"Every action of our lives touches on some chord that will vibrate in eternity." - Sean O' Casey

"Hold the line. Stay with me. If you find yourself alone, riding in green fields with the sun on your face, do not be troubled; for you

Our adolescent years are some of the most important of our lives. Molding and shaping our futures, we surround ourselves with people and things which will stay in our memories forever.

All of our actions have consequences; good or bad. And wise people tell us to learn from our mistakes.

Everyday we learn new things that we can apply to how we live our lives. Rain or shine, day or night, we are who we are and who we are becoming.

As people progress through life, their actions echo into eternity. Everyone leaves his or her mark on the world.

We will have left our mark at good ol' Lebanon High School.

Life. This is a word that we hear all the time. But what does it really mean? Is it the way we live, the way we act, or the way we go through our lives doing things the way we think they ought to be done?

Strut Your Colors

When it comes to the Warriors, we have lots and lots of spirit!

"The spirit of our school... I think it is outstanding! We have one of THE BEST fan bases in the state of Oregon," said senior Mark Ekins.

With splashes of red and blue throughout the school, no one is able to deny we are very spirited.

"I think [the spirit has] grown a lot, actually, since we have started to win," said sophomore Savanna Lindberg.

Both the stadium and gym were filled with some of the loudest students in Oregon!

Above: Loud and Proud, junior Bradley Plattner gives a shout at the South Albany football game. Plattner was motivated by "knowing that I have my friend's back, by cheering them up."

"Dressing in red and blue on Friday, and having lots of fun at football games." - Flint Yoder, 10

Are you serious? Junior Simon Martinez stares down the camera with an intent look. "...when I see our team doing good, it sparks life into me, and it makes me really love being a Warrior."

Concentrate... Senior Tom Shanks watches the volleyball game, showing that the football boys support the ladies who have always supported them.

Who, me? Sophomore Falon Landers shows her surprise when caught on film. "We are good this year, so it is more fun to support our school when we win," said Landers. Her motivation is "other people getting excited around me."

Homecomings

Once upon a time, in the magical land of Lebanon, a group of Warriors banded together to defeat the Raiders, 36-0.

This year, an wave of spirit spread and it was obvious to all.

From the Pep Assembly, to the football game and even the Dress Up Days, almost everyone got involved.

"I love dress up days!" Said senior Alysia Furman who dressed up for every spirit day.

Junior Kendra Palinkas really enjoyed the Pep Assembly.

"It was actually like a Pep Assembly! I loved it cause it was nothing like last year," said Palinkas.

"My friend Jermy and I brought da funk at the dance." - Kyle Flanigan, 12

Show your colors, senior Linda Loehr watches with Warrior Spirit, as a play is made. "The louder you cheer, the harder they play," said Loehr.

Shout it out, senior Alison Krebs cheers for the team before turning around to lead the fans. "I am so proud of our boys this year! They worked really hard," said Krebs. "It was a great way to finish school."

3. Dress Up Days
4. The Dance
5. Pep Assembly

"The football game was fun, because Pep band rocks!"

Above: Slash the "Z," senior Christen Nordstrand carries senior LeAnna Bartholf across the gym in a Zorro skit. "It was fun revealing who I really am to the whole student body," said Nordstrand. Left: Picture perfect, seniors Amber Pruett and Robert Roosa pose patiently in the cold, while parents and fans try to get a shot of the court. Roosa and Pruett were crowned King and Queen, after seemingly endless minutes of waiting.

Spike it, senior Robert Roosa hits it over the net, while sophomore Kenneth Fontanos tries to block the ball. The sophomores lost in a heartbreaking, but well-fought, match against the two-time champions.

Hula dance, senior Aubrey Chambers shows off her grace and coordination in her grass skirt. "What fun is high school if you can't do random stuff," said Chambers. "I can't think of anything else I'd rather do than be in a grass skirt."

Smile big, freshmen Craig Trask, Kathleen McKellar, Joshua McNeal and Lindsey Bellinger stand by each other while excitedly smiling for the flashing cameras. "It was really cold that night," said Bellinger. "It will be a night I will always remember."

"I liked the game. I got to freeze in the stands with my friends." - Stacy Covell, 11

Seniors

Congratulations Class of 2007.

Stop, take a deep breath; we actually made it.

We made it through the construction and we have endured more fire drills than any other class. We are the only class that did not go inside the building on Freshmen Orientation Day.

Do not forget that our class was the last to get the privilege of Marty Dannon's freshmen science. During sophomore year, high school as we knew it transformed into the well known, but not always appreciated, small learning communities (then changed to academies and now systems).

When we enter high school, many of us begin to count down the years until we are out: "Only four more years to go." "Three more now." "Hey look, we are half-way done." And now guess what? We have made it. This year we moved on to counting months, days, and now it is down to hours.

Walt Disney said, "Today we are shapers of the world of tomorrow." As we count down the hours until we leave LHS and start the next phase in our lives, remember that we are the future leaders of the world. I congratulate you again and wish you the best of luck with the rest of your life.

May you succeed in every way possible.

ASB President
Alysia Furman

All dressed up, Dillon Middleton waits to enter the interview room at the Senior Job Fair. "The only cool thing about the job fair was getting out of school and seeing people from different schools," said Middleton.

Time to meet, Kyle Bellon and Jason Pruett discuss a project with members of their group. "Physical systems is pretty fun guess," said Kyle Bellon. There is a lot of opportunity for success.

Take a stance. Tina Lee argues her side of an issue during Diane Michael's Language Arts 4 class. "The debate in Mrs. Michael's class was extremely engaging. We all had strong enough arguments that the judges got involved," said Lee.

Kicked back. Joseph Rood waits patiently for the senior class photo to be taken. He had a strong opinion about the new closed campus policies. "I think that students don't need off campus passes because it takes too long to get them," said Rood.

It's a hard knock life. Eric Buckner takes a moment in his busy day to reflect on life. "Life comes at you hard, so hit it harder," advised Buckner.

On top of the world. Chad Greenly shows his spirit as he receives a piggy back ride from Ryan Ness at a pep assembly. "Friends will always be there to lift you up higher," said Greenly.

Michael Barish ponders the many possibilities for his life after high school. When asked about what he liked most about being a senior he replied, "Most of all I'm just glad that I'm about to leave and start my life."

Are you serious?

Michelle Olson caught up with a class mate about the weekend. "I work at KFC on the weekends. My favorite thing to do though, is hang out with friends and shop," said Olson.

Respect.

"Being a senior means representing your school in a positive way," said Taylor Overbeck. "Whether you want them to or not, people are going to look up to you because you are a senior. I think people need to live up to that respect."

Total domination.

Trevet Pruet spikes the ball during Tuff Puff practice while Ryan Legee is there for the block. "We just went out there and dominated," said Pruet. "Those juniors never had a chance."

When most people hear the word education they think of school, but education is the absorption of knowledge." Hannah Bartlett, - 11

Students come to school looking forward to many different things. "Education is absolutely everything. Both of my parents are teachers, so I guess you could say I could not eat without it," said senior Alison

"Education to me is learning valuable life lessons." - Anthony Darling, 11 "I want to have a career when I grow up." - Breanna Alley, 10

Social Systems

Social Systems Academy has areas of focus including The Arts, Business and Foods. We have great clubs, like DECA, Skills USA, Drama, International Club and Poetry Club. Humanities classes rule the system, with teacher teams combining curricula to help students make connections.

Social Systems help students prepare for the future by giving them opportunities to be successful in their areas of focus. Our system views the world from a liberal arts perspective, and we have increased requirements in Language Arts and Social Studies.

Finally, the people in Social Systems are striving for a better future. As Senior Senator Seth Probert adds, "Mr. Winters is in our Academy, so obviously it is amazing."

Right: Business man, senior Keith Gilbert talks to a group of his friends at the job fair in Albany. "The job fair was really fun. I got to meet really cool people," said Gilbert.

What is your favorite part about Social System?

"All the friendly people and the great attitudes."
- Megan Adams, 11

"The people!"
- Michael Feller, 12

"I like how everyone in our system is focused and looking forward to college after high school."
- Marcus Giese, 11

"It smells good because of the cooking classes, and no one has to worry about being too weird."
- Emily King, 10

"It's amazing how many people in Social Systems can't spell 'social'" - Minnie Phillips, 11

Right: Drama Queen, junior Austin Brennen and sophomore Brittany Birch patiently await instructions in Debbie Edward's Theater class. "Debbie Edwards is well... motherly and her theater classes are really fun," said Birch. "I like theater because it's so... I really don't know. It makes me feel relaxed."

Above: Tell me about it, senior Meagan Bess gets ready to tell fellow senior Anjali Smith a story while the two are at lunch. "Meagan and I just like to chill and talk with each other. Somedays we just randomly laugh at everything," said Smith.

Below: Animal House, junior Steven Castro and seniors Mark Ekims and Matthew Slavenski show their true selves after the West Albany dance competition. They competed with the girls in the Novelty category. "We lost, I think we got last, but I'm pretty sure we would have gotten first, if it wasn't for the toilet paper on the shoe incident, which by the way is not unsafe," said Slavenski.

Lily Edward's Marketing classes served as employees during lunch. While working the tills, serving the food, and greeting customers, they learned the basics of how a business works.

Above: Is that your final answer? Math teacher Jerol Selby shows his Algebra class how to solve an equation on the board. "My favorite teacher in Social System is definitely Mr. Selby, because he is really fun," said junior Amanda Roadhouse. Selby was one of Social System's two math teachers and, attended LHS way back in the late 70's.

Above: Me gusta, junior Morgan Brantner and senior Amanda Wilson take advantage of one of the many fire drills and practice a skit for their Spanish class. "Spanish skits are a lot of fun. We get to watch people make fools of themselves while speaking Spanish," joked Brantner. It was nice to see someone actually benefiting from the frequent fire drills this year!

How many licks does it take to get to the center of a Tootsie Pop?

"102, I've tried it before."
- Brittany Wade, 11

"3,789, but I'm just guessing..."
- Jeff Miller, 11

"Probably like 1,000 or something."
- Aric Simmons, 12

"We did it for math in 7th grade, and the answer is 1,728."
- Alison Krebs, 12

"I could be wrong, but I think it takes around like 324."
- Sydney Watts, 10

The only thing that will redeem mankind is cooperation" - Ethan Meink, 12

Living Systems

Living systems is divided into two main fields: Agriculture and Medicine. One focuses on health and animal sciences, while the other focuses on animal care and farming business.

Living systems is unique for its Land Lab, where students gain first hand experience with animals. The medical track focuses on human health and study, helping many students to prepare for medical schools.

We are a pretty tight-knit group. Most are hard workers with one common goal: being successful in life.

Our system prepares us to step right into our future schools and careers, knowing what we are doing and to be great at it. We are all ready to serve when OUR time is at hand.

- Living Systems Senator
Jaleta Parmenter, 12

Front: Rob Allen, Jeff Stolsig, Lynden Brown, Leah Rainey and Anne Williams. Second: Meredith Mason, Amanda Lewis, Lisa Jordan, Erma Lone, Lori Stolsig and Jessica Vandenbos. Back: Sherril Tompson, Dick Olson, Kraig Hoene, Troy White, Lori Henderson, Arleta Buckmaster, Brad Bauer, Mark Finch, Kathleen Ellis, Mike Wilson and Connie Jarin.

If you were a household appliance, what would you be and why?

"A mirror so I could see what people do in a mirror." - Lacy Brown, 9

"I think I'd be a toaster because I love bread." - Christine Revels, 10

"I would be a blender because I like to shake it up." - Michael Lofton, 12

"Stove, I like fire." - Stephanie Gillespie, 10

"A spork, they are good for everything." - Tony Stanley, 12

Left: Brr, it's cold, juniors Cassandra Molina and Alyssa watch football. Quips: Kuhns. "Coats - $150, hand warmers - $5, beanie - $25, freezing my butt off to watch us dominate - priceless."

Right: Eat up, on Wednesday half days, Neva Clausen's class prepares a meal for all the teachers. Living Systems teachers are shown enjoying food and company before hours of meetings.

Left: Pay attention, sophomore Chantal Kirby attempts to focus fellow sophomore Brennon Bilyea on an assignment. Middle: What did you say? senior Nicole Wimer looks up in disbelief. "I like Living Systems because it gives me good ideas to shape my future," said Wimer. Right: Walk like an Egyptian, Language arts teacher Kathleen Ellis lets her wild side out and dresses up for the FFA pumpkin carving contest.

"Mandy Moore inspires me." - Amanda Groff, 12

Who is your favorite teacher in your system?

"It's a battle between Wilson and Ellis."
- Rachelle Alley, 12

"Stolsig, because he's pretty cool and doesn't take things that seriously."
- Stephanie Hilpert, 9

"Mr. Hoene, just look at him. He makes you laugh."
- Kathleen McKellar, 9

Above: Actually... freshman Kimberly Duerr has a conversation with friends at lunchtime. "It's what I call a jump. Just live life to the fullest and make the best of everything," said Duerr. Below: Melts in your mouth, Living Systems principal Mark Finch enjoys the complimentary staff lunch on a half day. "The food there is fine. It is for a great cause. Most importantly, it gives teachers the necessary social time," said Finch.

Above: I would rather be typing, secretary Lori Stolsig listens to a parent at the parent teacher conferences before giving out a report card. Below: This little piggy went to market, two pigs from the Land Lab rest in their cages. Students loved the "cute" pigs. "They stink a lot. Now we have to re-build the pig barn. It kind of sucks," said sophomore Hannah Suing.

Bottom: I want you, freshmen Kaitlin Ogle and Erina Shevel walk through the commons on their way back to class. As they walk by, they pointed at the camera as if to say "I want you for the U.S. Army." "You wouldn't know it by looking at us, but we are secret agents. We fight crime in our free time," said Ogle.

"Yes, it's time to party." - Drew Snook, 9

Left: "What a woman really needs is chapstick. It's always there when you need it," said freshmen Lindsey Bellinger as she throws some on her lips. Middle: An apple a day keeps the doctor away, freshman Jaime Tilley eats an apple during lunch in the Living Systems hall. Right: "Bunny's are fun to hold" says Michelle Olson while holding the bunny.

Right: Nothing runs like a Deere, junior Cody Hayes operates the tractor at the land lab. The land lab was a great way to get out of the classroom and do something hands on. Hayes was amped he got to drive the tractor and said "I was Holly on that tractor picking up the candy canes from the FFA tree sale. It was fun and I got to drive the John Deere."

Above: Peace up... freshman Kathleen McKellar flashes a classic peace sign to the camera on her way back from the land lab. "Land lab is really fun. Especially if you are interested in animals and agriculture. My favorite part of the Land lab is being around the animals, mostly cause I want to be a veterinarian. Mr. Wilson is a great teacher!" said McKellar.

Arachnophobia. sophomore Tabitha Oeder holds a tarantula and listens intently. "Make a wish and make it work" said Oeder.

Information Systems

Information Systems... The rush of scents and the diverse people as you walk down the halls.

What describes it?

Everybody I think has thought at one time they wished there were not Systems.

Some people, at one point or another have wanted to change. But this year, I realized high school is only a small fraction of our lives.

Soon I will be leaving this school only to forget it as I move on to bigger and better things. I realized that I don't want to let high school take over my life.

Why care what people think of what I look like or if I am in Informatics Systems or not? Just remember the systems do not decide the rest of your life, you do.

-Senior Senator Amber Pruett

Left: Fire in the hole! Students in Tina Rimov's class take cover behind over turned tables as they reenact a gas war against the other team. Right: Hallway chatter, ladies sit and talk during lunch, having the chance to catch up during the hectic school day.

Kick back and relax, junior Ian Avilez takes a seat as he watches other people do their thing at the Renaissance Feast. "I was the trumpeter. It was cool. I thought they did a good job. It did good for the first year," said Avilez.

Let's see some production, junior Mark Bowser used his mornings to catch up on his math homework in Tim Helland's room.

What Is Your Favorite Part of Information Systems?

"Ms. Michael; she's my favorite teacher."
- Timothy Robertson, 11

"Maybe the teachers. I have a lot of awesome teachers." - Michael Brand, 12

"My favorite part is all the hot emo guys in girl jeans." - Joshua Halfacre, 10

"The food and the company. It makes me happy." - Lindsay Nelson, 11

"Language Arts, cause Mr. J rocks!" - Nicole Black, 9

Above: Play with fire, junior Tiffany Hamel and sophomore Jordan Willard burn gummy bears in their Science class. "You got to see sparks and you got to see gummy bear guts flying around," said Hamel. Right: Math...sigh... junior Amber Poston sits and concentrates on the next Pre-Calculus problem. "Pre-Cal is like mud. It might be useful to someone else, but I will never use it in my life," said Poston.

Below: Chills your bones, junior Britny Stewart huddles under scarf and a hat trying to keep warm in one of the many fire drills of the year. "Fire drills suck. I always forget my jacket. It gets really cold and rainy," said Stewart

Left: Shoot for two, sophomore Erin Ward prepares to take a shot for the basket during a P.E. class. Ward loved to write and completed a novel in Doug Jenkin's writing class. Middle: More work to do, junior Kristina Walker continues on an assignment, hoping to get the job done quickly. Right: Excuse me? Caught on film, sophomore Troy Bias gives the camera a look as if wondering what in the world is going on.

Below: What did you get? Seniors Scott Allison II and Kurtis Turley compare notes to each other as they make their way through the many booths at the job fair. "It was a great learning experience. It was a good way to learn how to dress and how to act in an interview," said Turley.

Below: Just another fire drill, students may not like how many fire drills we have these days. But to most, they're just another chance to get to see your friends who you rarely get to see, like sophomore Colby Herman, junior Melissa Cordero and freshmen Michael Brewer.

Above: Sup? Sophomores Nicole Wilson and Jordan Martinak spend their lunchtime hanging out in the cross hallway with their friends. When asked what she likes so much, Wilson said "The food. I'm not gonna lie. I like hanging out with friends."

Above: Our body heat will keep us alive, junior Jennie Marshall and sophomore Tedi Massey cuddle for warmth during a cold time out in Heath Stadium during the morning of the 'Paper Airplane Contest.' "That was the loudest and most fun day of my life," said Massey.

If you were stranded on an island, who and what would you bring?

"A hot chick and an ATV for fun under the sun."
- Chance Snyder, 11

"A vegetarian and a fishing pole."
- Taylor Torrance, 9

"I would choose Darth Vader and a light saber so we could battle." - Jacob Dulley, 12

"I would bring my wife, and a replicator from Star Trek." - Art Boykin, beyond our years...

"I don't know...Invader Zim." - Mark Bowser, 11

Physical Systems

In the back of the school, cut off from everyone else, is a strange place called Physical Systems Academy.

It is unique in that it is the only academy to offer Electronics, Construction, Welding, Manufacturing, Drafting, Engineering design, Criminology and Criminal law.

Physical Systems is also home to a number of brilliant under appreciated teachers, such as Mark Martens, Clark Brean and Steve Robinson to name a very few.

Getting a student ready to face the ever changing technical job market through the application of math and science is our specialty, and everyday when we wake up, we know that our teachers will find new and interesting ways to make school worth coming to.

- Senor Senator Bryant Darby

Front: Tom Callison, Anne Lindenfield, Andy Olstad, Denny Baine and Diane Lamb. Second: Ken Ray, Mark Martens, Clark Brean, Steve Robinson, Debby McIntyre and Bonita Gangle. Third: Doug Reisenburg, Larry Anderson, Mardy Benedict, Linda Horner, Sue Thompson, Shelley Powers and Maureen Twomey. Back: Mark Vandehey and Eric Frazier.

What Is Your Favorite Part of Physical Systems?

"It's layed back." - Trever Elder, 12

"The teachers, they are amazing, I love them."
- Ashley Gaines, 10

"Electronics and material science, It's fun."
- Tony Cochran, 11

"Ms. Gangle." - Dustin Beyer, 12

"Welding and Mr. Vandehey, both are fun."
- Bryant Orton, 9

"There are a lot of girls."
- Thadeus Sansom, 11

senior Sean Lindsey works intently on an assignment given out in Clark Brean's science class. "Homework is awesome! ...Not!" Lindsey later remarked.

"The people in this Academy are nice and cool." - Matthew Robinson, 11

If you could repeat one thing everyday,
what would it be?

"Take a shower."
- Skye Story, 9

"Golf and snowboard everyday."
- Christopher Nofziger, 11

"I would sleep..."
- Jessica Griffith, 9

"I would go to a Maladaptive concert everyday because they are awesome."
- Jonathon Hudson, 11

Left: Don't burn your hands, senior Nikolas Zeek welds the blow torch with ease as he works on an assignment, "I was heating brass for casting a ring and a cross in Mr. Robinson's material science class," Zeek explained

Below: Watch out! junior Justin Cramlet chills out beneath his desk as the entire school goes through an exercise earthquake drill. "You're more likely to break your neck while getting under the desks than you are to get hurt by the earthquake itself," said Cramlet, who is about 6' 2" and has a very hard time fitting completely underneath the small desks.

Below: Chip the metal, sophomore Nick Waltenburg uses the lathe in Steve Robinson's class, "I was making a shifter nob for my friend's 1994 Ford Escort. I liked the class because I just got to make parts for cars." This is one of many examples of how many of Physical Systems classes have hands on experience and real world applications.

Below: Concentration is the key...Or in this case, the bullet, sophomore Aaron Beggs looks into the lathe as he makes a replica of a 50 caliber bullet while in Callison's Manufacturing 1 A/B class. "The hardest part of making the bullet was getting all of the dimensions cut out," said Beggs. Sadly, he didn't get the chance to finish the product, but hard efforts were put into it none the less.

Left: Gasp! senior Kyle Bellon shows his surprise to something just said to him. In response all Bellon could do was quote Ricky Bobby and say "shake and bake". Middle: Achtung! senior Royce Schliske gives his attention to a teacher. Right: Ehhh? senior Colton Schumacher reacts to the flash of the camera. "Jolly ranchers are the bomb," said Schumacher.

Below: Liquid hot, pouring metal in Material Science, junior Xavier Dickson carefully prepares for the task ahead. "The best part of that class was when we did the metal pouring, we used wax figures, made a cast, and then poured metal into the cast to make an exact replica of the wax figurines. Every now and then there would be molten metal flying around the classroom, but in the end if your project turned out well it was worth it," said Dickson.

Expenses, along with the hands-on classes, come lab fees. Students are asked for a small sum to make their fun possible. The costs were, $10 for Welding, $10 for Metal, $10 for Material Science, $10 for Electronic supplies, Construction was between $5 and $10 depending on the class level, and Advanced Science was $13 for the carbon copy notepad.

Sparks fly, sophomore Michael Mackie, grinds metal in Manufacturing class to complete a tree stand for hunting. "I learned a lot while making my first one, but my next one will be better."

"In Physical Systems we are pretty laid back and relaxed." - Michelle Smail, 11

Above: "Hey guys, lend me your ears," said Italian exchange student Sofia Barbieri. "Since I got here people have asked what pushed me to come," said Barbieri. "It was a dream I've had since I was little and it finally came true. I wanted to learn English and see another reality. A reality that I found amazing. There were many sad moments during the path, but my friends here helped me a lot, making me laugh and filling my life with love."

Right: "It has always been my dream since I was ten to go to the United States of America," said German exchange student Burcu Tuna. "I never heard someone say that a school year could be the best time in your life, but I definitely can. Coming to Lebanon has completely changed my life. I got to live with the best host family and got to know amazing friends," said Tuna. "Thank you all for being so supportive and so understanding about my accent."

Right: "My hometown is so different because Bangkok is the capital of Thailand," said Thai foreign exchange student Bay Pruthisaranpong. "I used to live in a big city, but I like Lebanon too. Becoming a foreign exchange student is the biggest change in my life," said Pruthisaranpong. "I joined the swim team because I like to swim but in Thailand I don't have time to do any sports. Now I have time, so I am a swimmer."

Right: "I love to travel and meet new people. I think it was the main reason I decided to come to America," said Polish exchange student Justyna Grobel. "I love animals and I would like to be a veterinarian with a specialization in sea mammals," said Grobel. "Next year I am going to Bloomfield College in New Jersey to do pre-veterinarian school. It is going to be a first step in making my dreams come true."

"In Germany you would never find someone wearing sweatpants to school." - Sarah-Lorraine Wolff 12

They Came From Afar

Foreign Exchange

A minimum of eleven hours on a plane and a cost of at least four-thousand dollars was the cash price ten students paid for the chance to live out their dreams and study abroad.

“Even if it cost $10,000 it’s worth it. It’s not the amount of money, it’s about knowing yourself,” said senior Sofia Barbieri of Italy.

Not only did they give up their family and friends for a school year, they also gave up their traditional cuisine.

“I like Turkish food better,” said Burcu Tuna of Germany. “It is healthier.”

Front: Virunpatch “Bay” Prutthisaranpong, Justyna Grobel, Sarah-Lorraine Wolff, Sofia Barbieri, Paula Riess and Burcu Tuna. Back: Michael Brand, Michael Feller, Sören Wieggreffe and Mauricio “Mike” Muñoz.

Wink wink, “My sister really inspired me to take part in the exchange program to the U.S. and I’m glad I came here,” said senior Michael Brand. “I love my new family, playing soccer over here and all of the people.”

“I miss my family and friends...” said Michael Feller of Germany, “...but I’m too busy to think about it all of the time. I met so many people and learned a lot about the ‘American Way of Life’. I feel good here,” said Feller.

“I came here to improve my English and gain some experience,” said Colombian exchange student Mike Muñoz. “I have a really nice host family. Over Christmas vacation we went to Bend and I skied for the first time,” exclaimed Muñoz.

“America Rocks!!!,” said German exchange student Sören Wieggreffe. “I love being here!” said Wieggreffe. “I’m going to miss my American life with all my friends and my family so much when I leave. Do never forget me!!!”

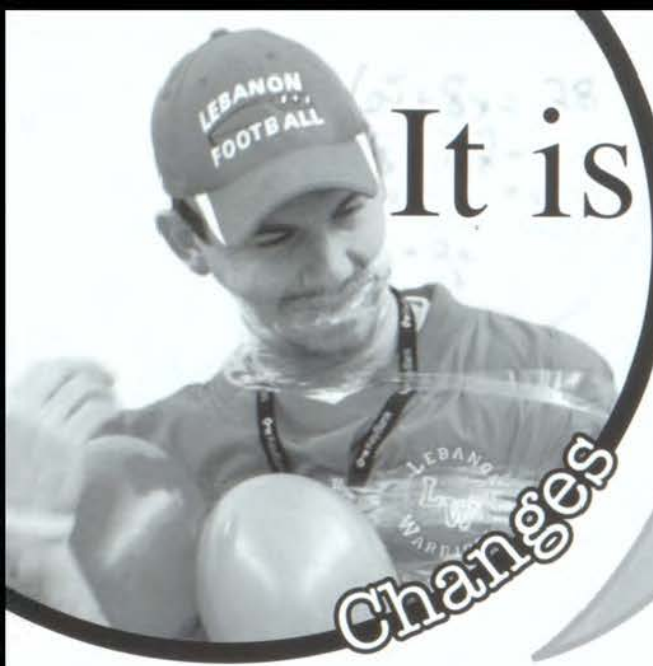

Left: “This year I lived my dream of being a foreign exchange student,” said Sarah-Lorraine Wolff of Germany. “Everything is a little bit different over here. The culture, the language, the home, everything changed,” said Wolff. “I love to see those differences and experience all the changes, even when I have moments where I really miss my family and friends. The decision to come to America was the right and best I could do as a high school experience.”

Left: “People are friendlier and open minded,” said German foreign exchange student Paula Riess. “I came to America because I love the language and wanted to improve it. Also, I was curious what it would be like to go to an American High School,” said Riess. “I have to say it is very different, but I like it. I made friends and had a lot of good experiences. It will change my life forever.”

“High school is kind of fun, even if it’s way too long and you get out late compared to Germany.” - Michael Brand, 12

It is Inevitable

Someone once said that change was inevitable... except from a vending machine, so soda was banned from school grounds and campus was closed. Not to mention all the campus monitors placed to keep us safe and on school ground and of the new secretaries to keep up with the strict new attendance policy.

This year the changes were tough and we had to work through them, but in hindsight you have to admit they were not really that bad.

Overall, if these changes changed us... they changed us for the better.

How's life? sophomore Shawn Garrett and juniors Michael McCoy, Renn Williams and Michael Whaley chat with campus monitor Sam Toy during lunch. "He's a nice guy," said Garrett.

Left: Refreshing, This year the soda in the vending machines was replaced with juice and water. These changes were made as a healthy alternative, and were initiated by State law.

Left: What next? seniors Thomas Evans, Dustin Beyer and Amanda Masog sit in advisory where they prepare for life after high school. "It is better, you get yourself on track to graduate," said Beyer.

Above: Forbidden fruit, Haley Wray and Tabitha Oeder enjoy a soda before soda was banned from school grounds. "I think the biggest change is split lunches, people skip third and have lunch twice," said Wray. Below: Lock down, Michael Lakey unlocks the gates behind the school. One of the campus monitors' jobs was to ensure students safety, as well as less popular jobs like rule enforcement.

"Working with kids keeps you young," said Physical Systems attendance secretary Sue Thompson. "Everyday is a new adventure," she added.

"I like working with teenagers," said Living Systems attendance secretary, Jessica VandenBos. "I like who I work for and with." VandenBos graduated from LHS in 2002.

Online postings, Information Systems secretary Rhonda Restau found her job on the school district website. "I applied and got the job," said Restau.

Tough job, "When people get mad at me, for doing my job, is the hardest part....," said Social Systems attendance secretary Amy McCool.

Above: The line up, Sam Toy, Stephen Cook, Carrie Cummings and Michael Lakey line up for a group photo. "They're really friendly and do an amazing job," said senior Jacob Dulley. "Sam once jumped in front of a moving car," said Dulley. Left: Are you tardy? Everywhere we looked we had these signs to remind us to get to class on time. Some teachers even went so far as to make these signs look cool.

What do you think of the closed campus policy?

I like it!
34.2%

I am neutral.
18.4%

I hate it!
47.4%

Are you tardy?
Do you have an admit slip?

Left: SNOW! It rarely graces our presence but we got snow and a little time off. Of course that means we had to stay longer at the end of the school year.

Crayola My World

Whether it be painting, photo manipulation or simply drawing on your pants until there is no room left, art comes in many forms and is admired by many.

Abigail Bradley entered her collage (left) in the Soc. Sys. art contest held by veteran art teacher Steve Quigley, and it moved on to a regional competition.

Students from all around the school express themselves by putting what they see in our world into their own form of creativity.

It is not all about competition though, most people create art just because it is how they express themselves best.

Left: I see you, junior Sean Stalley expresses his true feelings for art. "I hate Art, except for the janitor. He's a good drummer," said Stalley.
Right: Shifty Foxes, with glares. The foxes were drawn by senior Kristin Chandler. "I love to draw animals and I love to draw comics," said Chandler.

Above: Chocolate Beauty, senior Abigail Lundberg's drawing was entered in the Soc. Sys. art contest.
Right: Masked Italy, "I found a picture of an Italian building, and the mask picture, and it just clicked," said junior Hannah Bartlett.

It is in the jeans, freshman Kenzie Harris shows off her homemade graffiti pants in the Info. Sys. hall. "I just felt like drawing, so I drew on my pants," said Harris.

Reach for the sky, senior Brittany Pruett drew a girl who reaches up through the towering city skyline. It was created using watercolor and ink. "I love art because I enjoy the process of creating," said Pruett.

Above: A tropical scene, senior Angela Baker draws a peaceful boat sailing into the sunset seen through a view of flowers. "It was cool that my piece was chosen out of over six hundred entries for the art show," said Baker. Left: Painted health, junior Melissa Cordero paints the classic fruit basket. Right: Welded holiday, students in Phy. Sys. welding teacher Tom Callison's class created a holiday display from scrap metal and presented it on the school's back lawn.

Above: Gagged by fear, bound by ignorance, this is... "A social commentary on all the injustices allowed to happen in our world," said senior Aubrey Chambers. Left: A blood dusk approaches, "The sunset idea came to me after I saw a sunset in my grandmas house. There is so much beauty in something so simple," said senior Alexandria Atchison.

Sweet as Sugar, freshman Suki Martin draws senior Tina Dodge. "Tina is really cute so she's naturally easy for me to draw," said Martin.

He's got all the itty bitty babies, sophomore Jocelyn Charley shares her drawing from her advanced drawing class with Info. Sys. Art teacher Dawn Callahan.

In a world of blue, senior Marissa Hulse displays one of her many digital paintings which she creates in Adobe Photoshop CS. She was the Photoshop Editor for the Yearbook.

Peas in a Pod

Buzz Lightyear and Woody, Batman and Robin, the Three Stooges, or Timon and Pumba.

Throughout film history one thing has proven true, everyone has somebody they can count on at one time or another.

This remains true for all of us in "the real world."

Whether it be someone you are dating, someone you have known your whole life, or someone you just met. Everyone has other halves who make them who they are.

"It's way easier when you can see them and be with them everyday," said sophomore Amanda Miller. "But if you care enough you can make it work."

Relationships

All in the family, senior Wyatt King, sophomore Emily King and Info. Sys. Math teacher Ryan King show us how loving they really can be.

Left: Cuddle up, juniors Amanda Ellis and Devin McDaniel get cozy before going to lunch. "Devin is the best boyfriend in the world, and he's mine! We've been together for almost a year," said Ellis.

Left: Peace, seniors Amber and Brittany Pruett walk to their next interview at the senior job fair. One of the school's many pairs of twins, these sisters do just about everything together.

Above: I wanna hold your hand, sophomores Dillon Fuller and Shayla Jones take a stroll through the commons during first lunch. Below: Eat up, junior Nicole Springer and sophomore Billy Ferrell chow down on their lunch together. "Billy is handsome, nice, and self-motivated. He already knows what he wants to go to college for. I love him because he is so mature for his age," said Springer.

Brr, it's cold out here, seniors Dillon Middleton, Aaron Kuntzman, Alex Bourne and Chad Claussen joke around during a fire drill. "Dillon is destined to succeed, and Alex is a man above any!" said Kuntzman, of his best friends.

Best amigos, sophomores Kharise Wright and Sage Gerson take time from their talk to eat lunch in the Info. Sys. hallway. "Khari is a good friend. She knows how to have fun and is a kick to chill with," said Gerson.

Armageddon, sophomores Ashley Harlow, Andrea Proffitt and junior Emily Proffitt walk home together on a cold afternoon after school. "I love having Andrea and Emily as my friends! They always make the best conversation," said Harlow.

Above: Lights, camera, action, seniors Mark Ekins, Aric Simmons and Yuriy Mitchenko are three friends who have made many films and productions throughout their high school career. "Yuriy and Aric are really good guys. My high school experience would not be the same without them. They are my entertainment and inspiration," said Ekins. Left: Just the two of us, freshmen Crystal Vandetta and Dustin Hoy get cozy outside at a football game.

"A friend is someone who knows everything about you but loves you anyway" - Ashley Johnson, 12

Moonlight Masquerade

Great music, lots of friends, dinner, amazing dresses and the occasional powder blue suit are all parts of Winter Formal that make it especially fun.

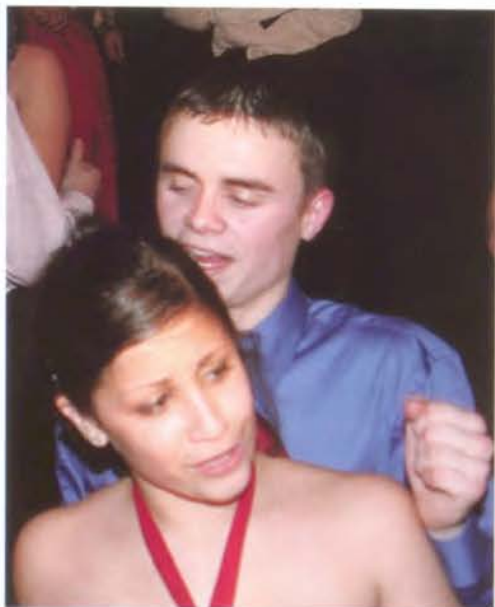

"Everyone looked like movie stars," said junior Kaitlin Thoma.

This year Moonlight Masquerade had many popular songs that got everybody involved, including "Footloose" and "Bohemian Rhapsody" not to mention a conga line that stretched around the entire dance floor.

"All my friends danced with me. It was awesome," said sophomore Andrea Proffitt. After the dance they left tired and ready for next year.

Right: Show me what you got, junior Simon Martinez records the court walking towards the stage. "Lights out, fun on, party begins. I wish it would never end," said Martinez.

Left: Ahhh, freshman Michael O'Farrell enjoys a well needed drink of water while taking a break from his rigorous dancing.

"Court was fun, and I am happy for Scott and Leah for winning. Formal was bad-a and we had a way cool Hummer limo," said junior Morgan Brantner.*

Put 'em up, seniors Taylor Overbeck and Grace Nauman hold up their 'lighters' to Bohemian Rhapsody by Queen. "It's one of the best songs of all time and sung by Freddie Mercury, one of the foremost geniuses of the glam rock era," said Overbeck.

Bust a move, freshman Victoria Pruitt joins her fellow dance team members in an impromptu rendition of their routine to "Bossy" by Kelis. Later, a group of girls joined, trying to catch on to the difficult dance.

Shout! Junior Bradley Plattner throws up his hands and lets out a shout while 'getting his groove on.' "Winter formal was great this year because I had a great date and dancing is always fun," said Plattner.

Get the Job Done

Now Hiring

Jobs and Volunteering

Car insurance, gas, cell phones, lunch, the list seems to be endless. Sometimes you have to find a way to pay the bills.

It is not always easy to find time to volunteer or work at a job in our busy lives, especially on top of everything else we may be required to do. However, some find the time after school or even after sports to do just that.

Next time you go to McDonalds, Burger King, Figaro's, or almost anywhere else in Lebanon, look for one of these people. Without them, how would you eat?

Below: Here is your change, junior Tiffany Morgan gives back change in the student store on her shift during lunch. The student store is open before school and at both lunches.

Would you like some help out? Junior Kody Hayes bags groceries for a customer at Roth's in Lebanon.

Left: What size? Junior Donald Schoenthal hands a pair of skates to a customer at the Lebanon Skating Rink. "Working at the rink has it's ups and downs, but as a teenager it's the most fun job ever!" said Schoenthal.

Left: Home on the range, senior Christen Nordstrand trims a tree at his work. Nordstrand also stayed busy with a full schedule of sports and classes.

Above: You spin me right round baby right round, senior Carson Kelley prepares the movie Night at the Museum. "A job is a job, just pays the bills," said Kelley. "But my job is the best job in town because I work with great people and my bosses are awesome." Below: Keep rolling, sophomore Sarah Schoenthal works behind the counter at the Lebanon Skating Rink. "When I have time, I like to help the little kids learn to skate," said Schoenthal.

One hot dog to go, parent Shelly Shanks helps with the concessions during football season. The Booster Club helped many teams and clubs. Many thanks from the Publications students they helped send to Journalism Nationals in Denver.

Down the hall and to the left, senior Joshua Wolfenbarger takes a ticket and helps a group of women find their way to the theater.

Eager approach, senior Mark Ekins walks up to a house to deliver a pizza from Figaro's. Not only did Ekins work, he also was active in Theater and was an anchor for the newly created 'Smoke Signals' video announcements.

Above: Papa's pizza, senior Linda Loehr makes a pizza at Papa Murphy's in Lebanon. "Working is a good way to gain more responsibility and be more prepared for life after high school. I love my job," said Loehr. Left: Ashes to ashes, dust to dust, senior Chad Greenly sweeps in between the isles at the Kuhn Theater. # Don't drop the...

...spirit stick.

The band begins to play and students file in to gym as the new intense pep assembly is about to kick off.

"The challenge was to find a new way to get all of the students fired up about their school," said Colin McHill.

The leadership class took on the challenge and answered it. They moved assemblies to 2nd period and tried to bring more technology, videos and slide shows for seniors and spotlights. "The spirit was still not quite satisfying," said McHill.

The spirit stick was then born. The competition was immense and students were proud to compete. The gym began to roar every pep assembly and the pep was no longer missing.

Left: Sing out loud, the choir sings at the beginning of the pep assembly. "I love to sing anywhere. I just sing in general, but I most like to sing at the pep assemblies because of all the people," said junior David Aggers. Right: Bring the spirit, the cheerleaders bring more spirit by doing all the pep cheers. " 'Is' is my favorite pep cheer because when we brought it back at a football assembly, the students were so loud! It was insane," said senior Jaleta Parmenter.

Above: Who has spirit? The juniors compete against the seniors in a yelling match. Apparently, the juniors were louder.

Right: Woooooh, sophomore Jordan Bertram shows her spirit by cheering along with the crowd. "I love getting loud and crazy and not getting looked at as weird," said Bertram.

Left: Handstand, sophomore Terry Weist shows his school spirit by dancing in the class competition. "My favorite part of pep assemblies is getting into the spirit competitions," said Weist.

Top Five Pep Assembly Activities

1. Dance Team
2. Skits
3. Class Competitions
4. Choir
5. Cheerleaders

"My favorite part of pep assemblies is when the choir sings." - Colby Herman, 10

Above: Bossy, the dance team shows the results of their hard work. "I like doing the jazz routine," said freshman Kassie Erwin. Left: Blow your horns, junior Megan Tucker plays trumpet at pep assemblies. "Pep tunes are the most fun to play. Everyone in the crowd knows the songs and can groove along," said Tucker. Right: A public affair, "It was fun roller skating but it was embarrassing being in front of the whole school," said junior Laura Zehner.

Above: Is this thing on? To get the assemblies started off, maintenance coordinator Art Boykin gives a speech. "I talk [at the beginning of pep assemblies] to check the sound system. It's better than saying 'check 1, 2, 3, check 1, 2, 3,'" said Boykin. Left: Senior spirit is revealed, as they compete in a dance competition for the spirit stick. "I love when we do all the class spirit things and everyone gets really loud. It's so fun," said senior Jennifer Ford.

Show some spirit, "Pep assemblies can be fun because the interaction that the students have with the assemblies," said senior Sean Lindsey. "The [most memorable pep assembly] was when we had the dance off."

White 'n Nerdy, junior Scott Wilson plays a nerdy boy in his Winter Formal skit. "I came up with the idea right after I found out about becoming formal prince. Winning king was like... the best thing ever," said Wilson.

Santa Baby, junior Morgan Brantner hops back on her bike after visiting Santa during her Winter Formal skit. "Getting dressed up and acting stupid is what makes life worth living," said Brantner.

"Pep assemblies seem alot more interactive this year." - Tyler Pruitt, 11

You Can Do What?

Hobbies

Sometimes there are things in life that just give you a good feeling. Like collecting random objects, playing sports, or even riding a unicycle.

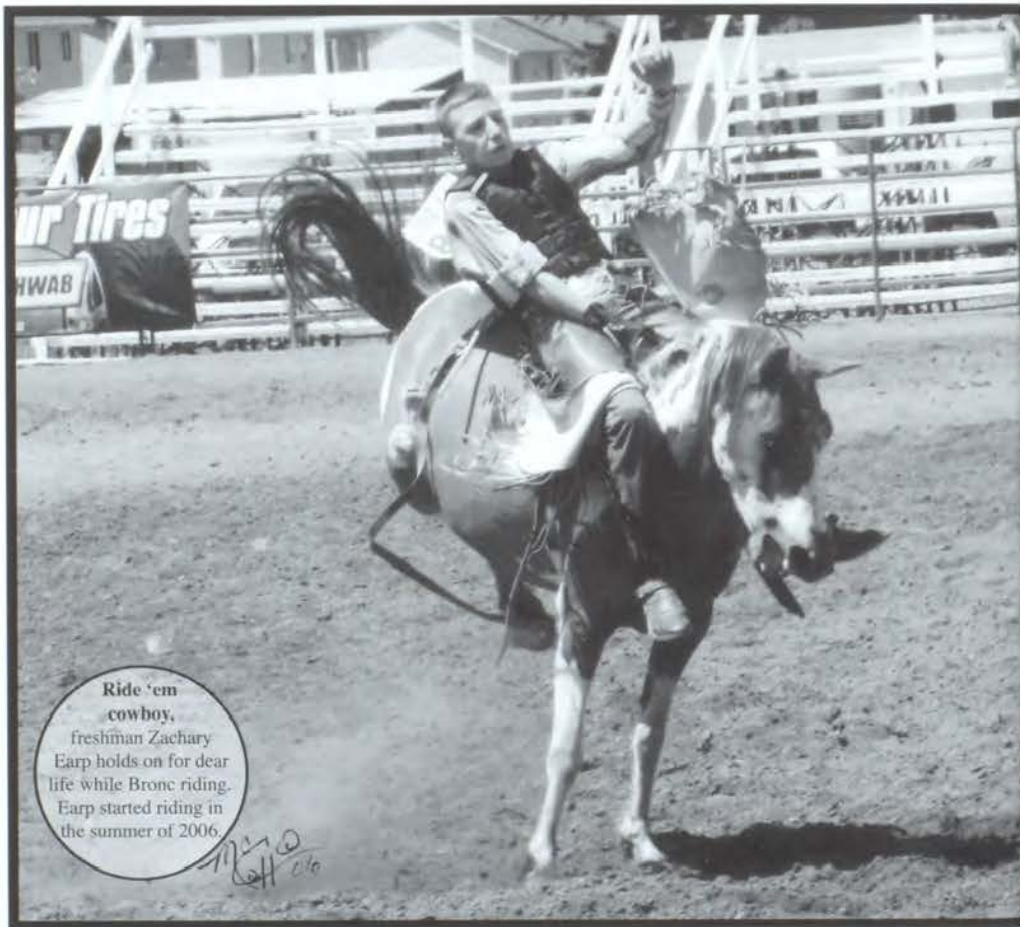

"A hobby is something you do when you're not in school," said junior Stacy Covell.

These add something to our lives, that make us feel a bit more content with ourselves.

Sure, some complain that there is nothing to do in our little town, but many people have found other fun activities to do in their free time, not all necessarily involve going to the movies or the mall.

Right: Cha ching, freshman Ben O'Grady proudly displays his coin collection. Below: Great riches, O'Grady has about a hundred coins in his collection, this is only a small teaser.

Ride 'em cowboy, freshman Zachary Earp holds on for dear life while Bronc riding. Earp started riding in the summer of 2006.

Left: Multitasking, riding her unicycle and playing trumpet, junior Megan Tucker shows skill. Tucker started riding her eighth grade year after seeing a four year old riding and thought: "If a four year old can do it, so can I."

Left: Wild ride, freshman Zachary Earp tries to hold on as his horse bucks around. "When I first started, I got bucked off on my second jump out, it's all really addicting though," said Earp.

Above: Folded art, junior Stephanie Keyes has a talent for origami. "Nicole has an excellent grasp of spatial relationships," said math teacher Tim Helland. With just a small collection shown here, Keyes has a many other pieces, ranging anywhere from majestic cranes to towering buildings. "She really enjoys doing it," said Educational Assistant Melody Antons. "She is very meticulous and exact with her folding. It's one of those things that gives her a lot of pleasure."

The old Fashioned way, sophomore Connor Tyman chooses to play the acoustic guitar over the electric on most occasions. This more classic instrument lets who ever plays it feel the music as they let out the sound they are creating.

A new, distorted twist on the old, sophomore Ronnie Smith plays his electric guitar in a band in which he has stayed with for nearly two years. The harsher sound makes you look up and listen.

Lower in tone, keeper of rhythm. An essential piece to any instrumentation, Sophomore Colin McHill plays the bass guitar. Along with the bass, McHill also plays the piano, and the drums on his free time.

Above Left and Right: "Four years, no five years, no it can't be five, so four, yes, four years!!" said senior Macy Henderson as she tries to remember how long she has been doing Civil War reenactments. Henderson got started doing Civil War reenactments by a friend, and travels all across Oregon, playing the role of a soldier's wife. Henderson said that her favorite part of it all "Is the clothes. And the boys of course."

People

The people at Lebanon High are unique. They give off their own styles and have their own ways of doing things.

These qualities have developed over the years and are an important part in making our school diverse.

Our countless groups are vital in helping us all be more flexible and accepting in a world that does not always find that quality important.

The world these days looks at how successful people are, instead of what people can bring to the picture as a whole.

If we learn nothing else from this experience, let us take this trait to the world.

"Separated lunch is stupid, how are you supposed to meet people?" - Kassie Erwin, 9

"Forwards = EVIL!" - Amber Poston, 11

"My role model is Spongebob Squarepants." - Jeff Miller, 11 "In 50 years I see myself being dead." - Amanda Hermans, 11

Juniors

Third year of the experiment class and another new change, but like the last two years the juniors have adapted. With their last year soon approaching not only was the prospect of graduating on their minds but also what new change they will have to overcome.

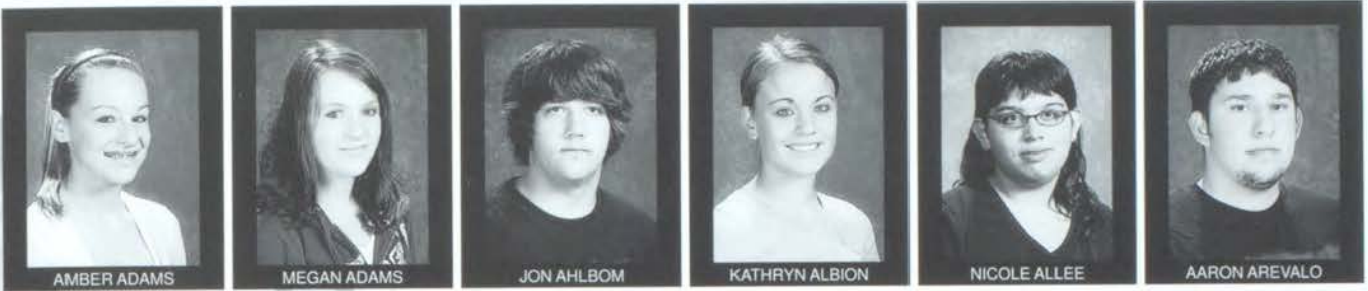

The change of the closed campus lunch and split lunches could not have come at a worse time. As most juniors got their licenses they had to find alternate ways to see friends in other academies.

With graduation and their senior year just around the corner they prepared for the challenge of which colleges they will apply to and the experience of their first jobs.

The junior class has grown together and became one.

Sophomores

Not quite upperclassmen, definitely not freshmen, simply trapped somewhere in between. It is finally time to start figuring yourself out.

Sophomore year means growing up and gaining the ever sought freedom. Whether that be more athletes competing at the varsity level, finally getting your license, or simply being allowed to leave campus for lunch.

With the new freedom however, comes new responsibility, with the new responsibility comes more satisfaction and accomplishments.

Live life for today, but don't forget about tomorrow.

Freshmen

Welcome to LHS!

The freedoms and challenges of high school provided plenty to keep the frosh busy. Learning how to balance academics with social life, sports and clubs with family, being the youngest after being the oldest, all of these things and more kept the Class of 2010 learning and growing.

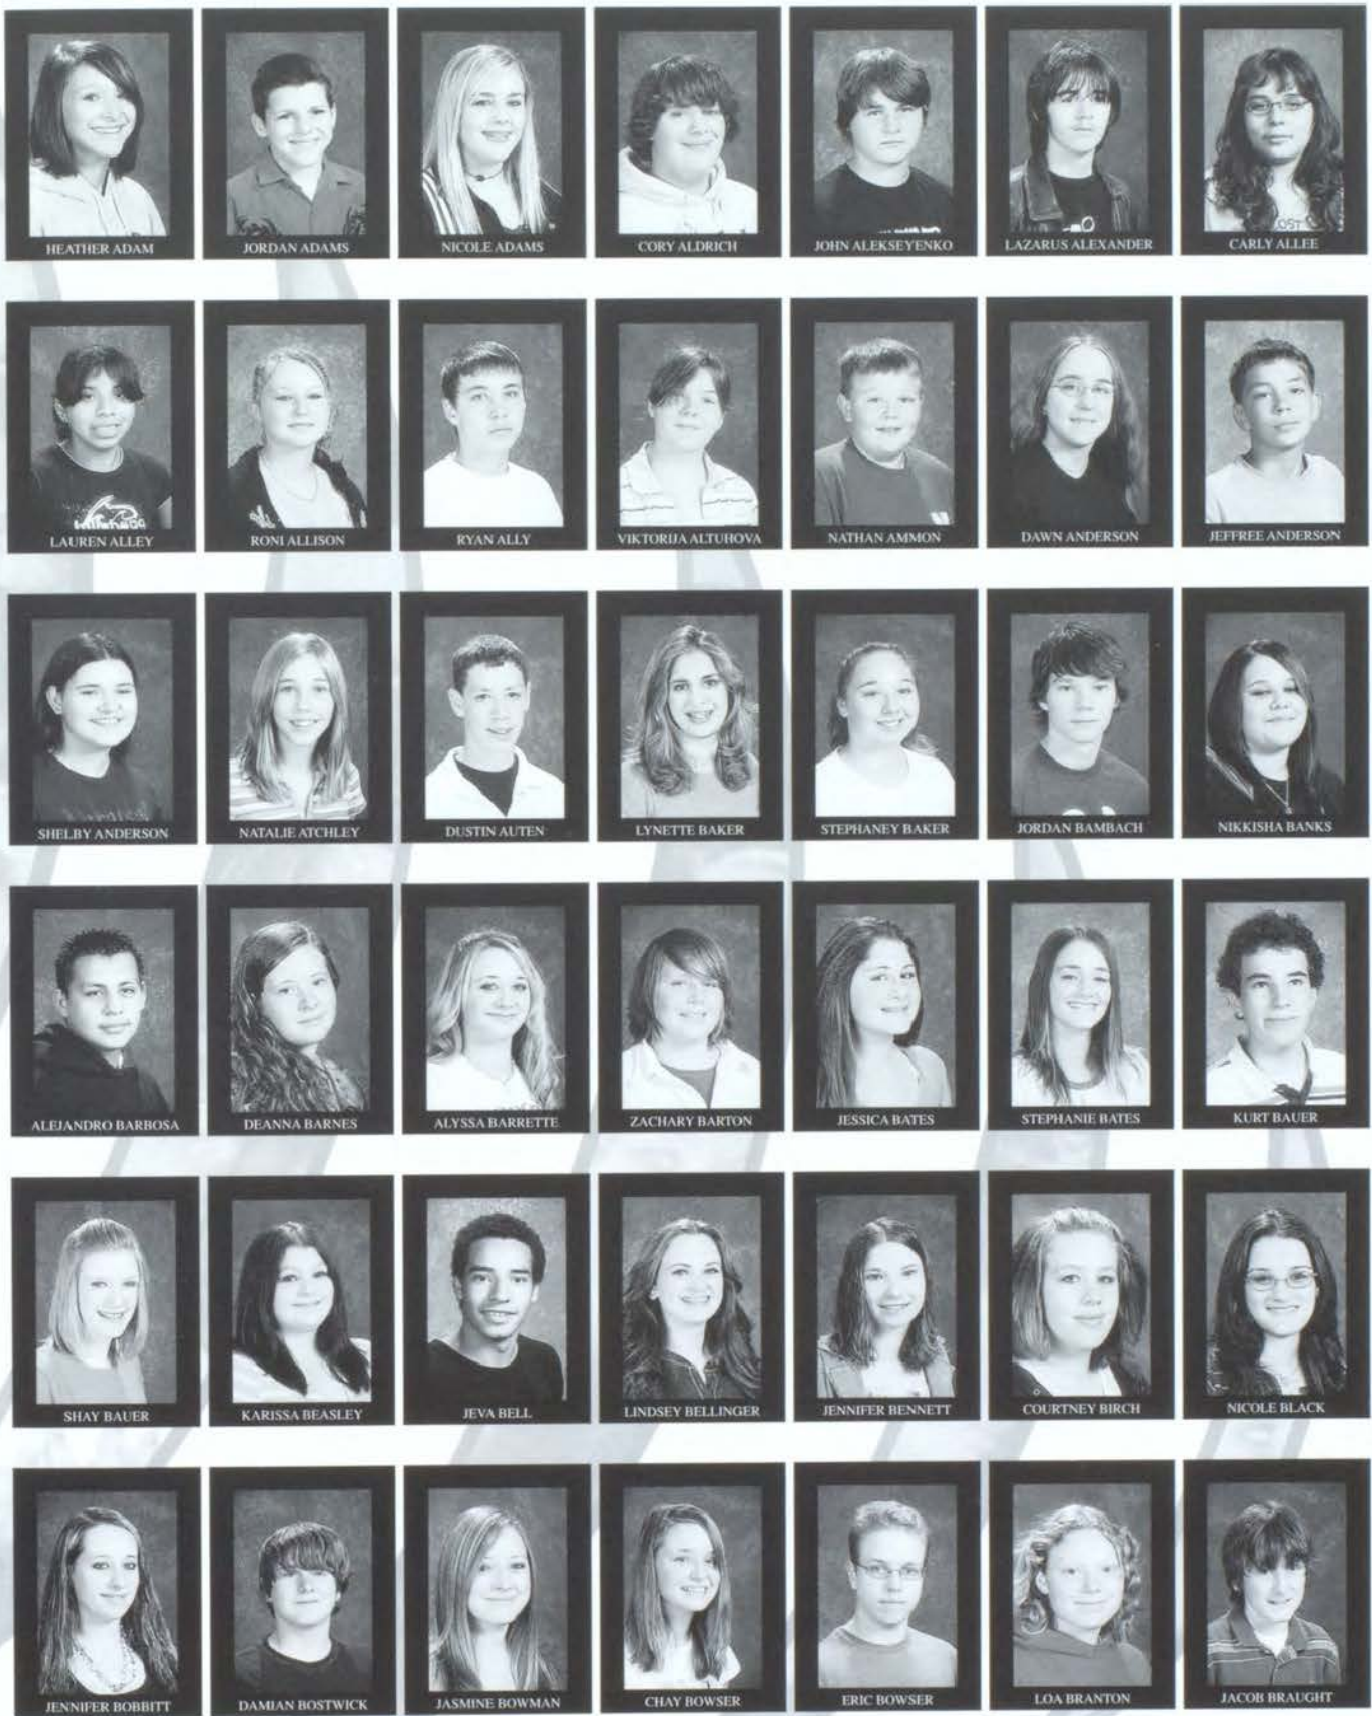

New policies this year made for a different freshmen experience. Closed campus, new hall monitors, stricter attendance policies, a new sense of school spirit...

Some students were upset about the closed campus while others were not really affected. "I was so excited and when I heard that freshmen had closed campus... I died a little inside," said Jeremy Lewis. Others did not think it was a problem.

Choosing an Academy had some unexpected results this year. Were your friends in different academies on First or Second lunch?

Perhaps next year we will have only one lunch again...

Staff

The staff at our school broadened our horizons and opened our eyes to a world of knowledge and opportunity. Our futures were in their hands. They have molded and sculpted us, preparing us for the real world. Every where we turned, they were there helping and guiding us. We entered a new stage of our lives as Freshmen, they welcomed us with open arms. Then watched us grow throughout the years, from akward freshmen, to slightly less akward sophomores, to confident juniors to seniors that just want to get out of these hallways. The staff have been through all those annoying fire drills, and the kids who thought staff were terrible, even though they really did respect them. Here's to the staff of our beloved school, who have stuck with us through it all.

Full of wins, losses and Warrior Pride, this year's sports records were on the rise. No matter what happened, the athletes and fans came out with heads held high.

"We had a lot of seniors on the teams and we knew we had nothing to lose so we gave it everything we had," said senior Brianne Barton.

Training earlier and harder in the season gave the teams an edge over the competition.

"My favorite part of the season was the spirit over here in America," said senior Michael Brand.

Brand, along with Sören Wiegrefe came from Germany and played on the varsity squad.

"The unity on the team was awesome. I've never experienced that before," said Brand.

Though the season started out a little shaky, the team pulled together and added a few wins to the record book.

"The new defense we used worked great when we ran it correctly," said sophomore Michael Mackie.

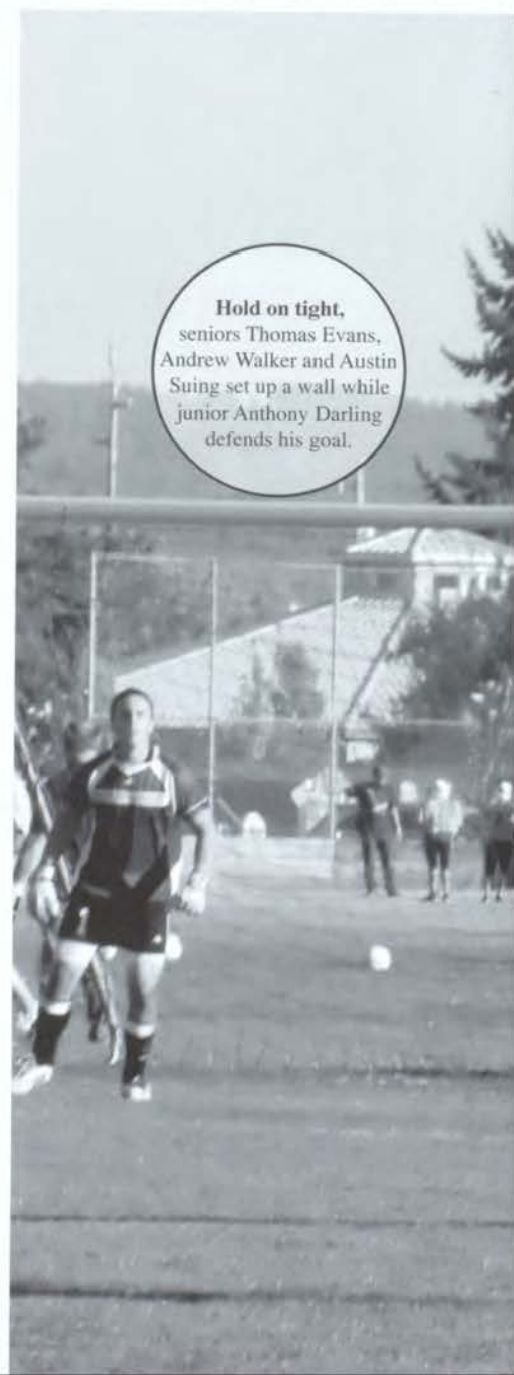

Sadly, the defense nor the offense could pull through in the last game to send the team to play-offs.

On the Ball

The team began with high hopes for the season, working very hard so that they could achieve a season of success. Their hard work paid off and they began the season strong.

They kept a winning attitude and fought through the season with hopes of coming out on top.

"My most memorable moment was when we played against Woodburn, because we really played like a team that game," said sophomore Christian Barajas.

Even though they did not win every game, when they were presented with a challenge, they stepped up to it and did their best to overcome it.

Going for the Goal

New year, new league, new heart.

Once the season began, the girls found themselves working harder than they ever had in the past. Their positive attitudes and expectations of success were well rewarded with great memories and even better friends

"My favorite thing that happened this season is when Melissa almost got in a fight with some girls from Jefferson. It was so funny," said senior Rachael Fabiny.

"Our best game was probably Silverton because we played above their level," said junior Carly Armstong.

Women's JV Soccer

Earning respect by putting their hearts and heads together, the JV girls pulled off a great season.

Their first goal of the season against Century brought triumph and tears to many eyes, while others performed victory dances.

At the beginning of the season, the girls were not winning many games, but towards the end, they pulled together and managed a big victory against South Albany.

"It was really cool beating South 10-0. Actually, it is still really cool," said sophomore Mattea Godsey.

Despite not having a winning record, the girls are optimistic for next year.

Let's try that one again, the girls practice their passing drills as they warm up before a big game.

"My best moment was finishing a game and walking off that field." - Holly Lanning, 10

*Below: Keep your head in the game, junior Alyssa Molina runs after the ball, as the team switches from offense to defense. "Even though it was my first year, I really enjoyed playing. # On your Mark...

The cross country team had a tough season this year. Seeing new faces and new injuries became part of an everyday routine for the team.

They lost a lot of runners who could have helped them, but it was not all bad. It gave a lot of runners a chance to step up and show what they could really do.

Senior Dustin Beyer and sophomore Amy Bloom were voted most outstanding runners because of their fastest times.

"We had some good times, both coast trips, Slurpee runs, and going to hang out at Mrs. Latimer's. It was pretty chill," said senior Matthew Slavenski.

League Champs

The girls started this season off having a clean slate. With a new coach and league, they had a lot to work on, but everyone, including themselves, had big expectations.

They knew it was going to be tough, but with the talent and drive the team had, they made it all the way to state.

Defeating Ashland in their first match, they were sent to the championship bracket where they ended up placing fifth.

Real Football

A rainy night proved to be just what the juniors needed to edge the seniors in a close game. Only one touchdown separated the teams.

Junior Amanda Roadhouses said the best part was "WINNING!" Others just loved being there. However "Mud wrestling afterwards," was thoroughly enjoyed by senior Meegan Robinson

It didn't matter what reason, everyone had a lot of fun.

Both sides agreed that the players' flags would not stay on. The girls toughed it out through the weather and everything else to provide yet another great football game.

Front: Ashley Floyd, Le Anna Bartholf, Nicole Wimer and Anjali Smith. Second: Claire Nauman, Katie Lawrence, Gena Olson, Hailey Opel, Linda Loehr, Nicole Barricklow, Jennifer Ford, Megan Phillips, Brittani Standing and Ashley Henry. Third: Taylor Overbeck, Lena Anderson, Amanda Wilson, Tina Dodge, Tina Lee, Amber Elverfeld, Terri Campbell, Alysia Furman and Heather Walker. Last: Alexandria Atchison, Brittany Pruett, Amber Pruett, Marta Barbosa, Rebecca Fillmore, Jaleta Parmenter, Rebekah Johnson, Hollie Matz, Kaitlyn Townsend and Kathleen Hull.

The guys got their chance to show the girls that they have what it takes to play volleyball.

In the championship game the juniors had an interesting strategy.

"I picture the volleyball as a hackie sack and I picture my hands as feet. That way it's easier for me to hit it around," said junior Steven Castro.

In the end, this didn't provide success for them and the seniors came away with their second championship in a row.

"There was nothing embarrassing, it was all for fun" said junior Christopher Meek.

And... Done, the seniors pose for a photo after their big win. "Who was the most valuable... Me of course," said senior Dillon Middleton.

Right: Just hit it, junior Taylor Bitterman passes the ball over the net in the game against the seniors. Bitterman loved his coaches and said "Amanda and Kacey were the best coaches ever!"

Left: Spike that ball, junior Derek VanAntwerp jumps to spike the ball. VanAntwerp did not have any rituals except, "Getting pumped up with his teammates before the game."

Right: Come on Ref, senior coaches Christen Nordstrand and Michael Lofton react to a call by an official. "We prepared our girls for everything, the weather, the juniors, we just did not know we had to battle the officials too," said Nordstrand.

Left: First and ten, the seniors line up for one of the longest drives of the night. One of the toughest senior players was Nicole Barricklow. She was the center and a key part of the senior defense.

Cheerleading

"Is! Hit it! Is West gonna win the game?" Well no!

The cheerleaders helped our teams bring it all the way. Always shouting cheers for the crowds to follow along with, they brought our teams to the top.

"One of the coaches told the football team that the cheerleaders hadn't given up on them, so they shouldn't give up on themselves. They came back and won that game," said senior Brittani Standing.

With a new coach, new cheers and a new attitude, the team brought cheering to a whole new level. They helped bring the school spirit back to the students.

Explosion

Dance Team

"Cause I'm bossy." Explosion dance team made waves with their first routine of the year, dancing to the song "Bossy" by Kelis. "I'm hanging by a moment here with you," the team shows their softer side by slowing things down with a head turning performance to Hanging by a Moment by Lifehouse.

Stepping up their game at competitions, the team sure made their mark. Through determination and a willingness to work hard at long practices they reached their goal: winning the 2007 State 5A Small Team championship! This was their third state championship since 2000.

Left: Get ready to dance, Kaitlyn Stone shows off her make-up before performing. "You don't get to wear make-up like this everyday," said Stone.

Right: Jump, Randi Newport and Kayla Parker leap for a jaw dropping performance at a Competition. "My favorite routine was our state routine," said Newport.

Left: Show your flair, the team took home second place at a Dance Competition at Sprague High School.

Right: Stop Kassie time, "I would improve everything because I wouldn't just want to be able to do one thing better than everything else," said Kassie Erwin.

Confidence came not only from the crowd but also from the league change.

"I believe its good because we're finally playing the teams we should be," said junior Russell Duerr.

With three quarters of the team involved in football, they had to make a few adjustments. Players from the J.V. and Freshmen teams were brought up to provide support. When football finally ended, the team was brought together again.

"It was hard for everyone to get back into the rhythm," said junior Colton Hackstedt.

After a rough year as freshmen, the team knew more about how to handle the pressures of the higher level of competition.

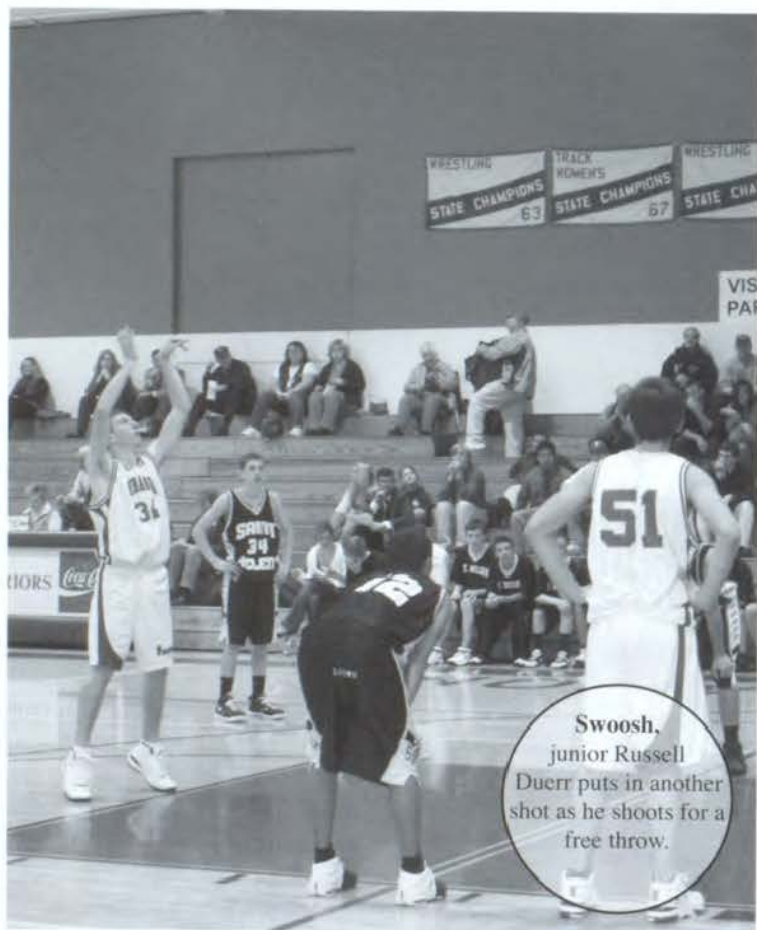

They worked harder on their defensive skills, and their coach worked with them to further their limits.

"Frazier had a little more intense condo than King, but Coach King is the man," said sophomore Brenton Bilyeu

They worked hard despite a less than perfect record. No matter what the score, they never let their spirits sink too low and were ready to play again.

When asked about what was fun, sophomore Justin Estes simply said "Practice and King."

With the new league and a new school to adjust to, the boys had a lot on their plates. "We really had to step up and be more mature about basketball, about high school," said Josh McNeal. With last year's freshmen team assistant coach, Jordon Ford, as this year's head coach for the team, they had to adjust with him as well. "He was a coach who explained everything, and connected with all of us," said Justin Marshall. Practices were a big affect on the overall outcome as well. "Practices were challenging," said Dustin Auten.

Hands Up

Women's Varsity Basketball

Coming off of a successful season last year, the girls were ready to prove themselves in the Mid-Willamette Conference.

With four varsity returners and a lot of help from fresh underclassmen, high hopes were held for the season.

"Basketball tests me as an athlete and I'm inspired to become better. My team inspires me too, because I want us all to do well," said senior Megan Vorderstrasse.

Attitudes like these acted as a foundation to the team as a whole. Teamwork and being selfless was the only way for them to achieve the success that they desired.

Swim like a fish

With everybody watching them in a new league, this season the swim team knew they had to step it up to stay in the competition.

Working twice as hard, and swimming twice as fast, everybody was taking notice of the effort they were putting in, and the success that was coming out of it.

With two swimmers going to district finals, and senior Soren Wieggreffe getting 9th at state, the hard work really paid off.

"Going to state was really amazing. It was a wonderful experience. The team gave me support by wishing me the best of luck," said Wieggreffe.

Life on the Mat

This year they took everything to the mat and let people know how strong they were.

New faces were introduced and some familiar faces reemerged giving helpful tips to the newbies.

These wrestlers worked hard and showed their stuff.

They won the Mid-Western league dual meet schedule under first year Coach Mike Cox.

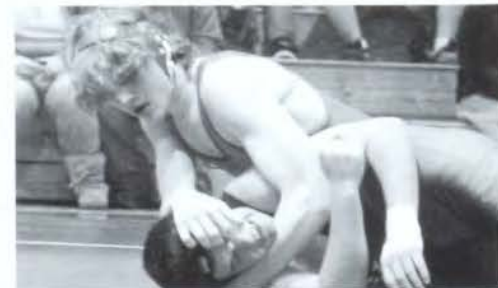

"This wrestling season, so far, is going great. We went to a lot of tournaments and have done well in league duels," said freshman Colton Scavone.

"I love wrestling because it keeps me in shape and gets me stronger," said Casterline.

Below: Face Plant, senior Tye Dickerson sits on top of his pinned Silverton opponent in an attempt to win his match. "It's important to win and improve my skills, winning my match so the overall team wins the duel, and improving my skills so that I'm better when I get to districts," said Dickerson.

Below: Butterfly, freshman Jeffree Anderson stretches on the sidelines before a match. "My favorite move has to be the half-nelson," said Anderson.

Above: Why me, sophomore Rodolfo Salazar contemplates his next move as his opponent has him in a hold. When asked if he would continue wrestling as a profession, Salazar said, "If I had the chance I would take it in a heartbeat. I really love wrestling, everything about it makes everything so great. The mental toughness, the starving yourself, and the work you do for wrestling. It all pays off."

Above: I have my eyes on you, freshman Adam Colwell takes a few mental notes as he stands by the sidelines and stretches before his match.

No sweat, senior Kyle Bellon grabs his opponent using his full force, struggling to get him to the ground.

Right: Sideline chit chat, sophomore Justin Bolen and freshman Drew Deibebe converse while they sit on the sidelines and plan for their matches.

Equestrian Team

A word that can define the Equestrian Team is 'Discipline.' Only having about a single practice a week, they have to work hard to mesh as a single unit, a team.

"If you don't come together to work as a team, you're affected in your performance," said junior Mikki-Lee Williams.

But the team did not need to just grow together as a team, they also needed to grow together with their horses, as equal partners.

"My horse and I do our best every meet and try to do better each time we compete," said equestrian captain senior Alysia Furman.

Right: Get up there! senior Alysia Furman urges her gaming horse, Dee, forward in their competition. "I love my horses equally and do great with both of them," said Furman.

Turn her easy, sophomore Britini Blau turns her horse, Shawnee, around the last pole in the line of pole bending.

Clubs

As the year moves on, students find themselves busy with school, work, family and friends. No matter how full their schedules get, they always find time to do the things they love. "I love going out in the community to pick up newspapers," said senior Jessica Read.

Clubs help students feel a sense of belonging in a place that isn't always easy to get along in. It gives them a feeling of pride and accomplishment when they see how teamwork really pays off.

Although clubs take up time that is often in short supply, they find themselves making time because of the passion they have for what they do.

Looked Up To

Student Government

They come from all different walks of life to form our Associate Student Body officers. Their differences help them to take control of the school with fairness for all.

They share a common goal: making our school a better place to be.

Even though some may not admit it, none of the dances, special events, or even the leadership class itself would be possible without these people.

"My other club officers and their ideas inspire me," said senior KaLynn Alley.

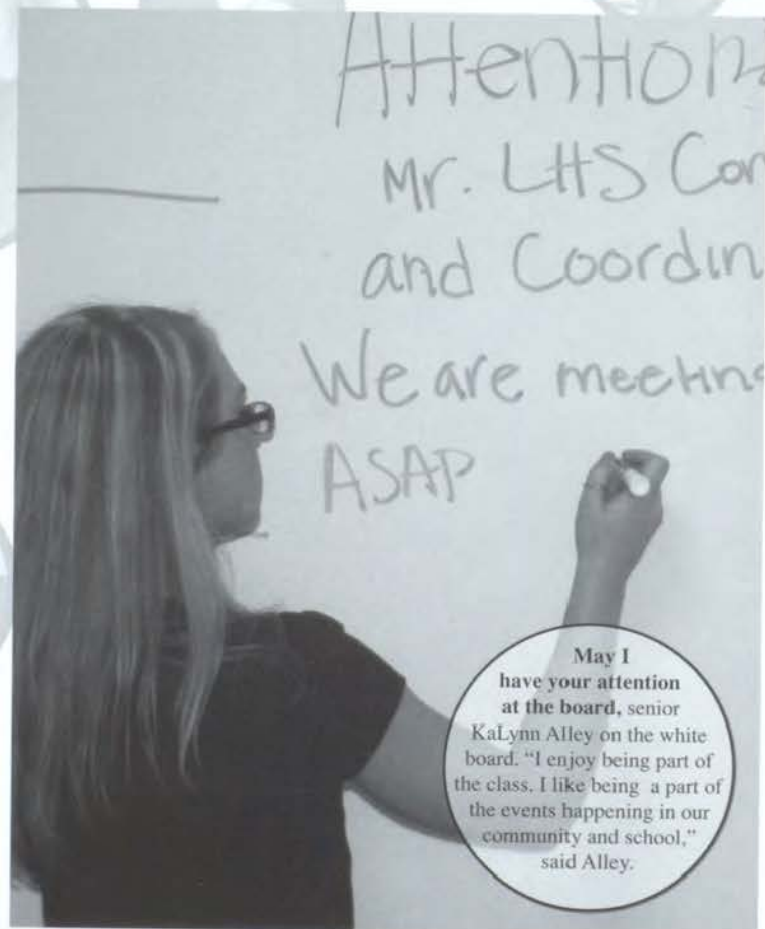

Literacy ain't everything, junior Marcus Giese shows his humorous side while reading upside down in Leadership class.

Stand at attention, sophomore Colin McHill salutes the flag at a pep assembly "If I ruled the school I would have a pep assembly with mud wrestling contests," said junior Marcus Giese.

Clean tear, sophomore Emily King rips a piece of paper off to create a poster. "I like having an impact on my school," said King.

May I have your attention at the board, senior KaLynn Alley on the white board. "I enjoy being part of the class. I like being a part of the events happening in our community and school," said Alley.

By Example

If you love school dances, Powder Puff and Tuff Puff, the wonderful posters all over the school, and else that happens here, the leadership class can be thanked.

"Leadership class is important because you need to organize and prepare certain things. Also, to support school spirit and the community," said senior Soren Wiegrefe.

Junior Tiffany Morgan added, "We support our teams and clubs with posters."

Never Boring

With the biggest crowd turnout for any show yet, the drama club rocked the stage.

involvement of the community really motivated us all," said senior Alysia Furman.

Drama is a way to have fun and be involved in competitions. Three students were selected to Showcase their performance at State.

After a year of so many hits, the Drama club has left audiences wondering what they will do next.

Left: Everybody cut footloose, junior Scott Wilson dances across stage as Ren McCormick in Footloose. "Drama is awesome, everybody should join it," said Wilson.

Right: Learning to be silent, junior Minnie Phillips plays Ren's mother in Footloose. "Can you sing and dance and act at the same time? I didn't think so," said Phillips.

Left: Strut your stuff, senior Trevor Lauffenberger crosses the stage with confidence. "I was Tim, not Tiny Tim, thank you very much," said Lauffenberger.

Right: We need a hero, freshmen KaryAnn Lane and Kelsey Wray sing in Footloose while riding a table. "It was fun getting to dance to my favorite song," said Wray.

Right: Unsung Heroes, Roseanne Parker, Jeanie Ogilvie, Grace Nauman, Jonathan Hudson and Mark Bowser show that even though they are behind the scenes, they still have character.

Generation Life

Generation Life got off to a rough start when Split lunches caused a drop in attendance but they bounced back with the advent of the small groups. That gave members a chance to get to know their fellow students better in an even closer environment.

Student speaking and worship have been other improvements in the club. "Worship has gotten more involved, covered in gooey musical goodness," said president Brittany Pruett.

Hymns anyone. "My favorite thing in Generation Life is the singing," said sophomore Tiffany Russell.

Top: Sing your heart out, junior Aaron Arevalo and senior Allen Greve sing during worship time. "My favorite thing about Generation Life is the worship music," said Greve.

Someone notable, "Jesus Christ is the most notable, without him there wouldn't be Generation Life," said senior Amber Pruett.

Bowser brothers, junior Mark Bowser and sophomore Eric Bowser share many interests including Generation Life.

Sports and Faith

What exactly is the Fellowship of Christian Athletes?

Their name really answers it all. This student lead group meet faithfully every Thursday during lunch.

With the help of teachers like Denny Bain, Mardy Benedict, and Jeff Stolsig.

They enjoy the company of fellows athletes who also share their faith. "We aren't going to turn anyone away, its positive" said Benedict.

 "FCA is a group of cool Christians." - Russel Duerr, 11

Schum-Ba-Tune-Bop

"Music is the root of all emotion," said senior Leah Suderman.

For some, band is a class, for others it is life. It is evident in the amount of time spent practicing, the dedication to a quality sound, and the "Better than you" t-shirts that the band sports at the basketball games.

"Whenever the basketball team would win, the band would rock out and it would be fun because we would feel like a family," said junior Britny Stewart.

With the games came togetherness.

With togetherness came emotion.

And with emotion came music.

Right: Jazz Band

B: Front: Samuel Groner and Elia DeJesus. Back: Aaron Budiselich, Alison Stewart, Sean Cady, Stephen Silva, Kurt Bauer, Ellen Mattison and Amanda McDowell.

"Getting ready for a concert can be pretty nerve racking for some people. There is a lot of practicing involved," said sophomore Ashley Comer.

Concert Band: First: Sheree Speaks, Tyler Zalkind, Jodi Young, Ashley Comer, Viktorija Altuhova, Emily Wright and Alyson Stewart. Second: Julisa Pineda, Justine Meyer and Makenzie Fox. Third: Abby Manning, Terra Piper, Sean Cady, Kurt Bauer, Elia DeJesus and Samuel Groner. Last: Steve Pyle, Deantae Wickware, Allison Kerins and Sean Stalley.

Two brass and some strings, senior Leah Suderman, and juniors Ian Avilez and Sean Stalley play together at a basketball game.

Wind Ensemble: First: Grace Nauman, Amanda McDowell, Jennifer Meadowbrook, Lindsey Ness, Alyssa Archer, Susan Sutton and Tyler Woodhouse. Second: Malinda McNaughtan, Jeffrey VanEpps, Joshua Tunnissen, Allison Kerins, Timothy Deschellis, Leah Fandiño and Benjamin Williams. Third: Aaron VanEpps, Minnie Phillips, Claire Nauman, Taylor Overbeck, Joseph Hill, Grant Dunigan, Nathan Carrasco, Trevor Cook and Flint Yoder. Last: Joshua McCaw, Joseph Conrad, Gena Olson, Britny Stewart, Damian Bostwick, Katharine Dunigan, Kyli Barnett and Emma Newton.

"Everyone joined band in 6th grade, I followed along..." said the single senior clarinet player, Grace Nauman.

"Playing at the games is the best part of band. 'Gimme Some Lovin' is my favorite song," said freshman Sam Groner.

Jazz Band A: First: Grace Nauman, Benjamin Williams, Thomas Evans, Samuel Groner, Elia DeJesus and Alison Krebs. Second: Britny Stewart, Sean Stalley, Minnie Phillips, Claire Nauman and Joshua McCaw. Last: Colin McHill, Ian Avilez, Leah Suderman, Megan Tucker and Grant Dunigan.

Left: Play that brass, senior Claire Nauman plays at a basketball game. "I love playing at the games, but I love symphonic band as well...trips are cool, and Mr. Head is amazing," said Nauman.

Right: Flutes up front, Susan Sutton, Sarah Vojnovich and Alyssa Archer take front row in the concert to play their flutes. "I love pep games and parades," said Vojnovich.

Dr. Who? Junior Megan Tucker plays along in pep band. "Everybody knows that the trumpet is the best instrument hands down, you can't deny it," said Tucker.

Field show fun, "I liked watching the tape and hearing 'who's the hottie with the xylophone' in the background," said Minnie Phillips.

Solo, Leah Fandiño plays a solo in Jazz Band. "Practices are my favorite part of band, because we mess around and have fun while learning a new song," said Fandiño.

Important as the rest, senior Taylor Overbeck plays the xylophone. "Band kids rock. We're all kind of strange..." said Overbeck, who is the only xylophone player.

Robotics

Robotics is another vital part of extra curricular activities. This team adds a lot of fun and personality to our school.

Lead by team captain, junior Ian Avilez, the team created many fun memories. "Robotics is my life," said Avilez.

Scrimmages, trips to San Jose, and late nights building robots, made up for a fun atmosphere. They also won the Chairmans award at Regionals.

All in all, Robotics was a fun way to learn more about electronics, make friends, and make great memories.

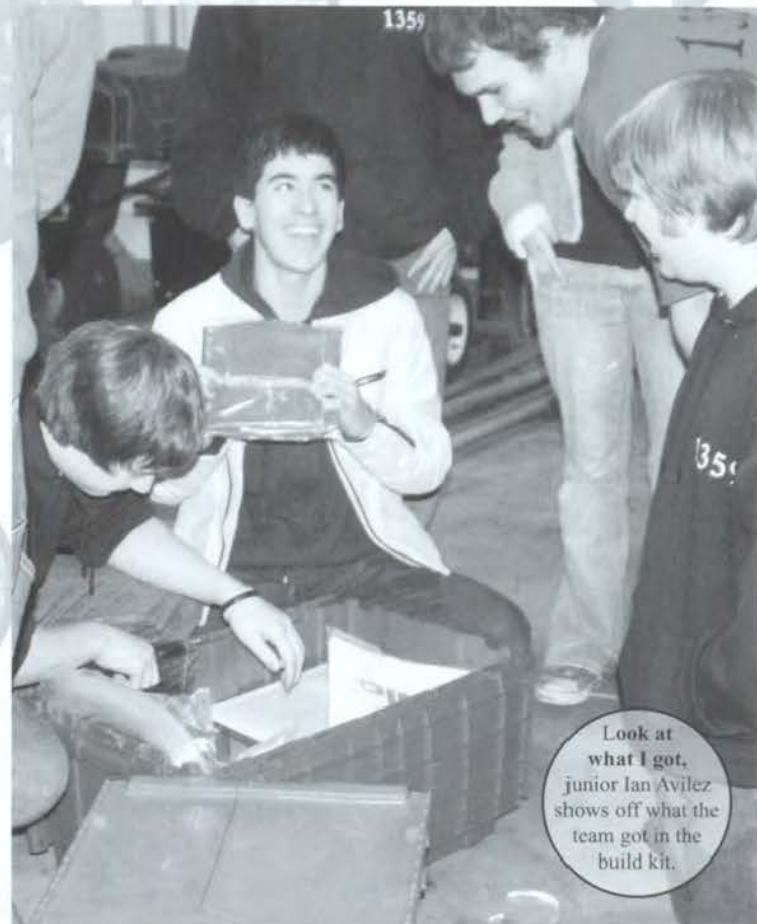

Lunch break, junior Stephen Linville takes a minute to grab a bite of his burger between rounds during a scrimmage at Crescent Valley.

Above: Sneak attack, junior Tyler Pruitt sneaks up behind freshman Samuel Groner with all intentions of scaring the guy out of his wits. When asked about the incident Pruitt said, "Mmm... guppy."

Lost in thought, junior Amber Poston observes a match. "Robotics is more than a bunch of nerds building a big machine... it's our future."

Look at what I got, junior Ian Avilez shows off what the team got in the build kit.

First: Will Driskell, Emily Skipper, Mark Bowser and Aaron Arevalo. Second: Tim Dechellis, Eric Bowser, Nathan Carrasco, Stephen Linville, Amber Poston, Tyler Pruitt, Stacy Covell and Elia DeJesus. Last: James Todd Miller, Dalton Lott, Ian Avilez, Josh Tunnissen and Sean Stalley.

Left: Huh? Junior Sean Stalley sits on top of the team robot as he listens for instructions from his team captain.

What's cook'n?

Although SkillsUSA is one of the smaller clubs, it holds many opportunities. Along with gaining cooking skills the members gain leadership skills and lots of new friends. They raise funds through many activities including cooking the teachers lunch every half day.

"It's a good opportunity to meet new people and learn new skills," said junior Ashley Lanpheare. Lanpheare was recently elected to the State officer team.

Left: Lunch time, senior Amanda Dewitt waits in line to get herself some food. Right: Punch anyone? sophomore Kenna Marzano pours herself a glass of punch during a SkillsUSA luncheon.

First: Karena Rodriguez. Second: Neva Clausen, Ashley Lanpheare, Alexandria Atchison and Nicholas Thompson. Last: Andrew Walker, Nate Jones and Jason Freitag.

Sing Your Heart Out

president junior Ethan Grenshaw.

Do we truly know the meaning of choir?

To many it is memories that will live on. "I know we'll all remember Liana Tunnissen falling down all the time, even when there is nothing to trip over," said choir council

"We are like a family because we are all so close and are all crazy," said vice-president junior Brittany Wolff.

Yet it is not all fun and games, as in some families the students are pushed to their fullest. Junior Joshua McCaw was heard saying "Mr. Wong I wasn't made to sing that high!"

But everyone still sang their heart and soul out.

Exitement Reigns, Chamber Choir member 'Princess' Aubrey Chambers cheers on the knights performing in the tournament at the Band and Choir Renaissance Feast.

Close Bonds, Sara Loeks and Jolene Flanigan get happy. "Lots of different friendships are made in choir, it's about having fun! and doing your best."

In it for Life

"National Honor Society is a prestigious organization.

It's been around for a long time.

Members should feel grateful to be a part of such a time honored tradition," said senior Aubree Mayfield.

NHS is a scholar based club that also volunteers.

Juniors and seniors are accepted based on their ability to demonstrate scholarship, leadership, character and service.

"When you are inducted into National Honor Society, you are a member for life. It is great to have members who practice the four pillars throughout their entire lives," said Mayfield.

Bad Poetry Day

"My love is like an old house; it's peeling my soul in revealing.

Your love opens my pores, revealing secrets like opening drawers.

My love is so used, my heart is abused.

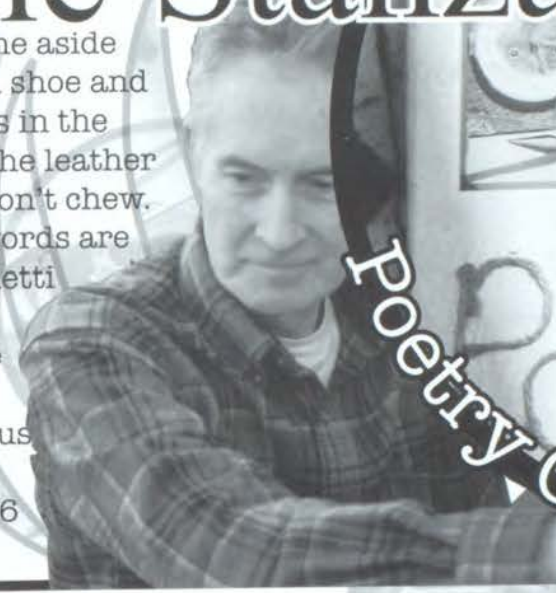

Whenever I see you, I feel like I have the flu.

When you say you, you're referring to who?

You cast me aside like an old shoe and sometimes in the morning the leather straps I won't chew.

Your words are like spaghetti and toes, rough like a yeti!"

Out on the Farm

National FFA Organization

"FFA gives students an opportunity to demonstrate leadership skills and knowledge of agriculture," said senior Kathleen Hull. Students learn how to improve their poise and their showmanship, whether they are showing animals, plants or if they are in a competition. FFA is a good way to learn about the land and animals, and how to work with it, and gain from it. "We compete in contests, learn leadership skills and show animals at fairs," said junior Rashelle Ufford.

Extra, Extra

Newspaper class has been hard and fun at the same time because they have only 15 to 25 students in the class. It is hard when you have nine plus hours of paste up one night, every three weeks.

"A lot of people come in to pub and see us having fun, but they don't see how much hard work goes into it," said sophomore Tedi Massey.

Yearbook

... Tina rockin' everywhere.

"Being the Editor-in-Chief is stressful because there is so much stuff that needs to be done and it takes a lot of time," said senior and Editor-in-Chief Tina Dodge.

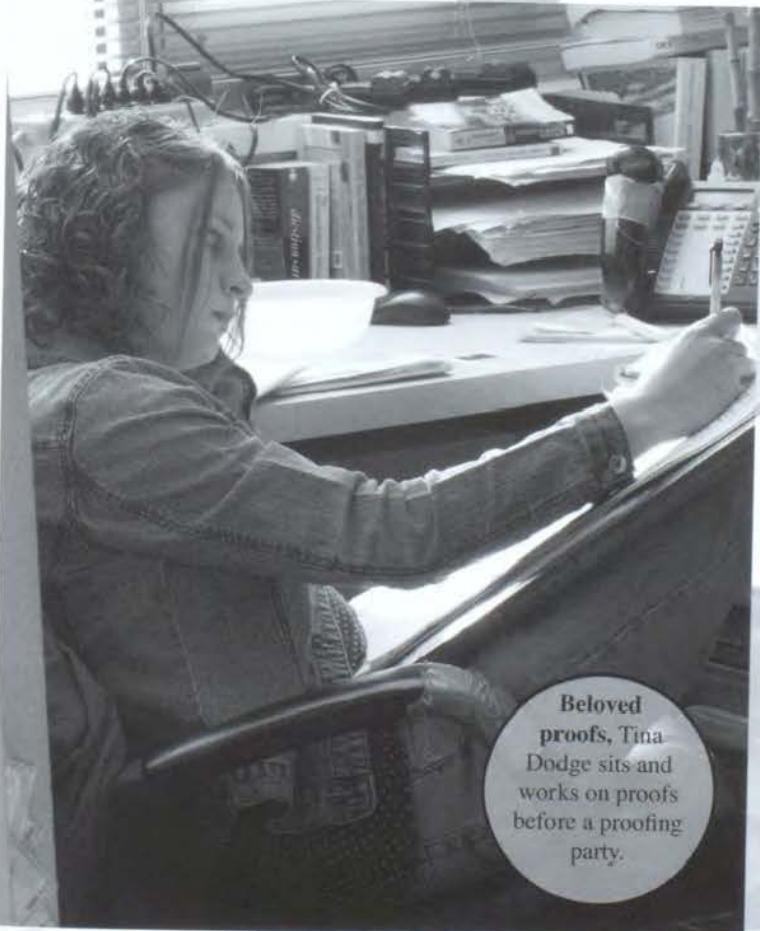

Yearbook has been successful this year because of the hardwork and long hours that students put in everyday to keep the yearbook running.

"Yearbook has helped me discover the many wonders of In Design," said Dodge. "I got to design the whole yearbook."

Left: Hello, would you like to buy an ad? Senior Ashley Johnson makes a phone call. Right: One, Two, Three, senior Angela Baker tallies senior polls. "I like to take photos," said Baker.

Make a Difference

Students Today Aren't Ready for Sex. This is the message that S.T.A.R.S. leaders send to kids throughout the community.

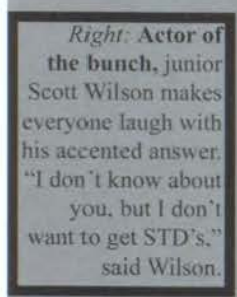

Sophomores, juniors and seniors throughout the school all come together on Thursdays to talk to sixth graders about sex, different pressures they can feel, and ways to say no.

"S.T.A.R.S. is a great thing, I have seen teens who have made some mistakes," said senior Keith Gilbert, "and I don't want the next generation to do the same."

Left: Groovy, senior Jeanie Ogilvie decides what colors to add to her tie-dye shirt. "Hmmm... pink and green... like a watermelon," said Ogilvie of the colors.

Right: Actor of the bunch, junior Scott Wilson makes everyone laugh with his accented answer. "I don't know about you, but I don't want to get STD's," said Wilson.

Right: Public speaker, junior Kendra Palinkas introduces herself to the S.T.A.R.S. leaders. "Sixth graders are cooler than you think," said Palinkas.

Right: Active listener, sophomore Allyson Grothmann takes a break from reading her part to listen to her teammates speak. "S.T.A.R.S. inspires me to be a better role model," said Grothmann.

Pay attention, sophomore Tamika Montoya looks at her script. "I like S.T.A.R.S. because I like helping little kids," said Montoya.

Hi my name is., sophomore Colin McHill introduces himself to a group at leader training. This was McHill's first year of S.T.A.R.S.

Role plays, senior LeAnna Bartholf and junior Anthony Darling act out a scene during a session.

Left: Eye contact, junior Amy Buchheit listens as a sixth grader answers one of the questions asked by a leader. "I like the message, and the people involved are great as well," said Buchheit.

Right: Help out, junior Kacey Setzer circulates around the tables while students fill out worksheets. "My S.T.A.R.S. group is really fun, and I think we do a good job getting through to the kids," said Setzer.

Helping Hands

Key Club

Key Club is a group of students who devote their lunch time every other Monday to plan new activities to help out the community.

They do many different activities through the year to help people who are less fortunate or just the community in general. "I hope to bring joy into people's lives by volunteering. I want to help my community in all ways possible," said junior Kaycee Norton.

Key Club partakes in one service project each month with the hopes of making the community a better place to live.

Big help, junior Steven Patterson stops to take a breather after watching a few people get their blood drawn.

Above: Water Anyone? "It was my job to make sure people drank water before they gave blood," said sophomore Beth Cathcart. Drinking water helps blood replenish faster.

Supervision, junior Alaina Ward checks around to make sure that things are working during the blood drive.

Get Involved

Cleaning up the community is what Keystone club strives for.

Keystone is done through the Boys and Girls Club, which is also where they have their meetings, deciding how and where to help next.

They were part of the Oregon beach clean up, the Relay for Life, a cardboard cram and many other projects.

"We all love to help as much as we can, it's amazing!" said senior Tabatha Price.

Leaf pile, the Keystone leaf raking group takes a break to just lay down on the bags of leaves to rest after a long days work.

Follow the leader, sophomores Megan Zaina and Madison Phillips work with the children at the Boys and Girls Club.

Teamwork, senior Amber Elverfeld puts some leaves in sophomore Emily King's bag at the Century Park clean up.

"My favorite project has been the cardboard cram. We worked so hard and got almost $1,000 for Jason White. We slept in cardboard boxes behind the Boys & Girls Club overnight, it was a blast." - Tyler Patterson, 11

Leaders of Tomorrow

Whether it was volunteering at the Humane Society, donating money to charity, or flying to Orlando for nationals, DECA members have done things this year to help their chapter and their community.

increase in membership, a lot more was able to happen this year.

Juniors Christopher Meek and Kaitlin Thoma were elected as state officers, and 9 members were able to attend nationals.

"The best thing was when Chris won president! It was crazy!" said junior Briana Tracy.

Overcome Obstacles

Special Education

Helping pick up garbage, delivering papers, or collecting pop cans to help feed class pets, special ed students are more than just students, they are valuable helpers throughout the school.

"The best thing about school is my paper route," said junior Charlie McDonald, "I like delivering newspapers to classrooms."

Left: Could you please repeat that? senior Stephanie Felipa sits and listens while some instructions are given by Teacher Linda Seeno.

Right: Correct, junior Eric Stuart does a little cheer after he finds out he got a problem right on his flash cards.

Give Blood: Play Rugby

Enthusiasm for the rough and dirty game was extremely high in the beginning.

Over 200 students were interested. Due to lack of supervision the team was not able to play any games.

Finding practice space was a struggle at first, but the issue was resolved.

"Rugby is the best sport I've ever played in my life," said senior Aubrey Chambers. "The people are amazing. They are from all walks of life, and built something truly worthwhile."

I got you, junior Christopher Giguere grabs sophomore Steven Pyle around the waist to pull him to the ground.

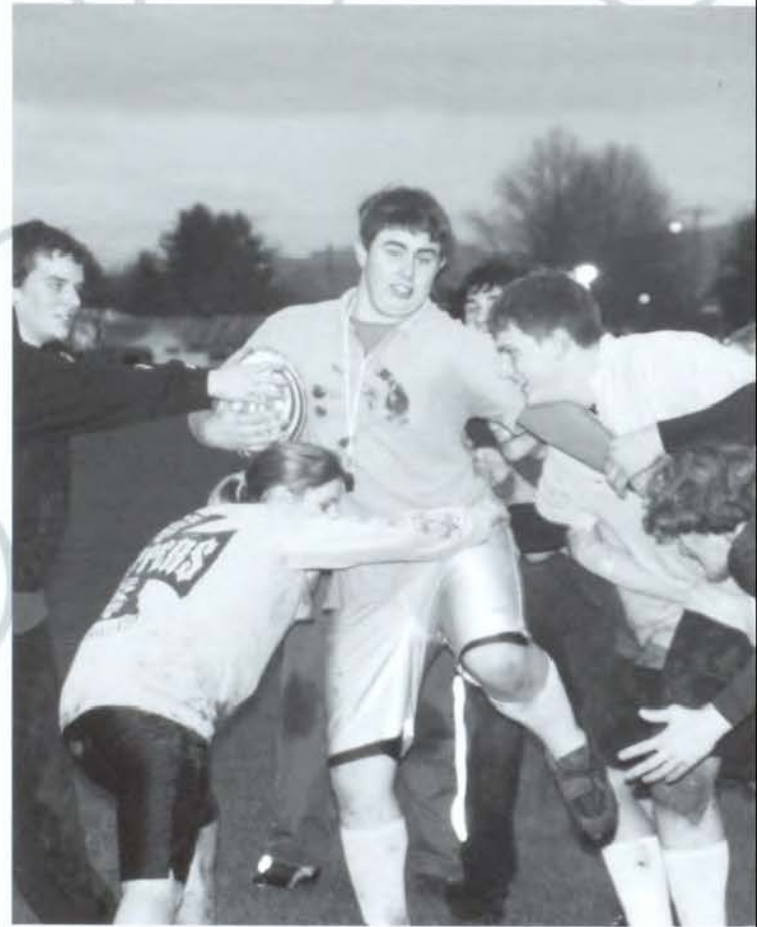

Look mom, no hands, Eddie Travino gets lifted into the air to be thrown down.

Woah, sophomore Dallas Oeder watches senior John Thompson tackle sophomore Francis McDaniels during practice. "Rugby is better than all the other sports. It's like high speed chess, strategy and brawn," said Thompson.

Voices of Change

Voicing Our Ideas for Change Effectively.

Our Purpose is to help the administrators and teachers, help the students. We are the VOICE of the students. The topic this year is bullying. A school is meant to be safe and welcoming but when it comes to the point where someone does not feel welcome, that is not good.

Voice was established to make LHS a friendlier school, and that is what

VOICE

Use your voice, "I wanted to make a huge difference in our school. Students have a voice too, not just teachers," said junior Sarah Vojnovich.

Focus, "I joined V.O.I.C.E. because I wanted to voice my opinion to make the academies better," said junior Alania Ward.

Front: Alania Ward and Coddie Marshall. Back: Raluca Walker, Thomas Shanks, Gabrielle Burns, Sarah Vojnovich and Jeanie Ogilvie.

Transformation, "I think the school has changed but it wasn't just V.O.I.C.E.," said sophomore Coddie Marshall.

A Day in the life of... Art Boykin

"I am not a janitor," said Facility Operator Art Boykin.

Though we see Art Boykin everyday, there are things we do not know about him. His tasks range from opening all doors into the building to painting lines on the sports fields. He is training to be a licensed electrician, he knows how to operate the video cameras and he also has some responsibilities at the land lab.

And just in case you were wondering about the fire alarms, the manual was found and read.

"I am glad that I got picked to work at the high school. I would rather work here than anywhere else."

Community

People, community groups and businesses are the backbone of any community, and thanks to the outstanding students, supportive parents and contributing businesses, our community gets better from day to day.

From sporting events to the advertisements in the back of our yearbook, this community has stood by us to help us be successful at whatever we do.

Donating goods and services, sponsoring teams and events, supporting our students, volunteering... From all of us-hope you choose the one that means the most to you and if one door opens to another door closed I hope you keep on walkin' 'til you find the window if it's cold outside, show the world the warmth of your smile my wish for you is that this life becomes all that you want it to your dreams stay big, your worries stay small you never need to carry more than you can hold and while you're out there gettin' where you're gettin' to I hope you know somebody loves you and wants the same things too yeah, this is my wish I hope you never look back but you never forget All the ones who love you And the place you left I hope you always forgive and you never regret and you help somebody every chance you get Oh, you find God's

Samantha Gail,

Once upon a time, there lived a happily married couple that shared an identical inoperable medical condition. Each had a hole in their hearts that only a miracle could mend.

For twelve years they prayed for divine intervention. Across the nation, raised in a home with no indoor plumbing, deep within the Appalachian Mountains of Kentucky, lived a painfully shy Superhero, named Debbie.

For nine months, unbeknown to anyone, Debbie walked an excruciating road of hidden secrecy.

Rather than simply eliminating her problem, alone, in a bath tub, she unselfishly granted you the ultimate present
The Gift of Life!

She sacrificially blessed two strangers in Oregon with the same gift, by choosing us to be your parents. The night you flew into our lives, you made medical history. At five months old, you became the world's youngest surgeon.

Instantaneously, when our eyes met yours, the gaps in both hearts were repaired and evermore healed. The longer version of your story has been repeated often. People have been forever touched by Debbie's brave decision to permit you, Gods' Masterpiece, to enter this world. Although feisty and strong-willed, you have an infectious uniqueness.

Your love for Jesus and desire to be molded into a Godly woman, Speaks volumes to those you come in contact with. Proud doesn't begin to describe what we feel for you.

We knew then, know now and will forever believe that; We are the most blessed parents to have walked this earth.

Thank you Sam, for every single moment of Yesterday's, Today and Tomorrows.

We love you beyond words.

Dad, both of your Moms, umpteen relatives, Kyle & siblings: Taylor, Jake, Jordan, Dylan, Victoria, Brandy, Melissa, Tina, Jason Chelsea, Stephanie & the 37 foster siblings who call you their sister.

Natasha,

From the day you were born & fit in the palm of my hand, I have loved you. You were such a little fighter then and continue to be. I'm proud of the way you live your life by your own rules and in your own time. You are true to your values and your own self. That is a rare thing in these times. My prayer for you is that you stay true to yourself with people who love you and value you as I do. Your smile and kindness will carry you far in your life.

I love you,
Mom

To my daughter

Natasha,

You have added more joy to my life for all the stress that you have provided me. I couldn't ask for a more wonderful daughter to have and may you continue to allow the Lord to challenge you to be the best you can be. I pray that I have taught you some great lessons that you can use in life and I pray that you will always know that I have never stopped loving you from the day you came into this world and will continue forever. Always remember that you can do whatever you want if you have the desire to sacrifice and work to get it.

Love always,
Dad

Congratulations girls you did it!! Don't ever forget that you can do anything you set your minds to and I will always be here if you ever need anything!

I'm glad you were able to start fulfilling your dreams and wishes these past four years. I hope you have the time of your life! It has been such a blessing to raise you girls. Always remember if you don't have anyone else you will always have each other. I love you girls so much, you both make me so proud!

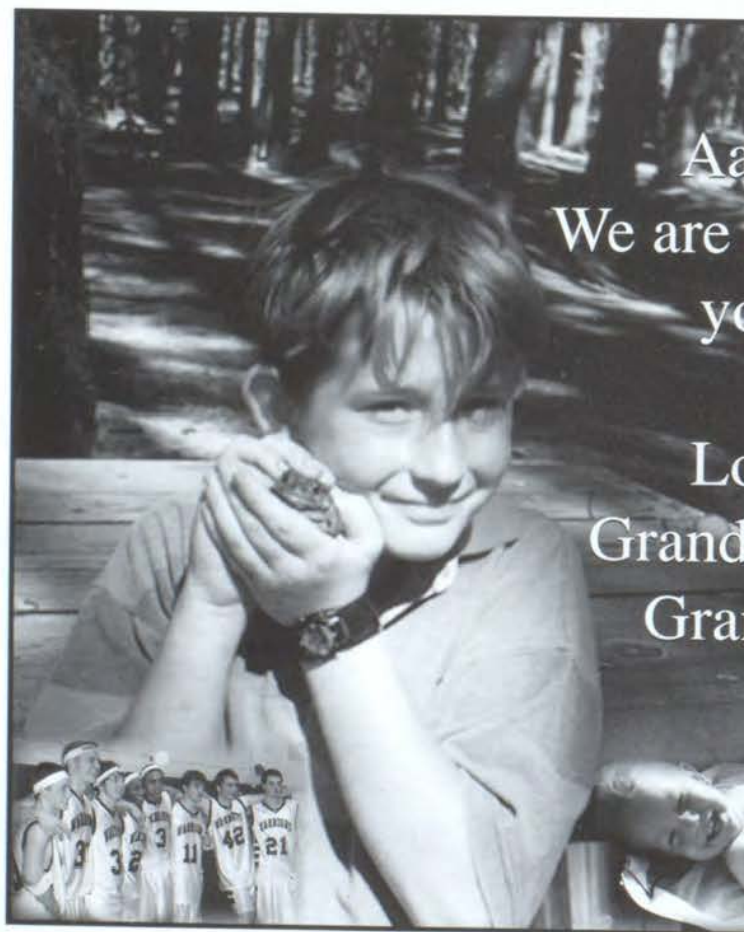

Love Mom

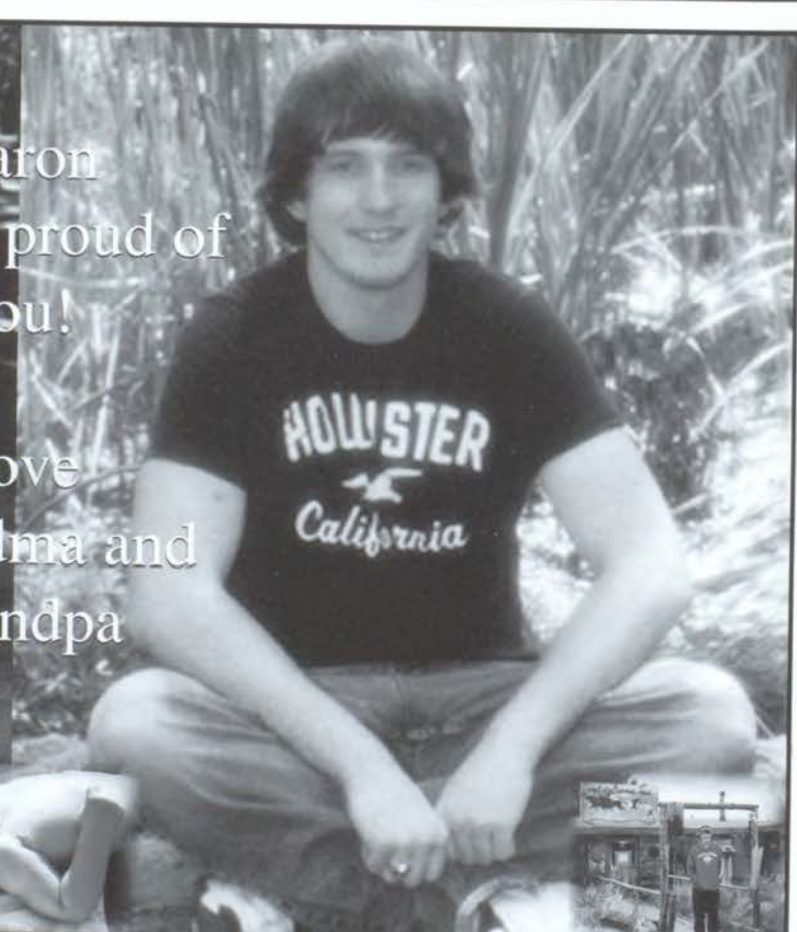

It was not so long ago that we held you for the first time. We knew that you were very special. All the wonderful memories we have. We feel very blessed to have been a part of your growing up. You are an amazing young lady and we know the future holds wonderful things for you.

With all the treasured memories of you that I hold close to my heart, where do I begin to tell you just how amazing and incredible you are. With your glowing smile, boldness to be you and love for socializing, you touch and make a difference in so many lives that you come in contact with. The way you greet others with a friendly smile or a 9" x 13" pan of everyone's favorite dessert. Thank you for growing into the beautiful young lady who has made us all so proud. To me you will always be Daddy's Little girl with the beautiful curls & butterfly kisses at night. I have no doubt you will succeed in whatever you put your heart & mind into.

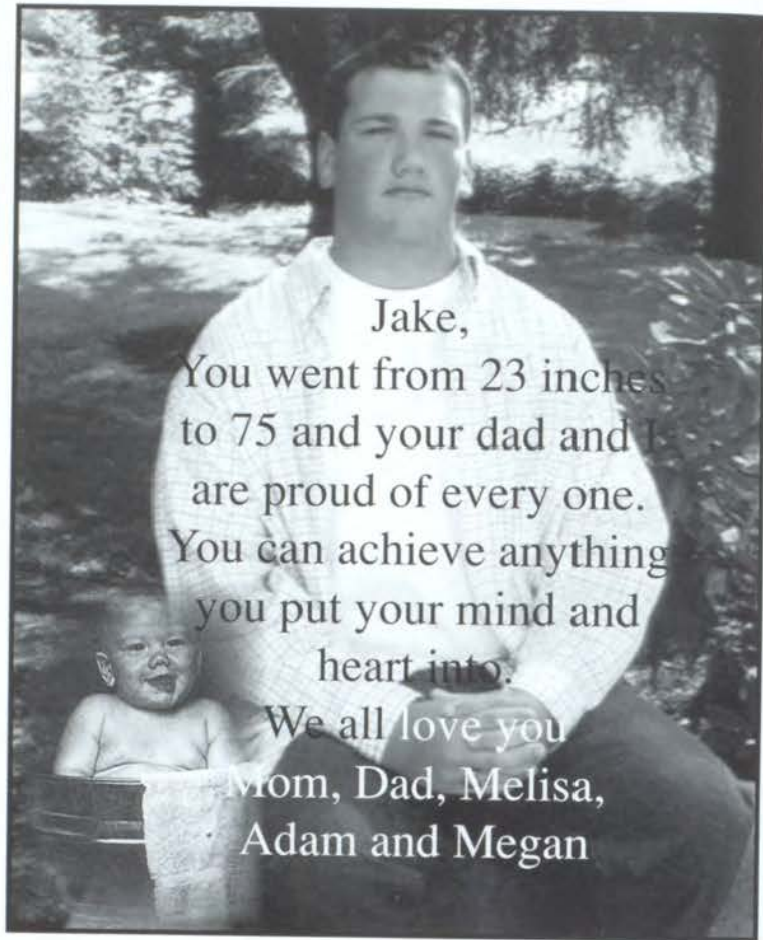

We Love you so much!

"What You Do In Life ECHOES In Eternity" is the 75th edition of the "The Warrior". The theme was developed by Tina Dodge and the yearbook staff who were inspired by a movie, a book, a car and a reader board.

The cover was designed by Tina Dodge with help from Herff Jones Representative Bill Dubé. The cover is a custom embossed and debossed, full color lithograph with an additional applied silver metallic ink and finished with spot UV gloss coating and matte lamination.

The four color lithograph endsheets were printed on white Vibracolor paper with an additional applied silver metallic ink.

The 208 page book with a 16 page supplement is 8.5" by 11" and was printed by Herff Jones, Inc. in Logan, UT on 100# Premier Premium Paper and includes 48 pages printed in full color.

Fonts that were used are Times New Roman PS MT, American Typewriter and Impact.

"The Warrior" was produced using Adobe InDesign and Photoshop CS on Apple Macintosh eMac computers. Digital photos were taken with 6.3 megapixel Canon Digital Rebels and 8.2 megapixel Canon 20D Digital SLR cameras.

875 copies of the book were sold for $50 before December 15th and $55 after.

The Herff Jones yearbook representatives were Bill and Cindy Dubé and Jeff Smith. The plant customer service representative was Chris Speth.

A special thanks goes out to all who made this book possible.

On the Mo' Train

Using their game winning momentum and getting to playoffs, the team certainly did take it to the limit.

When they got to the first round of playoffs though, expectations were cut short with a loss.

"It was a sad and dramatic loss," said senior Mike Greene. "We did not really know how it happened."

With the seniors moving on, the juniors are getting ready to accept the responsibility of the team.

Front: Christen Nordstrand, Bradley Plattner, Nathen Weikel, Kody Hayes, Justen Bolen and Nico Johnson. Second: Betsy VanCurler, Nathen Hiebert, Taylor Bitterman, Russell Duerr, Robbie Zaina, Matthew Slavenski and Gabrielle Burns. Back: Michael Greene, Coach Nick Masog, Coach Jeff Stolsig, Coach Bob Christenson, Coach Ty Tomlin. Not Pictured: Clinton Cook and Colby Vermillion.

Left: Two Two Shake, senior Matthew Slavenski leads the team in encouraging their batter. When someone has two balls and two strikes, the team shakes their hats hoping something good will happen.

Get it covered up men!
With the rain falling, the men hurry to cover the field to keep it dry so they may continue their game.

Left: Two down, senior Nathen Hiebert holds up two fingers indicating two outs. Right: Rock and Fire, senior Mike Greene throws his pitch at his opponent. "My curveball is pretty nasty," said Greene.

Right: Keep it in front of you, senior Christen Nordstrand goes down on his knees to stop a pitch. "I get action on every single play. I dictate sometimes how a game goes," said Nordstrand.

"It's not about the results, it's about the process." Nico Johnson, 10

To the Future

The teams swung into action, and were moving the ball well. They grew together, and had a lot of fun times.

"My favorite moment was watching Ben and Chris colliding in left center," said sophomore Billy Ferrell.

A lot of the men came back to the game for yet another year of playing.

"I joined because I've been playing all my life and love the game," said freshman Garrett Galloway.

One, two three, HITS! The JV team gathers to cheer before their turn to bat.

Freshmen: Front: Matt Young, Tony Checker, Craig Trask, Tyler Stock and Jonathan Hiebert. Second: Betsy VanCurler, Garrett Galloway, Jacob Stevens, Colten Scavone, Jeff Fantus, Justin Marshall and Gabrielle Burns. Back: [Names partially obscured]

Left: Gotta Get Down, freshman Colten Scavone slides into home plate to score a run for the team. "Baseball is cool and fun to play," said Scavone.

"Best memory was hitting a stand up double." John Carlson, 10

Bases Loaded

All grades were represented this year on the Varsity softball team. From freshman pitcher Danielle Legee, to senior catcher Nikki Barricklow.

Even though the age differences and personality conflicts were a tough obstacle to overcome, they came together as much as they could and proved to be a contender in the Mid Willamette Conference.

"My last year of softball has been great! I'm going to miss it," said senior Amanda Primasing.

Thrown out, senior McKenzie Bender throws the ball to a teammate to make a perfect play.

Right: Go getter, junior Rosemarie Ragsdale runs after the opponent heading towards home. "Softball is my favorite sport. I am going to miss Amanda and the seniors," said Ragsdale.

Right: Get down, sophomore Jenna Jackola picks up a ground ball in the outfield. "It's not about results, it's about how we played the game," said Jackola.

"My favorite part was running around like an idiot with Rosemarie Jane." - Amanda Masog, 12

Double Play

With more interest in softball than previous years, two teams other than Varsity were able to play.

Junior Varsity and JV 2 were separate teams, but they both showed us that they deserved to play.

With a record of 18-3, the Junior Varsity players dominated their league and came out on top. The JV2 girls finished with only one win, but a fun season nonetheless.

"Win or lose, this year was a lot of fun," said sophomore Erin Arp.

Left: Huddle up, the girls from the JV team all gather together before a game. Middle: Hustle, junior Kendra Palinkas gets ready to catch the ball so she can make a perfect play. "We were all like a family. One could call us juice and violins 'cause we go together," said Palinkas. Right: Ground ball, junior Terri Sloan reaches down to field a grounder.

The wind up, sophomore Alexandria McClain pitches a fast ball to the opponent.

Stronger, Faster, Better

Breath in, out, run faster, move quicker. All have heard these words, but none as much as the track team.

Those who live for the sport can not get enough of it. For their hard work the reward was great, second place at state.

As senior Seth Probert put it, "state was insane, we won and set the state meet record."

Ranging from running, jumping and throwing, track is a sport that many do.

"My P.R. is 11.99 seconds in the 100m dash. I felt like I was getting faster and that I could do better," said freshmen Timothy Groce.

Men and Women's Golf

"We improved week by week," said Coach Ryan King. Both the men and women's teams held their own at districts. The men placed second while the women placed fifth.

There were also several individual top placers on the men's team.

"Districts went very well. Jeff Collins tied for third, while Dillon Middleton and Chad Claussen tied for fifth," said Coach Eric Frazier.

"Districts were awesome because we actually played to our potential and showed confidence," said senior Jeffrey Collins.

Front: Nicholas Nys, Michael Salisbury, Jeffery Collins and Connor Tyman. Back: Chad Claussen, Dillon Middleton, Coach Eric Frazier, Anthony Stanley and Coach Cody Middleton.

Left: Hey golfer, golfer, senior Ashley Henry marks her ball on the green. "Terri inspires me to play because when I wanted to quit she said 'No', and golfing is fun, there are just depressing moments," said Henry.

Right: Long range, sophomore Emily King hits the ball putting her one stroke closer to the green. "Golf keeps me calm. It is like an athletic yoga," said King.

Men and Women's Tennis

"With the help of a second coach our team was able to learn more while getting our first taste of victory," said junior Christopher Meek.

Although they did not hold the top spot in season scores, there were high hopes for the teams at districts.

The coaches believed that the line-ups were in their favor, and that players would have the opportunity to make it to state.

Unfortunately none of the players were able to move on to state playoffs, but everyone played a great season and did their best to get as far as they possibly could.

Hollywood Lights

Hollywood Lights was the theme, and the guys of Mr. LHS did not forget it. It was an amazing show.

"My favorite part of Mr. LHS was helping out babies and hanging with the guys," said senior Thomas Shanks.

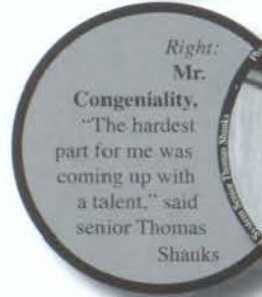

The time came to declare the winner. Seth Probert was named Mr. LHS, this did not surprise most of the other contestants since five out of eight predicted he would win.

Left: Runner up, "I was told 5 months ahead of time and I didn't start anything until the week of," said senior Mark Ekens.

Above: Dance dance, seniors Mark Ekens and Mike Greene perform in the group dance number. "My favorite part of Mr. LHS was hanging out with the guys and learning the dances," said Ekens.

Right: Mr. Congeniality, "The hardest part for me was coming up with a talent," said senior Thomas Shanks

Dance around, senior Robert Roosa dances with the rest of the guys in Mr. LHS. with a Hollywood theme.

Strawberried Treasure

School visits, a coronation, several parades, time and energy is the cost of being on Strawberry Court, but it is definitely worth it.

When asked if it was hard to be on the Strawberry Court senior Amanda Masog said "Not really, and if it was I did not notice it."

The Princesses gave their best performance but only one could be crowned queen. The winner was KaLynn Alley.

Diamonds are Forever

Over 300 students gathered together in a humid huddle on the floor and danced to everything from "The Time Warp" to "Get Low" at the Elks Lodge.

With help from the juniors, the prom committee decided on "Diamonds are Forever" as the theme.

Seniors Mike Greene and Rebekah Johnson danced to this song after they were crowned king and queen.

"Prom was definitely the best experience I have had in high school so far," said junior Alejandra Sanchez. "Everyone danced and it was just amazing."

End of the Road

Graduation is the seniors last high school experience. It is a day filled with pictures, laughter and memories.

It is also the beginning of their experiences in the real world.

"I am looking forward to life, experiencing the world and going to YWAM after high school," said Amber Pruettt.

The things the seniors learned and experienced while they were students at Lebanon High School will help them achieve their future goals. Congratulations Class of 2007. You made it!
