatre II class performed a play that showed the dangers of alcohol during our drug and alcohol school day. Next year Mike will be replacing Andy as a state thespian representative.

Dangerous Waters. Messing around with STD's is likened to jumping into piranha infested waters in this hard hitting play that was performed for Lebanon students during our school wide AIDS awareness day.

Absolutely NO WHINING! Ms. Hamer keeps her technical theatre students in line—especially the unruly ones like Randy Dobson—with a no nonsense approach...“Do what I say or heads will roll!” Rumor has it nobody has lost their head over the policy.

It's just a stage
No excellent theatre performance is possible without behind the scenes work. Whether it's stage design, lighting, sound, or moving sets between scenes, Ms. Hamer makes it happen. Working under her supervision, this class puts in a lot of time and effort to make the plays more realistic and enjoyable. And though they may say they are simply, "going through a stage," the time and effort they contribute is what makes the theatre a success.
I'm going through!

Look Out! Ms. Hamer's seventh period tech. theatre class is always ready for action.
