"In Your Own Words" is the 76th edition of "The Warrior". The theme was developed by Aaron Budiselich and Leah Platt, who were inspired by the idea of the reader writing their own captions and headlines. All the quotes through-out the book that are not credited are the voice of Lebanon High School students. The yearbook staff listened all year for things that people said, making this book all "In Your Own Words."

Aaron Budiselich

Logan Burt

The cover was designed by Samantha Schamp with help from Herff Jones representative Jeff Smith. The cover is in black and white to represent how we often perceive people. We judge them good or bad, not middle grounds of gray just black or white.

Leah Platt

The black and white lithograph endsheets were printed on white Vibracolor paper with an additional varnish on the quotes.

Danielle Crisp

The 208 page book with a 16 page supplement is 8.5" by 11" and was printed by Herff Jones, Inc. in Logan, Utah on #100 Premier Premium Paper and includes 48 pages printed in full color.

Betsy VanCurler

The fonts that were used are AHJ Freetime, AHJ Ad Lib, Helvetica, AHJ Sharpie Print, AHJ Souvenir, AHJ Batavia, AHJ Ticonderoga Harry Potter and AHJ Letter Gothic.

Nikei Martin

"The Warrior" was produced using Adobe InDesign CS, Photoshop CS and Illustrator CS on Apple Macintosh eMac and iMac computers. Digital photos were taken with 6.3 megapixel Canon Digital Rebels, 8.2 megapixel Canon 20D and 30D Digital SLR cameras.

Devin Adrian

850 copies of the book were sold for $50 before December 15th and $55 after.

The Herff Jones Yearbook Representatives were Bill and Cindy Dube and Jeff Smith. The plant customer service representative was Chris Speth.

To everyone who helped to make this book possible, and to everyone who filled out surveys Thank You.

In today's world, some people tend to see things in black and white, without any shades of gray. Whether it be ourselves individually, someone else or just life in general, some judge things in plain and simple text.

As teens, we are typically seen in these two colors because of our age. We spend these early years trying to get someone to hear our voice, our thoughts and our opinions, striving to become an individual, and to become independent.

This book breaks that black and white point of view and shows us those elusive shades of gray. Though it may contain a lot of black and white visual elements, underneath it all are student words and actions, all in your own words.

Life

Noun

As we grow older the world changes. While it may start out in black and white with right and wrong as plain as these shades, the colors eventually begin to come into focus.

Now we have reached a point where we are starting to see the depth of color. We must make our choices for the greater good, and discover life's complex palate.

Between work, sports and the occasional travel opportunity, we are beginning to take in the masterpiece that is our world. Hopefully we will continue throughout our lives able to enjoy the full spectrum of colors and opportunities.

The black and white simplicity that our lives began with is becoming bolder and more vibrant along with the young minds that our school is producing.

Warm Summer Days

Summer Vacation

After a long tiring school year, we cannot wait for summer. It is a chance to finally let loose, and forget about the stress of school.

Over the summer the students and staff spent their time visiting other countries, playing sports, going on vacations and hanging out with friends. We had time to spread our wings during the break and grow as individuals, preparing ourselves for yet another school year.

Summer ended and the school year commenced, but the memories and friends we made will live on inside us forever.

"What was I thinking," said Librarian Carol Dinges who traveled to Turkey by herself. Her favorite part was Cappadocia. She took over 550 pictures.

A one of a kind trip, a group of students along with their church had an extraordinary adventure as they went on a journey to the Dominican Republic. When they arrived, "The kids were jumping up pounding on the windows," said junior Emily Skipper. The mission team created a bible camp for over 300 kids. They made bracelets, played games and studied the bible. The children loved having the mission teams come visit. "You could see the pain and poverty in their lives, the hope they brought was mind boggling, the way people do things is so different; especially the way people sold things," said Skipper.

The students went to a market on the beach, "People would just grab you, throw things into a bag and tell you they would give you a really good deal, and it's one of a kind stuff, when the next store would have the same thing," said senior Mark Bowser. When the time came to leave, "It was harder, especially for the girls, they were crying, but so happy to get to experience something so life changing," said Bowser.

Full of Warrior Pride

Homecoming

Spirit week, football, dances and dates. As the week closed in on Homecoming day and the big game, the school exploded with red and blue.

The school was a flurry of posters and costumes to support our team. As the team marched onto the field that night they took the victory they were hoping for. Afterwards everyone piled into the commons with speakers blaring music, students bounced from hip to hip until the end of the night.

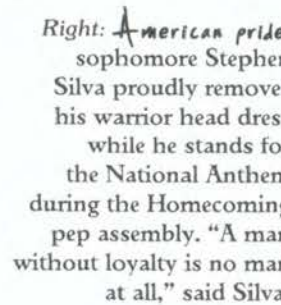

Junior Stefanie Fritz said that her favorite memory from homecoming week was, "Brenton and Luke in short shorts and suspenders. That's all I gotta say."

With homecoming over many will have great memories of dress-up days, pep assemblies and winning our 50th homecoming game 54 - 13!

Left: Where is my Snickers? Freshmen Logan Bertram and LT Avants act out a scene featuring a grapple over a Snickers bar. "It was kind of corny and we didn't kiss," said Avants. Right: Royalty in the making. Homecoming Court 2007 proudly poses wearing their best after the crowning of Queen Britny Stewart and King Brett Seiber. "It was pretty cool, quite exciting. I honestly didn't think I was going to get it," said Seiber.

Left: Super Warrior, senior Jonathan Hudson screams his head off during the spirit stick competition which ended up being won by the freshmen. "I like to go all out because it keeps things interesting," said Hudson when asked about his school spirit.

We've got spirit, sophomores Morgan Slavenski and Linzy McIntyre holler hoping to win the coveted spirit stick for the sophomores.

Top: Warrior paint, freshman Kelcie McCurdy grins with warrior pride during the football game. "It's pretty exciting [to dress up], the downside, getting that face paint off. It stained my clothes and it got in my hair," said McCurdy. Bottom: Baaa-ring me my princess, senior Scott Wilson sat patiently as he awaited his homecoming court skit where he crowned his princess. The skit was filled with many different children's tales like Little Bo Peep, Little Red Riding Hood and Little Boy Blue. "I duct taped the cotton balls on, the whole thing cost me like five bucks," said Wilson.

Seniors

Class of 2008

Dear Seniors,

You did it!!!! You were where you were suppose to be and did what you were suppose to do to reach your graduation from Lebanon High School.

My challenge to you as you leave LHS as adults, is to take responsibility for making your new community of the world a better place. You are a very technically gifted group. You are talented in academics, in the arts, in athletics, in trade skills, and in community service. You are interested in furthering your education and training.

Remember to remember and thank often, those people who have supported you emotionally, financially and physically. Hundreds and thousands of hours have been invested in each one of you by your parents, your family, your friends, school staff members, and the Lebanon community. All believe in your potential, and provided good schools, extra activities, and service and career opportunities.

Congratulations!

I am proud of you!

Now go out into your world and make a positive difference!

Senior Adviser Neva Clausen

Left: Fit for a King, Ian Avilez and Jonathan Hudson take a break from the Renaissance Feast. "The Renaissance Feast is a lot of hard work but being able to pretend to be someone else who carries a sword makes it all worth while," said Hudson.

Right: Go Seniors, Michael Whaley supports the seniors during a pep assembly, the fight for the spirit stick is on. "Being a senior is like being in a riot. It's fun while it's happening, but better when it's all over and you haven't been arrested," said Whaley.

Left: Best buddies, Beth Cathcart and Amy Buchheit laugh during lunch. "What kind of ship never sinks? Friendship. One day Amy and I were sitting at the pool and we were eating Laffy Taffy and reading the riddles on the back and we came a cross this lovely little quote," said Cathcart.

Senior Senator Sarah Vojnovich

I can say above everything I have been involved in that being a senior senator is definitely one of the peaks for me. Being senator for two years now, I honestly did not think there would be a major difference, but to my surprise the senior senator is a whole different experience. What greater honor can I have than planning a graduation for my entire class with three other senators? Once I was introduced to all the details of graduation, I realized all the pressure that came along with it. But really I am looking forward to the year's challenges of being a senator. Plus being a senior senator does not simply consist of graduation plans, but also the privilege of being able to make decisions for our school. Last year the senators voted for the fight song banner and voted to have the flag for games this year. Being a senior senator is a little overwhelming, but it is an experience I shall look back on and never forget.

Below: Shasta Huffman,
 "After high school I plan to go to the Art Institute of Portland or Seattle with my great imagination for Fashion Design. Class of '08, it's evolution, people are getting smarter! Allen told me so," said Huffman.

Above: Nicholas Zatta, "I enjoy donkey riding and long walks on the beach. [Before I die I want to] be able to wail on the guitar so hard that it makes people soil themselves when they hear me," said Zatta.

Senior Senator Melissa Cordero

I am the senior senator for Information System, woot woot! My job as a senior senator is to coordinate senior graduation, help motivate the other seniors to get involved, lead the senior meetings, and to be an example. I was a senator my freshman year but gave it a break so I could get some relief from all the hard work that senators do as a freshman.... and then came back with a boom to be a senior senator. Yeah Seniors! Once I leave this marvelous school I plan on tackling OSU to begin my life in the study of Pre-Medicine, I want to be a pediatrician. So I still have a long way to go... what was I thinking? I want to shout out to all the seniors that we are only young once, take advantage of youth and spend it like you would money... just do not go broke... oh and work hard cause high school is really just the beginning to our lives and it will be the easiest part of it as well.

Senior Senator Steven Patterson

I am Steven Patterson, I am the senior senator for Physical Systems. Obviously I am a senior... Now as a senior senator I decide graduation materials... so the announcements, yep I was part of the group who chose that. We also vote on where the school's leadership money goes. I have been a senator for two years now. After High school I plan on being a dentist... one thing I would say to my fellow class of seniors... "Just get your graduation stuff done because it is a pain in the butt if you don't. And the college scholarships are there for a reason, so many Scholarships go unused every year." It is fun being a senator and it is actually fun to choose the stuff for graduation. To look at all of the options, it is amazing.

"[I would win a nobel prize for] probably bringing toilets and electricity to the whole of africa, I already have plans," said Amy Zook.

"Since I plan to go into electronics my best chance would be the Nobel for Physics," said Alexander Maurer.

PHYSICS, CHEMISTRY, PHYSIOLOGY OR MEDICINE, LITERATURE, ECONOMICS AND PROMOTION OF PEACE.

"I would probably teach plants to insult," said Kaitlynn Pettit.

"I would win for inventing the automated forking machine," said Mark Bowser.

Senior Senator Randi Newport

Meet Randi. Randi is the senior senator for Social Systems.

So what does she do being in the student senate? As a senior senator, she helps make decisions for her class and helps to prepare the always wonderful senior meetings.

This is only Randi's first year as being a senator. However, she is glad that she was at least given the opportunity to experience being in the student senate while in high school.

After high school she plans to attend college for a degree in business. She is not sure where she plans to attend yet, but she does know that she plans to stay in Oregon.

Randi would also like to add that "This is it for us...we're seniors!!" and encourages everyone to make the most out of their senior year.

Pep Assemblies

Enthusiasm explodes as people pile into the assemblies, with the cheerleaders off to one side and the dance team to the other.

As the skits formed the night before are presented, the band plays the music of the warrior. Then as it nears the end, the speaker holds up our pride. A stick of our colors and everyone gets ready.

The freshmen, sophomore, junior and senior classes stand to their feet and open their mouths and shout their lungs out, in hopes for the victory. The classes yell until they gather on the gym floor where you can find some people on other's shoulders, or even people crowd surfing and the class who wins gets the spirit stick.

"The pep assemblies are fun because they get everyone hyped up," said freshman Sara Stewart.

Top: Take down, senior princess Britny Stewart tackles fellow senior Betsy VanCurler during the Little Bo Peep skit for homecoming. Middle: Two Step, princess Katlyn Ellis and prince Brett Seiber dance around as barbie dolls that come to life. "Me and Brett have been friends a very long time and it was fun to be goofy with him," said Ellis. Bottom: Let's go driving, princesses Shay Bauer and Lindsey Bellinger go driving down the street. "It was hard to pick but this car was the one for us," said Bellinger.

Left: Brain freeze, freshman Peri Gerson slurps down a 7-Eleven Slurpee for the first pep assembly as a challenge of grades for the Spirit Stick. Middle: Who is it gonna be? Senior Alexis Nissen helps soon to be revealed Colton Hackstedt tear out of the paper cover. "I was excited about the whole thing. And the contest will be fun because I am friends with a lot of the guys," said Nissen. Right: We are number one, the senior class stops and does a victorious and cheerful group stance after winning the competition for the Spirit Stick.

Left: Yell it, spell it, senior president Ethan Crenshaw cheers with the cheerleaders in hopes to raise more enthusiasm for the upcoming game. "They are like my best friends and they are hot. I've got spirit yes I do, I've got spirit how 'bout you?!?" said Crenshaw.

Right: Hands in the air, sitting on top of the crowd, junior Luke Armstrong cheers energetically in hopes to win the Spirit Stick. "The juniors and the Spirit Stick are like a peanut butter and jelly sandwich. They belong together," said Armstrong.

Left: Bust a move, sophomore Kaixiang Zhang makes his first appearance in front of the whole school showing off his hip hop dance moves. Zhang was new to Lebanon this year and began by starting a Hip-Hop dance club.

Left: Not feelin the pep, juniors Emily King and Colin McHill perform a skit about adding more pep to the assembly for Winter Formal. Their skit included mini cheers called: Roll call, Who's That Warrior in my Teepee, and The Perfect Cheer. "My favorite part of the skit was 'Who's That Warrior in my Teepee'," said King. McHill was this year's Spirit Coordinator, thus leading the school in the assemblies, as well as one of the judges of determining the winner of the Spirit Stick at the end of each pep assembly.

Show What You Got!

School Spirit

School spirit is not just made up of cheerleaders and dance team members. It is the collection of a great body of students. For example, ones who show great pride and faith in their school teams and activities. Young and old alike gather together and rally to support their school.

School spirit means, "Getting dressed up in red, white, and blue and getting into spot fights," said senior Allison Kerins.

School Spirit, there really are few words to describe it, though there are hundreds of ways to show it. It means different things to different people. In other words, just showing up in team colors or dressed as our school mascot is a sign of school spirit. It can also be measured in how loud our war shout is or how much face paint you can cover yourself in without completely going overboard.

Left: Rah Rah Rah! Freshman Daryl Kratz shows some school spirit during mascot tryouts, "I celebrate [school spirit] by dressing up in school colors and being cheerful at games and assemblies," said Kratz.

Right: We've got spirit yes we do! Students scream and shout to provide a roar that would scare any person in the near vicinity into an awestruck stupor. Junior Sean Patel shows his spirit by, "...yelling really loud and chanting."

Left: Red vs blue, senior Betsy VanCurler shows her school spirit at the homecoming game so that it fires up the team. To her it is like, "Being able to stand by your team and no one and nothing can turn you away from them," said VanCurler.

Right: Up up and away, Teacher Lily Edwards shows off her super hero skills. Sporting a superman cape and utility belt for super hero day. "[We represent school spirit with] dances, games, assemblies, and other school clubs like DECA," said Edwards.

Left: Warrior pride, senior Scott Wilson shows his school spirit by dressing up as the school mascot and cheering on the team. "[School spirit] not only represents athletics, but the school as well," said Wilson.

Above: Starting Young, sophomore Linzy McIntyre helps the little kids get dressed up like her other classmates to cheer on the football team. "I was painting a little girls face to raise money for DECA, I loved it because we got to help the children be more involved in the community event," said McIntyre. Below: Preparing for the best, senior Amy Kuehn is all dolled up for school spirit day. She is working on getting everyone around her pumped for the game later that day. "Supporting teams, going to functions, and not feeling down about it," said Kuehn.

We will rock you, seniors pump up the volume, to help their class win the warrior spirit stick. It is all for, "the school, and warrior pride!" said senior Chris Meek.

Winter By Starlight

Winter Formal

With only 14 meetings the senior committee was able to plan the best Winter Formal yet. 534 students attended along with many chaperones.

The junior class was well represented with their chosen students to be their princes and princesses. With a great mixture of music, students of all grades danced the night away.

Since the beginning of the dance, students could vote for who they wanted to be king and queen. At ten thirty, court was announced. Coming away with the crown and queen's tiara were Luke Armstrong and Emily King.

"I was happy Luke and Emily got King and Queen, they were a good pick for king and queen. Emily deserved it, her skit was well done and her partner was hilarious. Most of any of the guys could have won, but Luke was a good pick," said junior Spirit Coordinator Colin McHill.

Top: Set your groove on. "Formal was amazing. Everyone looked great and I had a ton of fun getting my groove on," said senior Kacey Setzer. "I love my cousin, I had so much fun with her at formal," said freshman Lindsay Bellinger. Middle: Winter Royalty. King Luke Armstrong and Queen Emily King. "Formal was really awesome and getting crowned King made it that much better. I definitely will not forget it," said Armstrong. Bottom: Dance the magic dance. "There were more people there than at the football dances. More of my friends, so it was more fun than the rest," said junior Olivia Rahm.

Left: All Smiles, Miranda Peterson and Brittney Stone. "I had so much fun I hope someday I get to be a princess," said Peterson. Right: Starlight Court: Bryce Stubbs, Mitnetwork Vanover, Samuel McGehee, Tamika Montoya, Zachary Ryan, Chantal Kirby, King Luke Armstrong, Queen Emily King, Holly Parmenter, Justin Estes, Amy Bloom, Bradley Stagnoli, Hannah Suing and Colin McHill. "Winning Queen was a great experience, the only two downfalls of it were that my best friend Khari was not there to see it and I could not see straight for half an hour," said junior Emily King.

Left: Serenading, seniors Sean Stalley and Ryan Lott sing to each other during the last slow song. "I was staring intimately into Sean's Eyes while singing Bohemian Rhapsody," said Lott.

Right: Dancing the night away. Freshman Crystal Trask jumps up and down showing off her moves in a group of her friends. Unlike Prom, Winter formal allowed all classes of students to hit the dance floor together.

Left: Break time, "This year was better than last years because I went with a huge group of friends and we danced all night long. I had to cool off with a cool glass of punch," said sophomore Victoria Kropf.

Left: Crank it, Seniors Cassandra Kuhn, Jenna Narrow and Amanda Roadhouse dance to Soulja Boy. "Formal is about having fun. It doesn't matter how you dance, you just have to be yourself," said Roadhouse. "The dance was definitely the highlight of the night and being able to dance all night and being able to bust out to Soulja Boy was really fun. I love to dance, so when you put on music you can count that my body will be moving," said Narrow.

Rollin' In The Dough

Student Jobs

Whether it be getting a job because their parents push them to, or just because they want to do it for themselves, it is what most high schoolers do. Having a job is one of the first steps a youth can take towards living out a responsible life.

Money is also a big motivator for high schoolers, but money has to be earned. Students wanting that bad enough have gone the extra mile and found a job that will give them both experience and the ever-elusive pay check.

It may seem hard to find a job that is just what you are looking for in a town as small as Lebanon, but a person's first job is not always perfect. Everybody has to start somewhere and work their way up to their dream occupation.

A job is a necessity in life, some are just getting a jump start.

Left: Life savers, not just a candy but a position that senior Amy Buchheit fills with respect, working at the Lebanon Community Pool. "I have been swimming my whole life, and working here for two years. The best part of my job is probably my co-workers," said Buchheit.

Right: Clean up on aisle five, senior Alex Parker, had a little incident while working at Roth's, and dumped a customer's bag of ice out of their cart, causing it to spill all over the floor. "I started working at Roth's to look cool in a bow tie, and my parents were bugging me to get a job," said Parker.

Left: Pizza Time, hard working senior Nathan Carrasco, while working the night shift, puts the finishing touches on the pepperoni pizza he is fixing at Pizza Hut. "I really enjoy working here it's a really fun place to work," said Carrasco.

Left: Have a good day, junior Amber Kimball hands a customer their order right as she finished making their food at the Lebanon Taco Bell. "I've been working for six months I get discounts," said Kimball.

Right: Working with friends, juniors Kourtney Hite and Stephanie Gillespie stand and have a moment to chat while they are waiting for fries. "The best part of the job are the people and the paychecks, it's fun to work there because we have food fights with tomatoes and french fries," said Gillespie.

Sauces need stacking, junior Breanna Alley stocks the honey mustard in between her fast and friendly service.

Top: Waitress? The new Mi San Gabriel restaurant is rumored to have spectacular food. Senior Shirley Terrazas tried working in about ten different fast food restaurants and did not find one that would work for her. She finally found something that she likes being a waitress, though. "This job gives me time for my family and school work," said Terrazas. Bottom: Dish boy, senior Jeremy Colwell makes sure all the dishes at Bing's Kitchen that come to him to be cleaned are spotless when he gets done with them. "The best part about the job is getting paid, it is a repetitive job, and nothing really too exciting happens," said Colwell.

Art In All Forms

Self Expression

Right: Justine Meyer, "I started drawing Manga in 7th grade with my best friend Cheryl Howard, we mainly drew Inuyasha," said sophomore Meyer. "I was looking at Cheyanne's MySpace pictures and I decided to draw her," said Meyer.

Self expression falls under human nature, the urge to be different is not uncommon. Through music, sports, clothes or art. In short anyone can be themselves, if they so choose.

Language, the expression of words. The meaning of certain words constantly evolve with society, what is considered inappropriate one day is excepted the next. Using language students are creating magnificent pieces of art in the form of poetry.

Art is another way of self expression that is most common. Whether it be drawing, painting or even sculpting, students are letting their emotions out in the form of beautiful pieces of art.

No matter what changes may occur in self expression the one thing that will always stay the same is the need for it.

Right: Jocelyn Charley, "I made this at home, I saw a picture like it on TV and I wanted to recreate it. Drawing puts me at ease, if I'm having a bad day, it lets me take my frustrations out on paper," said junior Charley who has been drawing ever since she could pick up a pencil.

Right: Ashley Harlow, "I have been drawing and painting since I was able to get the material or at least hold it," said senior Harlow. She has experimented with drawing things related to music and asked her choir friends what they thought about her art.

Left: Olivia Rahm, "We had to do the folder and we had to use pencils. I looked in the encyclopedia, because I couldn't think of what to do and I thought a Viking ship would be good. I've been drawing and painting forever, before I started taking classes," said junior Rahm.

Comic by: Sophomore Alyson Stewart

Left: Stephanie Nervino, "I started drawing when I was really young, I'd draw random little things all the time. I chose to paint Wicked because it's one of my favorite plays, it has a lot of meaning to my family I just think it stupendous," said Nervino who plans to attend an art school.

Salt
By: Sydney Watts

This hate is salt on my tongue and charcoal in my lungs with smoke billowing from every pore
Robert wasn't far off when he spoke of Fire & Ice
For this ice is devouring me whole

As I wait for the impending flood with out an ark in sight to save me
I hold on tight to this apple that Lucifer gave me and you may ask me my friends
what led me astray?
What could have made me
hate someone this way
What could it be?
Was I pushed?
Was I shoved?
Well I just couldn't know hate without first having loved.

Picture
By: Brittany Wade

I paint a picture across the sand, as
We walk upon it hand in hand.
The colors of the sky and the lovely
Things in the sea.
The picture I paint has many colors,
Shades, shapes and sizes.
I love the way the ocean holds the sand so dear, just like the way you hold me so close and near.
I paint all day and night, just to make sure my paintings just right.
I paint a picture across the sand,
It's my love my fear, my faith and friend.
The picture I paint across the sand.

Michaela Martin, "I paint best when I'm emotional good or bad," said senior Martin.

Don't close your eyes
By: Xavier Dickson

Let me lure you into my mind and show you things I find divine. There is a place behind my eyes where nothing walks, nothing flies, and all I hear are hollow cries. In this place my evil shows.
The darkest day, the blackness flows. There is a beast I've come to know, he is the keeper of my soul. I put the beast in a rage so now he's thrown me in a cage. I can't escape the monsters here, if I cannot run I sit in fear. I've met the monsters I've met the beasts if I stay much longer I'll end up their feast. There's nothing good behind my eyes,
I misunderstood the truth for lies. The monsters here are not divine, I'm done with this world I want mine. Oh geeze, oh no, I'm old and blind...

Left: Brittany Stokesbary, "Drawing gives me something to do, somewhere to get away to," said sophomore Stokesbary.
Right: Jordan Martinak, "I started drawing when I could walk," said junior Martinak. A common theme in the artists is the reason behind their art.

Miles and Memories

Foreign Exchange

If you think going to a new school is frightening, try going to an entire different country.

In this single school there are students from eight different countries and three different continents. These 13 students range from Iceland to Slovakia and bring with them extremely different personalities.

"Well the main difference is the way people interact with each other, how things are done, and the system of education," said senior Mohammad Farouk.

Although it is apparent that these students will miss their friends and families from home, not one of them said that they regretted coming to America.

"I will be excited to see my old friends again, but I will be sad leaving my new friends. It's a mixed feeling," said senior Thies Wilbrandt.

Left: Marrydith Nguyen Tran, came to America from Norway. "When I came to America I thought I would gain a lot of weight. There is a lot of fast food," said Tran. "My favorite part about being here is learning English and getting to know new people and their culture."

Above: Olivia Rahm, "I expected to see more fat people," said Rahm, who came from Germany. "I don't really miss my country yet. Only the food that we have in Europe." Rahm said that she will be very sad to leave America, but it will be nice to go back to her friends and family.

Right: Follow my lead, Arnrun Thorsteinsdottir and Marrydith Nguyen Tran show off their gymnastic skills as they both turn cartwheels in sync.

Left: Naja Mayer, is one of five students from Germany. "I was expecting the 'American Way of Life' and I had high expectations for high school. I'm not disappointed at all," said Mayer. She will be sad to leave her new friends behind, but will be happy to go back to her family.

Left: Arnrun Thorsteinsdottir, came from Iceland. "My favorite part of being here is meeting new people, going wakeboarding, hopefully surfing, eating, and just trying new things. I get to try a lot of new things with my host family," said Thorsteinsdottir.

Right: Amandine Graeven, "I was very excited to meet a lot of new people, be able to learn the language and learn about American culture and mentality," said Graeven, here from Belgium. "I think it is very interesting speaking another language"

Right: Sven Henrich, from Germany said that "I expected nice people and a big school, the fact that I knew I was going to come to Oregon, I expected rain and a beautiful country side." Henrich said he hates the amount it rains here, but he loves the country, state and all the people he met.

Front: Olivia Rahm, Naja Mayer, Marrodith Nguyen, Fran and Ho-Yee (Alice) Wong. Second: Amandina Graeven, Marina Venglosova, Elle Marie Roed, Arunrun Thorsteinsdottir and Nathalie Geisler. Back: Sven Henrich, Semih Hakemez, Thies Wilbrandt and Mohammad Farouk.

Left: Marina Venglosova, came here from Slovakia. "I like the American lifestyle because it's more chill out in school, and everywhere. It was my dream to come here," said Venglosova. She misses her country, but does not have much time to think about it because of new friends here.

Right: Mohammad Farouk, "The main difference in America is the way people interact with one another," said Farouk, having come the furthest distance, all the way from Nigeria. "My favorite part about being here is the school, all the friends I have made here and getting good grades."

Left: Elle Marie Roed, is one of two students from Norway. "Everything is cheaper here. There aren't any busses here and I'm not used to calling the teachers by their last names," said Roed. Once here Roed said she expected to gain weight, meet a lot of cool people and learn English better.

Left: Sven Henrich gather around, "I was happy to meet Sven. We help each other with stuff that we don't understand. Sven is my best friend here," said Thies Wilbrandt. "When I first came to America I didn't know anyone, Thies was the first person I got to know," said Sven Henrich.

Left: Alice Wong, "I expected we would eat McDonald's everyday and I would gain a lot of weight," said Wong. The classes are one of her favorite parts, but she misses the public transportation that was available in China. "I will miss America a lot," said Wong.

Left: Thies Wilbrandt, also came here from Germany. "I have been to America before so I had kind of an idea how it would be. I expected nice people, big cars, a different language and an exciting year. And pretty much good fast food," said Wilbrandt. Soccer season was one of his favorite memories.

Left: Nathalie Geisler, "I don't miss Germany, I just miss my friends and family. When I leave, I will be happy and sad. I have to leave my new friends but I get to see my old friends again," said Geisler. She said that the main difference when she got here was the "way of life."

On Your Own Time

Hobbies

When thinking of the word hobby, what is it exactly that comes to mind?

It is not one of those words that has a concrete definition. A hobby can be many different things.

Like for sophomore Brenna Champion, a hobby would be rock climbing.

She has been rock climbing since she was little. Her dad used to take her when she was younger and that is what got her interested in it.

"It's just fun to try to be able to pull yourself up the rock and be up there to see the scenery," said Champion.

A hobby is more of a personal thing. It is something that people spend time doing that they enjoy. It does not have to be anything fancy or overly spectacular. Just enjoyable.

Middle: Homemade happiness, junior Sage Gerson sits and concentrates on the project that she had just started knitting. "I like the idea of making my own scarves, hats and socks. It sounds appealing to be able to knit things for myself and I love the look of it being homemade," said Gerson. She finds herself knitting mostly when she is bored.

Bottom: Card game fad, the trading card game 'Magic' has taken over the school. Students sit during lunch and battle it out.

Left: Tiny memorabilia, freshman Edward McGehee sits proudly behind his displayed collection of 82 different shot glasses. Middle: Super big! "It's called a mega cube," said senior Stephanie Keyes. Keyes has been folding different types of origami for six years now. This particular piece, the mega cube, consists of 402 sheets of paper. "My favorite part of making origami is putting all the pieces together. It gives the satisfaction of putting together a puzzle," said Keyes. Right: Color blind, sophomore Nikkisha Banks works on a black and white abstract drawing in Cheryl Dodds' Drawing one class, fifth period.

Left: The best medicine, sophomore Judith Johns photographs unsuspecting sophomore Christian Eilers behind the High School. Johns takes Mark Whitson's digital photography class. "Chad and Tony were standing behind me cracking some jokes at him," said Johns.

Right: Good dog, senior Katherine Brean takes a moment to show off the dog she is currently training. Brean has been training dogs for six years and is currently training her fifth dog. It takes one and a half years to train one dog. Watching the dogs get their owners is her favorite part.

Left: A new txt msg, senior Samantha Nervino sits at her classroom desk and takes part in what has been a newly evolving hobby, texting. "I'm addicted to texting. I text everyone! I always have my phone with me. My family makes fun of me for it," said .

Left: Dangerous attraction, senior Nicholas Zatta shows off his elaborate sword collection in his house. Zatta has been collecting swords for three years now and has around 20 different swords and daggers that includes ancient 'looking' daggers, medieval swords, ninja katanas, and other random knives. "I like collecting swords because they are very interesting; such as how many types of swords and daggers there are and how much they have changed over time. They're also good ornaments for the house," said Zatta. His favorite one is the replica of the sword used in the movie Blade, that he displays with pride in the picture.

Sports

Noun

Sports mean different things for different people. They may be a source of entertainment, inspiration, joy or friendship.

For some they are simply something to do. For others, they are a responsibility, lifestyle or even an obsession. For athletes, sports hold many opportunities. Opportunities for growth, improvement and a time to shine in glory.

For those who watch, sports provide a chance to cheer, support, encourage and enjoy the moment. Whatever the reason, sports have proved to be an important part of many students lives, creating a vast array of memories.

Tough

Freshmen Volleyball

The transition from middle school to high school is always a tough one, especially for athletes. This team had to work harder and commit to it everyday, but through hard practices they all learned valuable lessons, and skills they will never forget.

"In middle school, we didn't really learn anything, we just tried to hit the ball over the net. In high school, we focus more on our skills and how to do them right," said Corey Kutsch. Though the team played well together, their record did not show it.

Above: All for one, Katlyn McConnell sets the ball up to Miranda Peterson who spiked the ball over the net to earn a point. Alexa Carroll was right there, ready to make a save if needed. "Being on a high school team is a lot different than playing for a middle school team. If you make the high school team, you're devoting a lot more of your time and your money," said Peterson.

Left: Shrug it over. Emily Joplin passes the ball to Audrey McLain. "High school volleyball is way more competitive, so I like it," said Joplin. Right: Bending low, Edie Masters bends down to save the ball from hitting the ground.

Come together, after scoring a point, the girls come together to congratulate each other on what they just did.

Young JV Volleyball

With a huge interest in volleyball from underclassmen, the JV team was filled with six freshmen, a few sophomores, and one junior leader.

"I was glad I got the opportunity to be a leader, and I got to learn the meaning of patience. We had a great season even with only one win. We stayed strong as a team and kept each other going. Those girls taught me so much and to have all of them look up to me was an amazing feeling. I can't wait for next year," said junior Jenessa Sheets.

Long pass, sophomore Alisia Haley uses the third hit to make a lengthy pass up and over the net.

Front: Alisia Haley, Jenessa Sheets and Crystal Vandetta. Second: Hanna Bauer, Kaylie Probert, Amber Stinson and Sierra Suing. Back: Megan Benedict, Chelsea Ongers, Coach Jen Rodriguez, Amanda Burd and Katherine Toomb.

Above: Enthusiastic, after scoring a point, the girls come in to congratulate each other on their effort. They were smiling even when spirits were down, the girls always cheered each other on through the whole game, win or lose. "There was a lot of growing together and getting closer as a team. This was my first year but I am definitely playing volleyball next year. Our team captain was Sierra Suing and she sucked it up when she needed to, and she always gave us courage when we needed it. She was a good captain," said Kaylie Probert.

Varsity Volleyball

Slow may not be the ideal way to start a season, but for this group of athletes, it seemed to be just what they needed to make it into post season play.

With a first half record of 3-4, nobody was getting their playoff hopes too high. During the second half of the season, the team came out on top with a record of 6-1 and a couple of unforgettable wins.

"The West Albany game was amazing, we pulled together as a team and won," said senior Alexis Nissen.

After a win against Corvallis, they were able to go to playoffs, where they made it to the second round and lost to Wilsonville.

"Going from losing almost every game to beating top teams in our league was so much fun," said senior Allie Stock.

Right: Ready, ready up, junior Hannah Suing awaits the return of the ball from the opponent's side. "I love blocking. I love the feeling of shoving the ball in somebody's face, like eating a cheeseburger," said Suing.

Eat it, sophomore Taylor Burrows hits the ball over the net onto West Albany's side. Even though they lost, they came back the next time they played them to win in three games.

Above: Set a grip, senior Amanda Roadhouse gets ready to serve the ball. "Volleyball was really fun this year, I loved playing with all the girls. Especially getting to play with Lex, Jenna and Allie again. I haven't played with them for the last few years," said Roadhouse.

Big block, seniors Alexis Nissen and Kacey Setzer work together as team captains to block the ball from coming over the net.

Steady Yourself

Cross Country

Cross country is about much more than just running. It is about having focus, determination and endurance. Our team is no exception, with every member pushing through the pain to do the best they can.

"What keeps me going is knowing that it will soon be over and to just push it to the end, because I will be proud of myself if I do," said freshman Dax Murphy.

Memories are a big part of being on a team, because you create so many new ones. Sophomore Chelsey Mckibben's favorite memory was, "[Going to] Seaside, getting to party and meeting new people and just having fun."

Whether it is memories of pushing through the pain in the big race, trips to Seaside or slurpee runs with the girls, the team had a blast while getting in shape at the same time.

Right: Jog it out, senior

Amber Adams paces herself at Waterloo, while jogging to the end of the race and trying to keep her rank. "I just think I have to finish cause if I don't or didn't I would be very mad afterwards," said Adams.

Left: Where is the finish? Sophomores Morgan Wimmer and Jessica Goodwin push themselves to reach the end of a race at the Bryant Park competition. "[What keeps me going is] the thought of going home and never having to do it again, that day," said Goodwin.

Front: Lauren Alley, Emily Ellis, Sean Pauli, Cassandra Kuhns, Christian Upmeyer, Alice Wong and Kati Robinson. Back: Nico Johnson, Ryan Hilpert, Chantal Kirby, Amber Adams, Matthew Wolfenbarger, Logan Bertram, Kamren Hoover, Stuart Riosa, Stephanie Hilpert, Chesley McKibben, Jessica Winterstein and Andrew Mason. Back: Coach Emily Latimer, Katelyn Ellis, Joel Kropf, Andrew Jiles, Grant Dunigan, Jason Read, Dax Murphy, Christopher Nofziger, Thadeus Sansom, Victor Montoya and Michelle Waller.

Above: Concentration, sophomore Christian Upmeyer smoothly makes his way past all of the spectators to the finish line at a race at Bryant Park. "Crossing the finish line feels good depending on the place and time," said Upmeyer.

And they're off, freshman Kamren Hoover starts off the Seaside race ahead of the pack. "...I need to be in good condition for basketball," and this keeps Hoover going during a race.

Above: Almost there, junior Sierra Engler strives to finish the Waterloo race before the districts competition a few weeks later. "[My favorite part of cross country is] the scenery, because it is always beautiful and it helps you get through," said Engler.

Freshmen Football

Moving from the less competitive middle school football, to the more demanding high school football is always tough. But this year, the freshmen stepped up to the challenge and became as physical as they could be.

"Overall this was a really good season, we didn't start so hot but we ended with a solid 6-3 record," said LT Avants.

It is hard as incoming freshmen to step up to the plate and do what people want most. They did the unbelievable and are hoping to do the same next year.

Above: Two hands, LT Avants tries to gain some yards as he holds onto the ball against a tough Churchill defense while his linemen held the defensive line back. "This was a hard fought game but we still came out on top," said Avants. "I think being a lineman is a rewarding position. Letting LT and the running backs score touchdowns," said Luke Zoon. Zoon played left tackle on offense and defensive end on defense.

*Front: Lee Mueller, Benji Brown, Scott Scofield, James Hill, Sawyer Harris, Tance Privratsky, Dylan Hilpert and Tyler Thorpe. Second: Levi Lammert, Hayden Davis, Andrew VanDetta, Tyler Bilderback, Stephen Adkins, Tylor Setzer, Jacob Jensen, Nick Young and Brandon Gomez. ## JV Football

Taking the skills they learned as freshmen last year, the JV team grew stronger and worked together to earn a 6-3 record.

"We had a pretty successful season. We got cocky but came out with a winning season," said sophomore Cary Kilborn.

Being as competitive as they are, they hope to continue their success through the next coming years especially at the varsity level.

"Running people over makes me smile on the field," said sophomore Josh Casterline.

Let's run, sophomore Craig Trask opens his arms wide to get ready to take the ball from sophomore Colten Scavone to gain some yards and run over the defense.

Above: Defense, the defense gets lined up to take on this very physical offense, they played hard and helped the team to a 6-3 record. "I love hitting people. I like hurting people and making them cry," said sophomore Kyle Traxtle. Traxtle played both outside and middle linebacker. "Our defense was dominant when we needed it to be, especially on short yardage situations," said sophomore Alex Patterson. Patterson played both defensive and offensive lineman.

Varsity Football

After making it to the semi-finals last year, the football team had high hopes for this season. Unfortunately, their hopes were lost when they ended the season with a record of 3-7, but they did not let that get them down.

"We aren't last year's team. We're our own team, our own identity," said senior Brett Seiber.

Pulling through three losses by one point they stuck together and played with all their heart.

As the season ended the men came together and finally clicked, making their season a growing season.

"Showing everyone who you are and what you can do and being with the team cause we are like a family," was sophomore Brendon Richards favorite part of the season.

Stiff arm, senior Taylor Bitterman throws his arm out to keep an opponent from tackling him to the ground.

Right: Flying leap, junior Zachary Ryan flies through the air attempting to block the kick. "It's fun. You get to hurt someone without getting in trouble," said Ryan. Ryan was put on the injured list early in the season with a broken collar bone.

Left: Take a hit, junior Bryce Stubbs leans into the tackle as an opponent tries to bring him down. Middle: Drop back and pass it, senior Russell Duerr falls back into the pocket and looks for an open receiver to pass to while getting a great block from a fellow teammate. "The comradery [is the best thing about football]," said Duerr. Right: Everyone to the ball, senior Steven Castro and juniors Zachary Ryan and Kenny Fontanos wrap up their opponent. "Every season, I form some sort of a family with the guys. A big group of brothers and one sister," said Castro.

Above: Line it up right, seniors Colton Hackstedt and Robbie Zaina line up on defense awaiting the snap of the ball. "The fire inside that always pushes me to compete and to be as good as I can [motivates me the most to play football]," said Zaina.

All together now, the offense huddles as they await their quarterback Russell Duerr who is getting the play from the sidelines.

Above: Bring him down easy, senior Brett Seiber wraps his man up and tackles him to the ground with ease. "I play linebacker because I believe it takes a leader to fill that position, and in the time of need, I believe I can be that person," said Seiber.

In It to Win It

Women's JV Soccer

"My favorite game was South Albany because we totally crushed them!" said freshman Kelsie Shanks.

Even when they were not winning, they held their heads high, stayed positive and kept their spirits up. Freshman Peri Gerson, voted "Most Spirited Player," always made sure to help keep her teammates motivated and to always keep on trying, no matter the circumstances.

With all the smiles from good times and wins, there are always one or two tears. "My worst injury was when I broke my thumb... I got tripped," said junior Lacy Brown.

Although the team struggled through many troubles this year, in the end they still came to the field for every game, and gave everything that they had.

Take this, sophomore Danielle Legee raises her leg in an attempt to bring the ball to a stop while it comes towards her from a high pass.

Right: Go Strong, to steal the ball junior Mitnework Vanover races neck and neck with the opponent. "The girls, they weren't tough, but they had really good passes, it was a rough game," said Vanover.

Left: Go all out, freshman Brittney Stone comes sprinting towards the opposing player in an attempt to steal the ball away from her and gain possession. "I really enjoyed this season, the coaches were great," said Stone.

Front: Mariah Jones, Taylor Masog, Brittney Stone and Randi Moncy. Second: Kelsie Shanks, Kendra Funchess, Aliesha Wright, Kelly Steward, Kaitlyn Tracy, Brittney Arthur and Mattea Godsey. Back: Mitnework Vanover, Peri Gerson, Coach Laura Mackie, Coach Sarah Mackie, Rebecca Drake and Danielle Legee.

Above: Put your best foot forward, sophomore Kaitlyn Tracy heads for the ball to kick it up field to a teammate. "During practice we would pick grapes and eat them as we ran by. Also the pasta parties, they were a great team bonding experience," said Tracy.

Determined, junior Mitnework Vanover steps up on the field as she sends the ball in towards the goal.

Above: In over her head, sophomore Brittney Arthur throws the ball to a teammate in hopes of a goal. "I love how the team is funny and random, and how we all get along, it would have been fun for our team to have won more, but I don't regret playing," said Arthur.

Women's Varsity Soccer

A very special sisterly bond held the team together through thick and thin this year. It kept their intensity high, and their competitiveness even higher.

"I loved everyone on our team, and I'm going to miss them, but at least I have the many memories to take with me," said senior Rosemarie Ragsdale. This special bond helped, and the team dramatically improved. Though they did not win as many games as they would have liked, when looking back into the previous years scores, they were a lot closer. "We actually competed and had intensity in our games," said Ragsdale.

"The little things that I learned, I can take with me for the rest of my life," said senior Melissa Cordero.

Kick, step, dodge!
Senior Rosemarie Ragsdale tries to maintain control of the ball while fighting off a defender coming hard at her.

Above: What you got? Junior Sierra Engler strikes the ball in an attempt to take the lead for her team. "My favorite memory was the pasta party at Sage's house... now that was a lot of pasta," said Engler.

Front: Lindsay Shanks, Gina Elliot, Coddie Marshall, Kimberly Duerr and Carly Armstrong. Second: Veronica Steward, Emily King, Kharise Wright, Kathryn Albion, Susan Evans and Michelle Thomas. Back: Sierra Engler, Mandy Stevenson, Coach Toni Rush, Coach Rusty Gorham, Coach Laura Mackie, Sage Gerson and Rose Ragsdale.

Balance is key, senior Carly Armstrong kicks the ball with everything she has in order to move the ball up field to her teammates.

Full 80

Men's Varsity Soccer

Adapt.

A word that hardly begins to describe the season.

The men started off with a new head and assistant coach. They had ways of doing things that most people did not agree with. So, the parents and athletes did something about it.

The day before their first league game, the men got a new head coach, Dave Albion. He had a different way of doing things, and the team adapted to work with him.

Working hard to get back up to speed, the men finished fifth in the league, one point away from going to playoffs.

"If you remember one thing from this season, let it be the Full 80. Let it stand for the hard work and dedication that you guys showed this season," said Albion.

Jump ball, senior Greg Thomson leaps into the air to receive a pass from a teammate while trying to steer away from an oncoming defender.

Right: 50/50 Ball, senior Thies Wilbrandt maintains a shoulder to shoulder stance with the opposing player as the ball flies down towards them in an attempt to gain control for their team. "I like to play really physical," said Wilbrandt, one of three exchange students on the team.

Left: Support, senior Anthony Darling pushes the ball up the field after calling back for a drop to help out the defense. Darling was voted most valuable player by his teammates. "Manthony was inspirational... and crazy good," said sophomore Dane Steeves.

Front: Colin Pyle, Tyler Henry, Dustin Hoy, Christian Barajas, Luke Armstrong and Matthew Coleman. Second: Anthony Darling, Flint Yoder, Michael Mackie, Tyler Kelly, Kenny Saether, Justin Albion, Dane Steeves and Jacob Stevens. Back: Misha Semenov, Logan Burt, Coach Matthew Albion, Coach Tom Piracci, Coach Aaron Falotico, Sven Henrich and Thies Wilbrandt.

Above: Victory run, the entire team runs across the field after the game to thank all of their fans for watching and cheering them on. The run is a tradition that the team has been doing for many years after every game for the fans who have come to support them.

Slidin' home, junior Justin Albion turns his run into a slide tackle in between two oncoming offender's to get the ball safely away from their goal.

Above: Nutmeg, senior Sven Henrich takes his body to the opposing defender as he tries to maintain control of the ball. "I met so many nice guys on the Lebanon soccer team this year," said Henrich. Becoming friends with all the guys on the team was one of his favorite memories.

Tuff Puff

Once again, men from all four classes banded together for the annual Tuff Puff challenge.

Training commenced and soon the battle for the title of champion was underway.

In round one freshmen overcame the upperclassmen, celebrating victory against the juniors. Round two led to a victory for the seniors over the sophomores.

Round three: the finals. Freshmen versus seniors. The deciding game for the title of champion had begun.

A close battle raged on and after the first two rounds, each team had won one. But the seniors kicked it up a notch in the final round and took the championship.

"Freshmen played tough, but not tough enough!" said senior Steven Patterson.

Up top, freshman Logan Bertram extends his arm as far as possible to get a forceful serve to the opposing team.

Right: Tip it over, senior Steven Castro leaps into the air to tap the ball back to the other side of the net, in an attempt to gain a point and a win for the seniors. "Volleyball is my favorite recreational sport and I like dominating the net, of course," said Castro.

Seniors

Top: Arms up, senior Jeffrey VanEpps hops up to receive the ball and set it to give one of his teammates an opportunity for a spike, and a point for their team. "Seniors are number one. Volleyball is pretty cool, too," said VanEpps.

Huddle up, the senior team gathers together right before their match to get themselves pumped and ready to go for their game.

Snag That Flag!

Powderpuff

As is tradition of late, the night of Powderpuff was cold and rainy. After only being allowed five early morning practices, the juniors and seniors finally got to take their frustrations out on each other.

"The juniors thought that they would kill us and they told everyone that we were going down, but we ripped their heads off just like barbie dolls," said senior Katlyn Ellis.

With a little foul play on both sides, the referees had their hands full keeping the game clean.

"I thought it was very competitive," said head referee Kraig Hoene, "...it was one of the better games."

Though the rain fell and trash talk was exchanged, the seniors came out on top for a second win.

Right: Set off quick, senior Cassandra Kuhns quickly runs down the field to get the first down.

"Undefeated class of 2008. We came, we saw, we conquered, that's all I have to say," said Kuhns.

Left: Shift to the side, senior Rosemarie Ragsdale side-steps to the left to avoid her flag being pulled off by the juniors. "Rainy, muddy, perfect conditions for a victory over the juniors. Powderpuff is something I will always remember," said Ragsdale.

Above: Remember, no tackling, junior Sarah Schoenthal dodges a senior before she gets her flag ripped off. "Class of '09's trick play was pretty sweet, they didn't know it was coming," said Schoenthal. The juniors had the quarterback pretend the ball was bad, then run down the field.

Juniors

Front: Erin Arp, Allyson Grothmann, Amanda Miller, Breanna Alley, Amy Bloom, Sarah Schoenthal, Megan Enright, Holly Parmenter and Kaylan Burge. Second: Coach Kim Fandiño, Mitnetwork Vanover, Alexandra McLain, Jordan Sipos, Chantal Kirby, Brandy Taylor, Tarnika Montoya, Nichole Luton, Darlene Ojeda, Jenna Jackola, Lindsay Shanks and Sierra Engler. Back: Amy Schmadeka, Savanna Lindberg, Kharise Wright, Madison Phillips, Barbra Dunnigan-Utter, Jordan Bertram, Shelley Lytle, Desirae Johnson, Katharine Dunigan and Olivia Rahm.

Above: Great blocking is always the key, junior Desirae Johnson blocks for junior Jordan Sipos who was playing the quarterback position. "The game was intense. I'm really excited for next year. I really loved our team," said Johnson.

Shout it out

Cheerleading

Loud, peppy and energetic! Three words that describe our cheerleaders.

People think being a cheerleader is easy, cheer at the game and they are done. That is not the case. They have to practice Monday through Thursday, along with game sim two hours before the games.

"In the fall season we have to run with the guys. It's hard," said senior captain Britny Stewart.

"Sometimes it's hard to get the crowd motivated," said senior Becky Joplin. Being a motivator is not always easy to do but neither is being a cheerleader. Some people say cheerleading is not a sport, untrue they work just as hard as all the other athletes.

"Winter cheer is hard because we have to run ten stair laps," said sophomore Shay Bauer.

Right: LEBANON, junior Savanna Lindberg performs the 'LHS' cheer during one of the pep assemblies. "The practices where we made up new cheers was probably the best because then you had something new and not the same old stuff," said Lindberg.

LHS, Senior Samatha Nervino does the "IS" cheer at the homecoming pep assembly "I love cheerleading, I'm going to miss it, I'm so glad I got dared into it sophomore year," said Nervino.

Left: Scream it if you mean it, "The season definitely had it's ups and down but the good definitely outweighed the bad. I never thought I would love cheer, it's awesome," said sophomore Heidi Pruitt.

Right: Cheer pride, The fall season cheer leading squad, doing what they do best. Yelling until they cannot yell anymore. "I thought it would be fun, and it is! Also my friends wanted me to try out," said freshman Vanessa Johnson. It takes a lot of guts to stand out there where everyone can see you and scream for our school. It is not for the faint of heart.

Front: Ashley Comer. Second: KaryAnn Lane and Darlene Ojeda. Third: Tamika Montoya, Savanna Lindberg and Vanessa Johnson. Fourth: McKenzie Elliott, Shay Bauer, Shauna Walker and Samantha Nervino. Back: Coach Debi Shimmin, Britny Stewart, Jordan Bertram, Heidi Pruett and Coach Traci Ford.

Above: Thankyou fans, "I have cheered at LHS for two years. My mom made me try out for cheer, it's been the highlight of my high school experience, so far it was worth it," said sophomore KaryAnn Lane.

IS! Hit it, "IS" is my favorite cheer, we get a lot of crowd participation," said Shay Bauer. "I'm cheering for the winter sports because I didn't want to stop," said Bauer.

Above: Go, Team Go! "The sleepover that we had at KaryAnn's house was great. We played a prank on each other saying that we were kidnapped. The first day I was 30 minutes late and I had to run 17 laps. I got in shape," said junior Tamika Montoya.

One Love, One Life

Dance Team

There is no doubt that being a member of the dance team is harder than it may seem, but it takes a lot of talent as well as patience. Especially if you are trying to earn the state championship.

“One Love, One Life” is the theme this year for the dance team’s state competition, which will be held in March. “I don’t think we’ve ever not made it to state. It would be really embarrassing if we didn’t,” said senior Lindsay Nelson who is one of the dance team captains, along with senior Randi Newport.

Starting the year off with two new coaches and a lot of new girls has been hard. Leave it to our team to work through tough practices and use teamwork as they are striving to win the state championship again this year.

Flight in unison, by using a lyrical routine with several intricate moves, the team won the Stayton Competition.

Right: Just cause, sophomore Jessica Griffith along with seniors Randi Newport and Marrydith Tran perform at an assembly. “I started dancing just ‘cause I saw my cousin dancing and I wanted to be out there doing what she was doing,” said Newport.

Left: Under the Stars, the team performs at half time during a football game. "It was fun but it was kind of frustrating, because we'd never danced on a field before. Our costumes were new and it didn't look right, but performing was fun," said sophomore Victoria Pruitt.

Arms out, part of the team stretches out their arms and tilts their heads in sync with on another at the Stayton Competition.

Above: Complete focus, junior Felicia Friend, waits for the Drill Down to begin. "It's a lot like a military drill down. You march, you do turns to face different directions as if to walk. You are on Dancers' Honor, where if you mess up, you take yourself out, or you'll be taken out," said Friend.

Above: One-two step, at a pep assembly sophomore Brittney Arthur and junior Benjamin Cramlet, perform a novelty dance with the dance team. Where superheros saved damsels in distress, and danced alongside to the song "Holding Out for a Hero" by Bonnie Tyler.

The Take Down

Wrestling

Physical ability, dedication and heart, all go into being the best wrestler you can be; and there is no short supply of that on our team.

"This is my fourth year wrestling. I like to wrestle and I like the people on the team," said senior Joel Kropf.

Team members must endure tough practices and long meets that get them into top physical shape. They learn many different moves as they tune their skills throughout the season. Moves such as Duckunders, Cheaptilts, the Pancake and the Cowcatcher.

"My favorite move is the Single Arm Bar because it was the last move I learned," said junior Michael Duncan.

At the end of the season, whether it be good or bad, the team had a blast hanging out and competing.

Right: The battle begins, senior Tysen Weber latches onto his opponent in hopes of bringing him down on the mat. "Wrestling practice is one of the hardest things I've ever done, but the matches make it all worth it," said Weber.

Stare down, freshman Megan Shearer stares down her opponent as the match is about to begin. "They are all like my brothers," said Shearer about her teammates.

Left: Feel the burn, freshman Kendall Darby pushes with all his might against his opponent in hopes of knocking him to the ground. "This is my first year, I joined the team to be better than my brother," said Darby. Middle: The Struggle, freshman Tance Privratsky braces for impact as his opponent takes him down. "My favorite memory is hitting Josh in the face with a dodgeball and knocking his glasses off," said Privratsky. Right: The anticipation, sophomore Dalton Urrutia prepares himself as the referee starts the match. "My favorite thing about wrestling is just messing around with friends and hanging out," said Urrutia.

Top: Balance is key, sophomore Adam Colwell grasps for his opponent attempting to stay on his feet while his opponent tries to pull him down. "The funniest thing about wrestling was picture day. I have been wrestling five years because of my friends," said Colwell.

Grapple, junior Joel Aranda attempts to pin his rather feisty opponent. "[Wrestling] takes a lot of work and dedication but I still love the sport," said Aranda.

Above: Right where I want him, sophomore Kyle Traxtle tries to lock his opponent into position so he can obtain the upper hand and win the match. "The meet in Reno was pretty sweet, I was hanging out with friends and wrestling," said Traxtle.

Men's Freshmen Basketball

Learning to adjust is hard enough. Having to learn to adjust with a bunch of people who you are not used to is even harder for most to do. The men on the team learned to adjust well.

"We are starting to be mature as a team. Ford is a good Coach," said LT Avants.

The coaches helped to teach the guys new fundamentals, to be patient, and have good mentality.

"Coach Ford always knows what to say at halftime to pump us up for the rest of the game," said Logan Bertram.

Left: Shrug it off. LT Avants steps up for a free throw. "I split the defenders like Moses and the Red Sea," said Avants. Right: Bending low, Shagun Patel sticks to his opponent like glue. "If we had a defensive player award I would win it. I am like Ben Wallace," said Patel.

All together now, Logan Bertram, Shagun Patel and Chris Alley watch their men while on defense.

Above: United we stand, when another player makes a great play, or comes off the court, the players who are on the bench at the time stand to congratulate them. "We have been playing together since seventh grade, but we have never really been that good. But this year we have had the expectation to win from Coach Ford. Practices are hard but playing in the games make it all worth while," said Logan Bertram.

Control

Men's JV Basketball

Teamwork is something everyone must learn. After a couple of years of already knowing your team mates, learning to work together is an easy thing.

"It's easier knowing how everyone else works, because then you don't have to start from the beginning again," said sophomore Brendon Richards.

Although some only have one year left while others have two, they continue to work together while growing with their friendship and skills.

Above: Take a look, junior Kyler Shanks turns his gaze up toward the hoop to see if there is an open lane to take in. "Whoopin' up on the other team every game night. Straight up whoopin' on the other team. We won that game. I recall that we were victorious against Roosevelt... We tell lots of jokes in the locker room. We're jokesters," said Shanks. This is Shanks' third year playing basketball for Lebanon High.

Men's Varsity Basketball

Varsity. A way of knowing you have come far and have skill at the sport you are playing.

Joining varsity comes with both joy and sorrow. For some, it is their last year playing basketball with their friends, while others still have one more year of growth and bonding. The experience of every win and loss, every practice is engraved in the minds of the players for many years to come.

"We run our butts off and we get guys like the freshmen to do our laundry and stuff," said junior Sean Patel.

Varsity teaches you teamwork and leadership. There is a sense of joy, pride, achievement and even power for some. Whatever a person's reasons for playing basketball, making varsity says something about them and gives a feeling of accomplishment.

Got to reach for it, senior Derek VanAntwerp reaches to get the ball away from his opponent. "I love Coach Hoene," said VanAntwerp.

Right: Practice form shooting, senior Colton Hackstedt stops to make a giant hop, sending the ball flying toward the basket. "It has been a fun senior year," said Hackstedt. Hackstedt is a two sport athlete, playing both football and basketball.

Top: Hands up! Sophomore Brandon Herman stands up tall in order to block his opponent from being able to pass the ball off to another player. "The games are really fast paced. It's really fun," said Herman.

Push through, junior Justin Estes forces his way through his opponent. "I love the game. No better feeling than a pregame locker-room," said Estes.

Above: Line it up good, junior Aaron Beckler focuses on the hoop as he crouches to make a free throw. "I LOVE Super Circuits, they rock," said Beckler. "Your toe, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder and wrist. All in a straight line. Perfect free throw form," said Assistant Coach Eric Frazier.

Women's Freshmen Basketball

Freshmen teams have a quality about them that is different from all the others because they are all the same age and grade. The players have a special bond; some have grown and played together for many years.

They get the unique opportunity of being introduced to high school sports through the same experience, and they learn and grow together. This creates great teamwork, and anyone who has watched these girls play can clearly see that.

Above: Let's work together, yeah, yeah, yeah, Peri Gerson, Erin Hudson and Megan Benedict take off down the court, while working as a team, to get the ball to the hoop. "It's fun to work together because you figure out each other's weaknesses and strengths. I just joined the team because I like basketball. It is a fun sport," said Hudson. There are many drills they use to practice getting up and down the court, and some of the more popular ones are the "Three Man Weave" and "The Eleven Man."

Left: Long shot, Megan Benedict passes the ball up high. "Our team has fun on and off the court and I love being a part of it," said Benedict. Right: Take off, Sara Parks dribbles around her opponent. "I like to play basketball because our team plays well together and has fun," said Parks.

Keep pace with her, Kendra Funchess dives down for the runaway basketball. "I got sweet moves on and off the court," said Funchess.

Front: Jaquelynn Napper. Second: Kendra Funchess, Kaylie Probert, Veronica Steward, Sara Parks and Heather Matz. Back: Coach Doug Phillips, Peri Gerson, Megan Benedict, Erin Hudson and Coach Dave Albion.

Left: All the way through, junior Kharise Wright races past her opponent with the ball in hand. "I bet that was butter," said Wright. Right: Make it past her, sophomore Tasha Price pushes her way past the blocker and starts to drive to the basket.

Push

Women's JV Basketball

Effort, perseverance and communication; these are all things that are evident when a person watches a Women's JV game. The players and coach all aim to win, and they do not give up before the end.

"Butter," said junior Emily King about a team joke.

They play hard and cheer each other on, giving all they have to come out of each game with a victory or a lesson learned. Looking back and reflecting on past seasons, they never fail to have a smile on their faces.

Around the bend, sophomore Shannon Gabel pivots around her opponent. "I'm really confident when I get the ball because I like taking it to the hoop."

Front: Olivia Rahm, Emma Newton, Kharise Wright, Emily King, Jordan Sipos and Shannon Gabel. Back: Lynette Baker, Tasha Price, Coach Evan McDaniel, Kaitlin Ogle and Nichole Luton.

Above: Cheer for the home team, junior Olivia Rahm sits with fellow teammate sophomore Kaitlin Ogle as they watch as the game progresses. "I've been playing basketball for only one year in America but in Germany I've been playing for two. Basketball, it's not really different here when compared to Germany. Handball is similar to basketball and I've been doing that for eight years. In my spare time I'll hang out with friends and do a lot of other things, I draw sometimes too," said Rahm.

All The Way

Women's Varsity Basketball

The crowd cheers as a girl dribbles down the court. Avoiding reaching arms, the ball passes to another's hands. She dribbles in and around, and the crowd jumps to its feet, roaring with excitement as she sends the ball on its way, over heads and straight into the net. The crowd jumps up, yelling their excitement.

This description illustrates a game which requires a lot from its players. Dedication, perseverance, effort, teamwork, and much more go into games. Practice after practice, the girls who play this sport give all they have to make varsity.

Once there, they prove that there is a good reason why they are a part of that team, and it is obvious to coaches, players and fans all around them, bringing pride to many.

Run it long, senior Amber Adams dribbles the ball down the court. "My friends were playing it so I thought I would, and it's fun," said Adams.

her, senior Laura Zehner drives the ball to the middle of the key avoiding the other team's guards. "The thing I like best is when all the girls on the team are playing together and it's really fun," said Zehner.

Left: Up, up and away, senior Morgan Brantner jumps up high and smoothly aims for the basket while concentrating and ignoring the opposing team. "My sister played basketball and I guess I wanted to be cool like she was, so I've been playing since the third grade," said Brantner. Middle: Pass it far, sophomore Kimberly Duerr passes the ball off to a team mate while on the sidelines of the basketball court. Right: Look around, senior Alexis Nissen catches the ball and looks around for someone to pass it off to. "I'm really excited because it's my senior year, and it would be nice to end on a good note," said Nissen.

Front: Cassandra Kuhns, Katlyn Ellis, Laura Zehner, Chantal Kirby, Amber Adams and Kimberly Duerr. Back: Coach Mardy Benedict, Rosemarie Ragsdale, Alexis Nissen, Morgan Brantner and Coach Tom Cox.

Top: Jump for height, junior Chantal Kirby throws the ball over the hands of the person guarding her and into the basket to score more points. "I've been playing since second grade. What I like best about basketball is winning. We have a good team this year," said Kirby.

Everyone gather round, the team gathers together on the floor to get some adrenalin flowing through their veins before the game starts.

Above: Dunk that ball, senior Katlyn Ellis goes for a lay in while the rest of the team blocks the Dallas team from getting too close to her while she shoots. "It's a lot of fun when you talk and work together as a team," said Ellis.

Swimming

To someone who does not know it, swimming may look like a bunch of people who swim back and forth. For those people in the pool, it is a way of life.

"In swimming, you're only competing against yourself. I started swimming because my friends, Desirae and Bridget, told me if I didn't they'd choke me. But I love it," said freshman Cassie Johnson.

Swimmers seem to live in the water, with all the time they spend at the pool.

"We spend two hours every school day practicing, Saturdays two hours again. Over break we had three days of daily doubles, a meet and then a half hour to an hour of practice. Swimming helps you relieve the stresses and helps you not think for awhile," said freshman Ronald Nicholas.

Right: Smile while you practice, freshman Cassie Johnson takes a breath of air mistaken for a smile in the South Albany pool before the swimming meet began. "I've improved since the beginning of the season," said Johnson.

Power through, junior Mitnework Vanover grabs some air before heading for the finish. "I've been swimming for four and a half years. It gets you fit. You get to improve your time and compete," said Vanover.

Left: Jet stream, junior Cody Hugie charges for the finish while performing a beautiful butterfly stroke otherwise known as the fly. "Swimming is a lot of fun but very tiring, especially butterfly, because you die," said Hugie.

Front: Lauren Alley, Darlene Ojeda, Mitnework Vanover, Jennifer Meadowbrook, Randi Clabb, Megan Embright and Sheree Speaks. Second: Jessica Winterstein, Desirae Johnson, Barbara Dunningan-Utter, Sunni Whitney, Stephanie Hilpert, Bridget Saether, Cassie Johnson, Sarah Auten, Lindsay Noble and Sarah Vojnovich. Third: Sierra Engler, Madison Phillips, Cody Hugie, Coach Gloria Andrews, Coach Gus Arzner, Coach Loralee Engler, Michael Wolfenbarger, Beth Cathcart, Mackenzie Antila. Fourth: Anthony Hackert, Sebastian Phillips, Aaron VanEpps, Andrew Mason, Daryl Kratz, Jessie Blair, Levi Lammert and Dylan Hilpert. Back: Kenneth Saether, Ronald Nicholas, Arron Roles, John Carlson, Bradley Weber, Tyler Bales, Jeffrey VanEpps, Bradley Plattner and Ryan Hilpert.

Above: Take it easy, junior Darlene Ojeda calmly breaststrokes her way through the water in the South Albany pool. "Breaststroke, it's not that hard compared to, like, butterfly where I drown. It's the slacker stroke, kind of relaxing," said Ojeda.

Take a breather, senior Beth Cathcart takes in a deep breath of good old oxygen while swimming the five hundred freestyle. "I love swimming the five hundred. Distance is where it's at. I've been swimming since I was six and I have always liked swimming distance events," said Cathcart.

Above: Move backwards, senior Stephanie Hilpert warms up in her swimming lane doing the backstroke as she awaits to challenge South Albany at the swimming meet that took place in South Albany.

Left: Peek-a-boo, freshman Ronald Nicholas swims the freestyle 400 relay. "My goggles fell off when I dove, giving you a perfect shot of my eyes," said Nicholas. Right: Doggie paddle, freshman Bradley Weber finishes warming up before a meet against South Albany.

Hoofin' It

Equestrian

Team work and dedication are two words that these horse riders live by. To be a part of the equestrian team is to be a part of a working group.

"We have to work together to make everything function," said junior Brandy Taylor.

There are group competitions, like Canadian Flag Races and Calf Wrangling. Others participate in Pole Bending and the ever popular Barrel Racing.

Becoming one with your horse is a must. You two must be able to communicate without trouble, and your horse should be more than trusting of you. There should be a loyalty and willingness to do anything you ask of them.

"Me and my horse kind of have the same personality. We're both crazy," said junior Britni Blau.

Up top, senior Amelia Tacy takes her horse around the corner to warm up. Warming up is needed for any sport.

Right: Lead along with em, junior Karen Hoagland prepares one horse for practice while she leads another one to get it warmed up as well.

Top: Around the way, junior Alexandra McLain takes her Paint gelding, Jazz, past the barrel during the pre-practice warm ups. "It gives us girls a reason to be around our horses and to be around others who like to enjoy the same things," said McLain.

Form riding, senior Megan Miller moves as one with her horse to get ready for the practice.

Academics

Noun

Academics is why students have to come to school, whether or not it is actually why they show up. In all fairness to those who have to teach, it is not all desk work. Even if it may seem like it at the time.

All students know that classes can be boring, but the things that they learn there are helpful in more ways than one. While they learn reading, writing and everyone's favorite math, students learn more than they realize. Students learn to think for themselves, comprehend a world that is not always black and white and understand their own potential.

If they take nothing else from those classes, let it be the ability to learn to think, understand and act on their own words.

Life in the Green Lane

Living Systems

The ecosystem depends on bright people to help take care of it from hazards like air pollution, famine and who knows what else may come its way.

Luckily Lebanon High School's Living Systems focuses on agriculture and animal science.

They are the bright future of the environment and how to keep it from dying off.

These students are going to be the next generation of biologists, environmental engineers, environmental preservation specialists and the list goes on and on.

Being in this system means trips to the land lab where you tend and care for all types of animals.

This experience lets people open up to the experience of animal care making them want to join FFA or Equestrian which are popular clubs for Living Systems.

Right: Dick Olson, "What I like about being a counselor? I like helping students see different options to help them become successful," said Olson. Olsen has been a counselor for the Living System's Academy for the last four years.

Thinking Technology

Information Systems

Information System is all about design and communication through technology separated into three branches of study. There are interactive, media and visual types of study. Each class in Information Systems is mapped out leading students to the understanding of our technologically advancing world.

Pam Maeyaert helps students learn how to use their skills on the computer, typing word documents, and making presentations. Mark Whitson teaches the techniques of journalism and photography. Every Information Systems teacher shows students a door that will prepare them to the future they will lead with their words and wisdom.

"I like the teachers in Information and getting to know everyone in a smaller community," said senior Samantha Nervino.

Right: Lorna Torrey-Palermo. "I enjoy working with people. I enjoy the variety that is a part of this position. My favorite aspect of this job is helping students understand how to achieve their maximum potential and I love watching people grow!" said Palermo.

Top: Snap shot, sophomore Judith Johns takes photos. "I like Information system because I'm in photography and it's pretty much my life," said Johns. Left: Professionalism, senior Samantha Nervino walks in during the senior job fair at LBCC.

Right: Cultural arts, freshman Nikkisha Banks uses her creative mind to draw. "I've been drawing as long as I can remember. I like to draw stuff I see because the detail makes a challenge. My favorite drawing that I've done was an African design," said Banks.

Front: Amy Woodruff, Jacque Wells, Laurie Grote, Cheryl Dodds, Shelly Boykin, Diane Michael, Lorna Torrey-Palermo and Jamie Stinson. Second: Michael Cox, Tim Helland, Melody Antons, Tina Rimov, LeAnne Raze and Peter Gomez. Back: Ryan King, Jim Vandehey, William Caffey, Josh Smalley and Mark Whitson.

Right: Imagination required, sophomore Kristen Rae is an artist in Information Systems. "I was dressed up as the heart of the main character in a story I'm in the process of writing," said Rae. Left: ~~That~~ day, sophomore Breianna Gorder sports a hat that belongs to a friend.

Left: Working or wandering eyes, seniors Jeremy Colwell and Kyle Metzger sit next to one another in Ryan King's class. "King is a pretty nice guy, but over 50% of the time we don't even go, but when we do we don't pay attention. So we do CIS stuff, it's easy," said Colwell.

Building Your Future

Physical Systems

Above: Alone time, sophomore Skye Story sits in the hall for some alone time during lunch. Left: Cheese! Sophomore Kenneth Schneider smiles at a friend after a joke. "I chose welding because it is productive work and I don't have to sit in a desk all class period," said Schneider.

When a person thinks of Physical Systems, they think of welding, electronics, material science, math and so much more. Physical System also prides itself on Criminal Justice classes and also Spanish classes.

Right: Set it done, junior Bradley Pozder holds back his smile as he puts the finishing touches on his project before it's done. Students in shop classes work with some pretty dangerous tools but with time create some amazing yet interesting works of art.

All of these classes have something to offer that can not be found in any other system. Although there are sometimes fees for classes, they are well worth it. This enables its students to pursue their interests while preparing for life after high school.

Friendships are built upon these interests, and this is obvious when you hear conversation and see interactions.

If a person walks down the hallway, they are greeted with friendly faces and casual attitudes, they see a reflection of what Physical Systems is.

Left: Duty calls, Physical Systems counselor Dan Sheehan does more than just make schedules, he helps students with all sorts of problems. Like so many other counselors, he may work behind the scenes, but without him school life would be more difficult.

Front: Dan Sheehan, Andy Olstad, Eric Frazier, Jason Solberg, Tom Callison. Second: Mark Martens, Mark Vandehey, Mardy Benedict, Al Miguelucci, Chris D'Angelo and Steve Robinson. Back: Dawnae Cable, Bonita Randklev, Maureen Twomey, Diane Lamb, Sue Tompson, Linda Horner, Debby McIntyer, Clark Brean, Craig Nelson and Ken Ray.

Left: Get ready, Eric Frazier shows his class what to check before using the tools. "I like being around students, they keep me young," said Frazier. "Helping them with the problems they have right now makes me feel like I make a difference in the world."

Physical students prefer a comedy. 62.5% said they'd watch a comedy over the 37.5% watching action flicks.

Favorite teacher goes to Eric Frasier with 65% in second was Mardy Benedict with 20%.

At 37.5% Physical students tie favorite music between Metal and Hip Hop. Coming in at third with 25% is Rock.

Above Right: Got Some Skills, junior Christopher Wells revs the skill saw to make sure it is in fact working before he begins to make his final cuts.

Making Some Smoke, junior Eric Florek welds the pieces to a project together in Tom Callison's shop class. "I really like the hands on involvement in Physical Systems," said Florek.

Left: Write it down, senior Christopher Cordoza writes his answers down on his paper the last few minutes of class. Note taking is a vital part of passing most classes and is not a bad habit to make for college and life after high school.

Left: Playing with fire, senior Nathen Dubose was first and eager to put his mold into the bucket of metal. "I like being in Physical System cause it enhances what I'm good at," said Dubose. Above: Work time, junior Elliot Loeks carves out his design of Pink Floyd into wax to begin his lost wax casting project. "I like electronics since we live in an electronic world, it's good to know about them," said Loeks.

Taking Care of Business

Social Systems

Above: Next on stage, seniors Nathan Miner, Jonathan Hudson, and Morgan McGowan stand aside and wait to perform a scene from Amanda Danger. Left: Lunch time, seniors Tiffany Morgan and Luke Sondermayer talk with one another in the student store at lunch.

Social Systems is a business based academy all about the creative and performing arts. They are taught how to run businesses, preparing for future finances, acting, painting, drawing and cooking. Lilly Edwards teaches how to do business while trusting students to run the student store.

Steven Quigley teaches all kinds of art from painting and sculpting to helping Debbie Edwards design the back drops and props for the plays. Social Systems is the place where minds have room to be creative, and gives space to grow as individuals.

Social teachers grow and learn from students as they teach students everything they know.

"I like social because it smells really good, everyone is really happy and you can be yourself," said sophomore Dane Steeves.

Right: Better with a buddy, juniors Bridget Saether and Lindsay Bellenger work in the student store, Bellenger as the cashier and Saether as her food retriever. "I like the student store most of course. I started out in Info but then I realized I liked business, so I switched," said Saether.

Back: Maxine Smith, Steve Quigley, Jerol Selby, Josh Dykes, Nancy Bower, Debbie Edwards, Kim Coleman, Kim Fandino, Dave Winters, Neva Claussen and Lori Henderson.

Right: Marguerite Rawie and her Sidekick Zoie, "I would describe my job as listening, answering questions and helping students solve problems. The thing that is tough about my job is when I don't know how to help a student," said Rawie.

Left: Let's Skip, seniors Carly Armstrong and Robbie Zaina perform a skit from Grease. "I thought I was going to fall on my face because heels," said Armstrong. Right: Does blood make you queezy? Seniors Shawna Walker and Shalyn Uhden sit and talk while working at the blood drive.

Left: What does it say? Sophomore Stephanie Nervino sits and relaxes in Debbie Edwards room. "The people that came to my school and talked about the high school told us about the systems, and Physical and Living didn't really interest me," said Nervino.

Left: Salute the flag, seniors Jonnie Atchley, Amanda Roadhouse, Katlyn Ellis, and Jenna Narrow stand in a pep assembly and show their patriotic side. Right: Look at that, sophomores Viktorija Altuhova and Amanda Prather sit in Kim Coleman's Language Arts class.

Your on candid camera, senior Marcus Giese, Brad Plattner, Daniel Franzwa and sophomore Anthony Marker sit outside and video tape. "I am interviewing Dan for a video I was doing. It's about what he thought about Physical System. I did a lot of other videos for my video production class," said Giese.

Top left: Show me the good stuff, junior Jessica Vasquez and senior Breanne Bishop sit together in the multi-purpose room. "We usually just talk about her baby Maddie and we hang out on the weekends," said Bishop. Top Right: Meet me in the gym, seniors Rachel Shields and Megan Adams meet up in the gym before a pep assembly. "I sat with Rachel and Ashley through the whole assembly. The competitions are my favorite cause I get to dance around all crazy," said Adams.

Right: Call me, senior Sarah Loeks and junior Lakshmi Matthews exchange numbers in Kim Coleman's advisory class. They were having a birthday party for everyone who had a birthday in the first trimester. The class was playing "Are you smarter than a fifth grader."

Left: Ham, turkey or roast beef? Sophomore Dane Steeves helps teach sophomore John Carlson how to assemble delicious sandwiches in the student store. "I work on the sandwich line, man. I make sandwiches that's the way I roll," said Carlson.

"Christmas of 2005, that was the happiest time of my life." Junior Felicia Friend

"I like zombies, cause they're easier to kill than vampires." Senior Rachel Shields

People

Noun

We move, we eat, we breath, talk, socialize, think and feel. We are people, we build intricate webs of relationships which are often the basis of who we are. There are many of us with many different personalities, but we tend to find others who are somehow like us. As you walk down the hall you can see this.

Everywhere you look there are people searching for their niche as well as many people who have found it. People are all around us, living life one day at a time. They are finding meaning and worth, learning responsibility and just enjoying being alive.

Juniors

Class of 2009

After the first two years of getting the hang of high school, juniors have finally reached being upperclassmen. Although not quite top dog, juniors definitely hold some sway, and know their place.

Becoming juniors is like a right of passage. Most get their licenses, and they begin to wander further away from home. You learn to fix your own mistakes, and from those mistakes, you grow.

Junior year is one of the more lenient years of high school. "You're an upperclassmen without the stress," said Logan Burt.

There is not the pressing matter of life after high school, yet. Most juniors have a lot of the required classes out of the way. Thus they are able to enjoy this year. Then comes the recurring notion that the junior class only has one year left.

Left: Hey look, Marcus Greenly and Rodolfo Salazar stand in the hallway and listen to an interesting story. "Junior year is the best thing that has happened in my life, because I love life," said Salazar.

Right: Freak out, Mitnetwork Vanover dances to a song during a pep assembly. "The techno song is interesting," said Vanover. Vanover's favorite part of pep assemblies is "watching what people do, seeing crazy people go crazy to the techno song."

Left: Catch it! Kenny Fontanos attempts to catch a flying gummy bear thrown to him by Sean Patel in a class competition for the Spirit Stick. "Me and Kenny make a great team, we go together like meatballs and fish," said Patel.

Left: Walk with attitude, Nico Johnson and Jenessa Sheets walk down the Living Systems hallway during spirit week. Johnson was on the Homecoming court, and dressed up like a character from Grease for his skit. "School goes by fast, so be excellent to each other and keep it real by dressing like a Greaser," said Johnson. Walking on their way to the pep assembly, Sheets had this to say, "I love assemblies, they're fun, I love Nico, he's a stud."

Sophomores

45 minutes of freedom. Plain and simple, it is the best thing about being a sophomore.

The closed campus lunches were quite disappointing, but now that they are sophomores, they have the option to go off campus. With a 2.0 grade average of course.

Last year, they wondered why sophomores and upperclassmen treated them like children. With the incoming freshmen they have come to a realization, they were children. Immature, fresh out of middle school, and shot into a world of excitement. With so many new faces they talked to anyone and everyone who would listen.

Now that they have grown out of their middle school phase, they have transformed into young adults. More freedom, driving, first jobs, everything life should be, and more.

Left: Hello! Alyssa Barrette shows off her spontaneity as the camera passes by on her way to her lunch spot. Even though sophomores are given the opportunity to go off campus many chose to stick around and enjoy the food the school has to offer.

Right: Study hard, Roni Tucker sits in the hall during third period doing math homework. "I was absent and they were correcting a test. I was doing my pretest. I was actually studying, kind of a shocker because I never do my work," said Tucker.

Left: All dressed up, Steve Silva dons a feathered head dress to show off some school spirit. "I made it, my mom helped me. It's made out of duct tape and super glue. I don't really know why I made it, it just came to me," said Silva.

Left: What's for lunch? Marina Venglosova, Alyssa Barrette, Teslah Decker, and Erina Shevel sit down and enjoy their food during second lunch. "I had first trimester and I had lunch with them, I like first lunch more, because I get to eat earlier and I was hungry," said Venglosova. Most sophomores have rather strong feelings about the off campus policy, both positive and negative. "I don't have a pass but I go off anyhow. The policy isn't fair, it wasn't my classes fault. Kids sneak off anyway," said Barrette.

Freshmen

Class of 2011

Tuesday, September 4th 2007, 383 freshmen entered the doors to their future. They walked into freedom, sports and new friends.

A new start is what many desired. Welcome to the future. Everything you are about to do will teach you the challenges of high school. It is your time!

Time to get up out of bed and welcome our High School. What will you chose? Drama club, Key club, DECA, sports.

"The best things in life are unseen. That's why we dream, think and kiss with our eyes closed," said Anastasia Kuschnick. Live it up guys we are only fresh once.

Left: Praise be to the chef, Cari Goss puts on her apron for the day as she gets ready to cook in Neva Clausen's cooking class. "My favorite thing about the class is you get to express yourself with food," said Goss.

Right: See food, Diamond McKinley shows off his mixture of starbursts and skittles to his friends. "Just shows I look good in any picture. Starbursts and skittles. I do it all the time, it's so good. You have no clue," said McKinley.

Left: Good example, Kelsey Read stares at an object while drawing it in Steve Quigley's first period drawing and painting class. "My favorite thing about that class is Quigley bugging me about my cell phone being out during class time," said Read.

Left: That is so wierd! Heather Matz and Freddie Gray walk down the hall talking about the latest dreams both of them have had. Gray described her latest dream: "My friends Sarah and Ali went to Mexico and they got a giant, inflatable, Mexican sumo wrestler. Sara was trying to blow it up and she couldn't, so she asked Ali for help. Ali said 'no' so they started beating up each other with it. Then I walked away and got two giant pickles and put them on a slipper."

Helping Hands

Staff

With their helping hands they have taught us, shared with us and helped shape us into bright and hardworking young adults. They are here to teach us everything they know, hoping that we will take it all in. Although our school is often changing, the goals of our staff are not. As every student is taken through school not a child would become a graduate without their teachers.

In our academies, be it Living, Information, Physical, or Social a teacher will change a life. Mark Vandehey can give you stories of a very rowdy childhood or he can turn a troubled teen around with his wise advice. Amy Woodruff might remove her glasses every time she looks up from her notes, but in her teen-parenting seminar she will help an expecting teen become the responsible parents they may never have known they could have been. With out a doubt everybody knows that each teacher has something different to offer any student.

In every school there is a backbone made up of a hard working team. The Lebanon high school staff is our team. They are the dedicated educated men and women of this school.

Left: Story Time, teacher Tina Rimov sits on her classroom floor reading "The Children's Story" to her American Citizenship class. "I read this story to get my students to start thinking about why they think and believe the things they do, and what their foundations are," said Rimov.

Right: A Man of few words, Mark Martens has worked at LHS for four years. When asked if he liked it here he said, "Yes, if I didn't like it I would have left." Martens is known as being the mathematical genius of Physical System.

Left: Working Hard, Linda Horner of Physical System is well known... to the students of that system. Even though she doesn't oppose her desk job Horner says she spends "too much" time behind her computer. "I would like to have more classroom interaction with teachers and children," said Horner.

Left: Campus monitors, Our campus monitors this year are pushing for closer student bonds. Many students are not opposed to the new monitors and think their methods of security actually help. "Every day here is fun at Disney Land," said Sherri Barnett. Tim Henrichs has worked for the school district one year as opposed to Barnett's three years. Not that she would, if she could do anything else at this very moment, she would go back to cosmetology school so she could get her license to open up a beauty shop called "Country Cutters."

Clubs

Noun

Clubs, as defined by the dictionary, are “a group of persons organized for a social, literary, athletic, political or other purpose.”

High school is a time for people to get themselves involved in things, because they have practically nothing to lose and they gain experience in different areas.

School offers many different opportunities to get involved, and clubs are one of the main ways. They come in many different types to suit the people who make them what they are, the students.

Students are what make the clubs successful. Without student involvement, there would be no clubs.

Because of that, clubs are what you make them, in your own words.

Top right: Recruiting, sophomore Linzy McIntyre tends to the DECA table while they were trying to get new members to join the crew. Bottom left: Soloist, senior Leab Fandiño stands up amongst the other members of the band to perform a solo at the choir and band dessert fund raiser. "Music is my life and I'm really glad I got to share what I love most through solos and through band with my friends and the school this year," said Fandiño. Bottom right: Meetings, junior Coddie Marshall, along with other members of VOICE, sit in a circle during the meeting to find out what is going on.*

Plan ASB

They are the ones who are behind the scenes of almost all school events and making decisions everyday that affect many.

The Associated Student Body consist of the people who make it happen, whenever there is a pep assembly or friendly competition, they are there. They help every idea that should become a reality make it to that point.

Without them little would happen, no activities, no spirit stick and no one really knowing what is going on.

Front: Kaitlyn Stone, Marcus Giese, and Emily King. Back: Scott Wilson, Ethan Crenshaw, and Colin McHill.

And your name is? Junior Colin McHill helps Leadership announce the Mr. LHS candidates by asking them random questions about themselves.

Above: Is this loud enough? Junior Colin McHill hosts every pep assembly. McHill is the spirit coordinator. ASB is involved with every assembly and every dance the school has. They have also put together everything the school does for activities and fund-raisers like Mr. LHS and Strawberry Court. "I like doing pep assemblies because it allows people to let loose and have some fun," said McHill.

Nice Stash, seniors Katlyn Ellis, Jonnie Atchley and Amanda Roadhouse dress up for Mustache Monday during the Valentines Day Spirit Week.

Progress

Leadership

Leadership is behind the events the school enjoys. They are behind events such as Homecoming and Mr. LHS.

When one goes to a dance, or attends a pep assembly someone from leadership was there. When someone is put onto Winter Court, or becomes Prom King or Queen, Leadership organized the voting.

If the school enjoys these events, it is Leadership who should be thanked. High school just wouldn't be high school without Leadership.

Left: Keep it in the lines, senior Kaitlin Thoma paints one of the many posters that are hung in the hallways and the commons. Right: Are you ready for this? Junior Madison Phillips prepares a Mr. LHS candidate for revealing.

Above: Time for a one on one chat, teacher Nancy Bauer and senior Marcus Giese have a serious conversation concerning the school. They are discussing the many different ideas that come up to make the school a more harmonious place for the students and the staff. "Me and her had indepth conversations about how to make the school better," said Giese.

Design Yearbook

Hard work, long hours, and a whole lot of entertainment are all parts of a yearbook student's life.

It takes a dedicated group of individuals to complete this monumental task. "It is better once you have seen what you have done," said senior James Miller.

Once the book is complete, the feeling of accomplishment makes you forget any of the stress involved with its production.

"Once you open that box it's like white noise, you'll look at it and be like, wow we really made this," said sophomore Nikki Martin.

Report Newspaper

In a world filled with inaccurate newscasts and lying politicians, a team of dedicated students come together to make the best newspaper possible: The Warrior Spirit.

While becoming better skilled reporters and photographers, these students report facts and opinions to the students of Lebanon High. "I didn't know it was a student led publication, it's really cool," said freshman Elsie Phillips.

At the end of the day the students can be proud of the publication they have created.

Meeting, seniors Hannah Bartlett and Stephen Linville and freshman Joseph Gillespe talk about important business during the meeting.

Above: Let's get down to business, juniors Tedi Massey and James Thomas work persistently on the computers during deadline. "I enjoy how the newspaper is a class all it's own, the students run it and we have the opportunities to express ourselves through free speech. [I joined because] it would give me more experience with writing and I wanted to become better at it and this is the way to go," said Massey. "A down [in newspaper] is when deadlines coincide with finals," said Editor in Chief Hannah Bartlett.

Devotion

Theatre

Every year brings something new, something different. For the drama club and musical theatre, that change was the number of performances to be done this year.

"We went from having our usual three productions, to having more this year. Ms. Edwards realized we had a large amount of time between performances, and more than enough people for more productions, so she added more," said junior Sydney Watts.

The multiple productions were put on enthusiastically, with a great turn out from the community.

Can you hear anything? Senior Jonathon Hudson and juniors Luke Armstrong and Robert Jones mockingly try to hear the Who's on the clover.

It will be okay, seniors Scott Wilson, Brittany Wolff and freshman Kaylie Probert hold each other tightly as a family as their fate is discussed.

Right: Play that tune, senior Joshua McCaw plays his saxophone during the fall play. Byline: Amanda Danger. "I finished memorizing the piece like an hour before the play, so it was kind of a pain to remember the fingerings to the part," said McCaw.

Left: Seuss! Senior Brittany Wolff hides in the Cat's hat at the end of "Seussical, Jr." Wolff played as Jojo, in a world where dreaming and imagining too much was not allowed. "I really liked doing a children's musical because we've never done anything like it before," said Wolff.

What does it say? Seniors Brittany Wolff, Nathan Miner, and Katlyn Ellis observe a clue found inside of the Maltese Falcon.

Front: Travis Shifflett, Morgan McGowan, Ashley Comer, Roseanne Parker and Brittany Wolff. Second: Emily Skipper, Michaela Martin, Lena Yakovleva, Nathan Miner and Sydney Watts. Third: Jake Morrissette, Stefanie Fritz, Scott Wilson, Luke Armstrong, Joseph Hill, Jonathan Hudson and Tabitha Seeley. Back: Mark Bowser, Jordan Bertram, Ethan Crenshaw, Grant Dunigan and Travis Richardson.

Left: Confusion, Senior Ethan Crenshaw stares at his 'clover' in disbelief as the 'Who's' speak to him. "A person's a person no matter how small!" exclaimed Crenshaw. Crenshaw's favorite part about working on Suessical was getting lead parts with his three best friends.

Right: One to fear, freshman Faith Bourgeois sings her surly song as the Sour Kangaroo, all in poor favor to intimidate and frighten Horton the Elephant. "I love acting, I'm really passionate about it. I get up there and I feel this vibe," said Bourgeois compassionately.

Left: Let me tell you, Mayzie La Bird (junior Emily King) gives Gertrude McFuzz (junior Sydney Watts) the scoop about being a flashy bird. "It was fun playing a character without any morals. Every girl wants to be bad for at least one day in her life," said King.

Left: Reading, Michaela Martin, Tabitha Seeley, and Kelsea Vierra all read the same book. "That was my favorite scene in the play. There was just so much in it that was so funny," said Vierra. Right: Story time, the birds and The Cat listen to Horton's sad story. Above: Blend in, the usual suspects spy on Amanda Danger (Ellis) and the CIA in hopes to find the whereabouts of the fungi. "It was the first school play I've ever done. It was fun. That's not like me in real life, I'm not a mean guy, but it was fun getting to play as one, because of the different personality type," said Bertram.

Harmonize

Choir

Singing is not only a passion for the students of these three choir classes, it is a way of life.

Most of these people have dedicated so much more than just one period a day to putting on the best performance possible. Including after school practices, private lessons and practicing on their own time.

"There are a lot of extra hours involved. In order to achieve the most outstanding performance it is necessary but very rewarding," said senior choir council president Ethan Crenshaw.

Above: Hurry up, senior Cloey Fuesler runs around the circle of chairs that were lined up for a game of musical chairs. "I was blessed with a big butt and that helped me get pretty far into the game. Besides that, I love choir and the opportunity it provides to bond with all sorts of people," said Fuesler. Left: off with your head, senior Minnie Phillips runs across the stage in an axe fight during the Renaissance Feast. Right: Vicious circle, junior Joshua Tunnissen grabs his chair after the music stops in musical chairs as choir teacher Kevin Wong attempts to force him out of the chair to secure a spot for himself.

Left: Open wide, senior Michelle Smail and freshman Cassandra Ward open their mouths wide to make sure that they have the proper shape to pronounce their vowels while harmonizing with the rest of the choir. "Choir is the calm in my chaotic life," said Smail.

Right: Intensity, seniors Joshua McCaw and Emily Proffitt stand tall at the Winter concert while singing their hearts out during one of the most intense parts of the song. "I think choir in general is basically a place where if you do it right, you can relax and be free," said Proffitt.

Left: Section power, senior Jonathan Hudson and juniors Luke Armstrong and Samuel McGehee stand in a row representing the tenor section at the Winter concert. "Choir is a lot of fun, but also a lot of hard work. We are learning some cool but hard pieces of music," said McGehee.

Right: Encore, choir teacher Kevin Wong stands aside with a smile on his face during the Winter concert to let the audience applaud the performance put on by the Chamber Choir after their first set. Wong has been the school choir director for four years.

Left: Crystal Ball, junior Emily Skipper poses against the wall in between telling the future of the people who attended the second annual Renaissance Feast. This is her second year as the fortune teller. "I dance around and tell people fortunes. I am a gypsy," said Skipper.

Band

The year rolled in with a drastic change for the band kids, when a new teacher was hired. Danielle Miller filled the position of Joshua Head from last year. "Being fresh out of college, it was a little overwhelming," said Miller.

"She is very energetic and organized. She makes rehearsal very important which makes band a lot of fun, as well as improves the sound," said senior Ian Avilez.

Miller helped the band earn second place in the Veteran's Day Parade, put on an awesome field show, and much more.

Right: Concert grace, senior Joshua McCaw and sophomore Kurt Bauer focus on playing at the winter concert. "Despite what people think, it's actually harder than it looks, because we don't have key's and fingerings, we have to find the positions ourselves," said McCaw.

Left: Medieval music, dressed up as the great wizard Merlin, senior Frank McDaniel plays the clarinet while dinner is being served at the Renaissance Feast, put on by the LHS Music Department in early November as a fundraiser for their trip to Anahiem.

Worth it, "It's the greatest feeling ever, our most dedicated work, and at times 'a no can do', but we call it marching band," said senior Sarah Vojnovich.

Right: A Sax trio, in December, a select set of individual's of the band were invited to play at an O.S.U. women's varsity basketball game. "The game was a lot of fun, and it was a great experience getting to play at O.S.U.," said sophomore Makenzie Fox.

"All the students learned very quickly," said director Danielle Miller. "Everyone worked very hard, it was challenging though because we only had a few full band after school rehearsals, but they worked hard." Above: Drumline, Trevor Stovman, Edward McGehee, Colin Pyle, Ty Fritz, Kyli Barnett, Britny Stewart, Travis Smith, Makenzie Fox, Emma Newton and Krystal Saul.

Next Step

S.T.A.R.S.

Taking a stand, not always the easiest thing to do. Getting up in front of younger students who look up to you is probably tougher.

Making a stand together is always helpful though, so together, the students of STARS (Students Today Aren't Ready for Sex) go around to the middle schools of Lebanon to explain why sex is something you should wait for.

Not necessarily until marriage, but until you're ready for it. This is a group of brave kids who can teach the 6th graders to just say no!

"I think it is important for kids to wait because not every one in the high school is doing it, therefore it's not the cool adult thing to do," said junior Sydney Watts.

Front: Tiffany Morgan and Samantha Nervino. Second: Bridget Saether, Megan Enright, Kaitlyn Clayborn, Gina Elliot, Morgan McGowan, Alaina Ward-Lehnert, Jennifer Meadowbrook, Lindsey Ness, Sydney Watts and Brittany Wolff. Back: Cassandra Shank, Nichole Luton, Courtney Hite, Becky Joplin, Briana Tracy, Anthony Darling, Jonnie Atchley, Mitnetwork Vanover, Carly Armstrong, Tamika Montoya, Cloey Fuesler, Steven Patterson, Marcus Geise, Ethan Crenshaw, Scott Wilson and Kyle Rush.

Intent on learning, seniors Scott Wilson and Marcus Geise pay close attention to their leader while in their individual groups.

Above: Hello, my name is... senior Lindsay Nelson introduces herself at a meeting. "The coolest part about training was watching Ethan and Colin show how cool they are with 6th graders. I want to be like them," said Nelson. Left: Ermm...well...I don't know... seniors Ethan Crenshaw and Brittany Wolff act out a role play. "I've got to...go wash my chicken...farm," stammered Crenshaw. Right: Jump! sophomores Mackenzie Elliot and Linzy McIntyre, senior Ethan Crenshaw and junior Tamika Montoya jump during training. "The best thing is going to the schools to teach kids valuable lessons," said Montoya.

New Recruits

Left: One new message, senior Becky Joplin takes advantage of a free moment to text a friend during training. "My favorite part of doing STARS was chillin' with the kids," said Joplin.

Right: Tie dye, sophomore Amanda Hecker and other members of STARS customize their shirts by tie dyeing them.

"My favorite part of STARS was making a really good influence on the kids so that they can have a better future," said Hecker.

Listen up, seniors Cassandra Shank and Tiffany Morgan listen attentively to their leader during the first meeting.

Left: Presentation, junior Matthew Wolfenbarger stands and introduces himself at the meeting for all the new STARS members. "I will help them by influencing them by not having sex," said Wolfenbarger, proving that he is aware of the impact he can have on younger kids.

Right: Clean it up! senior Scott Wilson cleans a table during STARS training. "I joined because the people in the program are so friendly and it's a swell opportunity to inform younger adults about consequences to their actions," said Wilson.

Left: Sisterly love, seniors Cloey Fuesler and Briana Tracy hug during training. "The best part of STARS training is meeting up with all the same people yearly to partake in fun activities that are eventually going to benefit younger kids in our community," said Fuesler.

National Honor Society

National Honor Society is a group of students that have been selected because of their academics and personal values.

The students are committed to making our community a better place by doing individual volunteer work as well as working on group projects.

“There is a humongous emphasis on community service. It is not only for the benefit of doing something good, but it is also learning how to benefit your society,” said senior President Sarah Vojnovich.

Front: Mattea Godsey, Amy Smail, Danielle Crisp, Allie Stock, Jenna Narrow and Alaina Ward. Second: Kayla Parker, Randi Newport, Megan Enright, Cacey Nelson, Karen Hoagland, Annie Seeno, Sean Stalley, Hannah Bartlett, Jennifer Meadowbrook and Sarah Vojnovich. Third: Eric Bowser, Emma Newton, Chantal Kirby, Madison Phillips, Kacey Setzer, Rosemarie Ragsdale, Emily King, Michelle Smail, Sierra Engler, Aaron VanEpps, Amber Poston, Tedi Massey, Jordan Martinak, Nicole Springer, Bridget Saether, Amy Zook, Jonnie Atchley, Colin McHill, Anthony Darling, Kenneth Saether and Jeffrey VanEpps. Back: Russell Duerr, Jordan Bertram, Sage Gerson, Logan Burt, Tysen Weber, Christopher Meek, Jordan Bergstrom, Alexander Maurer, Billy Ferrell, Christopher Cordoza and Thadeus Sansom.

Left: Proof read, senior Treasurer Alexander Maurer takes a quick glance through the induction ceremony pamphlet before the proceedings began. Right: Nervous, senior Alaina Ward sits quietly in her seat while she waits to become a new member of NHS.

I pledge, seniors Megan Moseley, Thadeus Sansom, Kacey Setzer, Amanda Roadhouse, Rosemarie Ragsdale, Benjamin Williams and Megan Tucker give the pledge of Allegiance during an NHS meeting.

Above: Pledge myself, juniors Logan Burt, Megan Enright and Colin McHill and senior Melissa Cordero pose for a small group photo after their induction to National Honor Society. Behind them is the handwritten pledge that all new members had to recite so they could become official National Honor Society members. “Being accepted into a group with a reputation as prestigious as that of National Honor Society is a great honor. Not only does it look great on applications but you also know that you are a part of something that is not only making you a better person but helping the community as well,” said Burt.

Working hard, seniors Benjamin Williams and Megan Tucker try and stay focused at one of the NHS meetings.

Left: Monthly report, senior Amanda Roadhouse speaks to the National Honor Society members about one of six committees that are available. They are Bylaws, Kiwanis, Riverview, SAT, Group Service Projects and Individual Service Projects.

Right: Leadership in the community, senior Anthony Darling gives a presentation during an NHS meeting. "I didn't know what I was getting into when I applied. But I joined to express my leadership in the community," said Darling.

Left: Read the fine print, senior Gregory Thomson takes a quick glance at the attendance report for NHS. "I do [NHS] because it looks good on college applications," said Thomson. Right: Set your hours in, senior Amy Zook talks to fellow NHS members about their individual service hours.

Left: Pen to paper, seniors Hannah Bartlett and Amber Poston take careful notes while the officers lead the meeting. "I enjoy discussions; it's interesting to hear well articulated opinions in a professional forum. It helps us establish that we are a society with or without a gavel," said Bartlett.

Above: And here's to you, senior Vice President Jenna Narrow and President Sarah Vojnovich gladly accept the personalized pins that Advisor Diane Michael hands to all the National Honor Society officers as a gift to symbolize the hard work and dedication that they have shown through the past two years. "I felt pretty important. It has showed me that I had a special roll in NHS. It also showed that I was an officer and a leader. It's definitely taught me that I have the ability to lead meetings and compromise with others," said Vojnovich.

Welcome, juniors Jordan Bertram, Eric Bowser, Logan Burt, Megan Enright and Billy Ferrell wait patiently for the induction ceremony to begin.

Donafe Key Club

There are volunteers, and then there is Key Club.

These students regularly volunteer for jobs around the school, and around our community. Whether it is lending a helping hand to the people who do the blood drives, cleaning up our streets and parks, or helping the poor, they are always willing to help.

"We do many activities around the community to help make it a better place," said Key Club President senior Steven Patterson.

Front: Savanna Lindberg, Samantha Nervino, KaryAnne Lane, Shauna Walker and Briana Tracy. Back: Ronald Nicholas, Beth Cathcart, Steven Patterson, Megan Enright, Kharise Wright, Bridget Saether, Shalyn Uhden and Kati Robinson.

Left: Listen closely, junior Savanna Lindberg and seniors Briana Tracy and Samantha Nervino listen to the rules before the Blood Drive in February. Right: On the agenda, senior Steven Patterson takes a moment to check something on the board before returning to the meeting.

Gather around, senior Steven Patterson, and juniors Beth Cathcart and Megan Enright circle around to get their instructions for the Blood Drive.

Above: Look I'm saving lives, junior Beth Cathcart waits patiently for a professional to begin the process of giving blood at the February Blood Drive. "It didn't hurt as bad as I thought it would. I got myself way freaked out about it, then it wasn't that bad. I am definitely donating again this spring," said Cathcart.

Helping Keystone

The students in Keystone get involved with our community. They are dedicated students who give up their time and energy to help do what everyone else should do, and that is what makes this world a better place.

They do volunteer work at the Boys and Girls Club and help clean up around the community.

"Keystone is a great club. We help the community and young kids. If you want to make a difference, join Keystone," said junior Emily King.

Cake Time, sophomore Victoria Pruitt waits with the rest of the group as they serve the cake and punch at the Annual Dinner/Youth of the Year.

Left: Mmm...Cake, junior Kharise Wright snacks on her cake after serving some to guests. "They had the best cheesecake. But it's going to make me fatter some day," said Wright. Right: Want Some? Junior Chantal Kirby serves cake with a smile while others serve punch.

Above: Kacey won what? Sophomore Victoria Pruitt and juniors Chantal Kirby and Holly Parmenter stand around the serving table eating cheesecake, talking about the dinner and the honor of being Youth of the Year and what it meant to them. "It was fun and exciting that Kacey got it and it was cool to watch the chef put the desserts together," said Pruitt.

Robotics

There are a few main things that make a robotics team. Safety glasses, electronics and all kinds of cool power tools.

A dedicated group of high school age kids is what it takes to complete the task of building a robot in six weeks. “[The greatest moment was] winning the Chairman’s award,” said senior Joshua Tunnissen.

Once the robot is finished, the satisfaction makes one remember all of the fun and friendship involved with the making of a mechanical wonder.

Front: Ian Avilez and Nathan Carrasco. Second: Emily Skipper, Sean Stalley and Amy Zook. Third: James Miller, Mark Bowser, Timothy Zook, Eric Bowser, Will Driskell, Aaron Arevalo, Semih Hakyemez, Stephen Linville and Stacy Covell. Back: Steven Bowser and Tyler Pruitt.

You broke what? Seniors Tyler Pruitt and Sean Stalley try to find a way to repair the arm on the robot before their competition starts at the HP Scrimmage.

Above: Complete concentration, seniors Stephen Linville and Ian Avilez control the robot and try to do the best they can to help the other teams that are on the same alliance as they are. It takes great concentration and teamwork to control a robot, help the other teams and do a good job at the same time. “[I joined robotics because I] enjoy mechanical design and welding,” said Linville.

Any day now, the rest of the group waits as Tiffany Russell finishes a game of musical chairs with a student from another school while at a function.

Skills USA

Preparing delicious food, having fun doing it and keeping the teachers happy and well fed are a few of the Skills USA activities, but it is not all about food.

These students contribute to the school's community by hosting lunches and baking delicacies for the students and teachers who participate. They also participate in regional and national competitions.

Skills USA teaches valuable lessons and has many great opportunities that the members will be sure to remember for many years to come.

Above: Join us... we have cookies, Social System teacher Neva Clausen and junior Samantha Weist work together to pass out refreshments at one of the school's many events. "I've always believed in giving students leadership opportunities and Skills USA combines leadership and Skills," said Clausen. "[What I do in Skills USA is] everything, I love to cook and you're able to be creative," said Weist.

Business

D.E.C.A.

Students who join this club come willing to accept challenges. They are ready to learn the art of business and eager to apply their new-found knowledge. Working in the student store, putting on various events, and going to competitions are all parts of D.E.C.A.

Whether they joined for an extra activity during high school or to build a foundation for their futures, every student who joins gains valuable experiences and memories which they will be able to draw from for years to come.

Right: That is going to be... hard at work in the student store, junior Bridget Saether takes cash from a customer and gives them their change in return. "I like a lot of freedom and a lot of responsibility at the same time. It's cool that people trust us so much," said Saether.

Front: Lorena Birrueta, Chelsea Johnson, Chelsea Ongers, Theresa Stalley, Lindsey Bellinger, Kelsie Shanks, Linzy McIntyre, Mackenzie Elliot, Morgan Slavenski, Bridget Saether and Edward McGehee. Second: Joshua Wagner, Stephane Baker, KaryAnn Lane, Victoria Pruitt, Megan Zaina, Madison Phillips, Cody Hugie, Kyle Rush, Ty Fritz, Terra Piper, and Courtney Woodel. Third: Jonathan Hudson, Susan Richey, Robert Jones, Amanda Prather, Briana Tracy, Victor Montoya, Heidi Pruitt, Logan Bertram, Tanner Pruett, Jordan Bertram, Amanda Roadhouse, Kharise Wright, Emma Newton, Jeffrey VanEpps, Jacob Morrissette and Brenton Bilyeu. Fourth: Lily Edwards, Christopher Meek, Marcus Giese, Kenneth Saether, Megan Adams, Randi Newport, Nichole Weikel, Breena Danner, Shauna Walker and Kaitlin Thoma.

Left: Checking the till, senior Jeff VanEpps shows Breena Danner how to count the money in the till to make sure it is all still there. "I like working with the cash register and hanging out with everyone who works in there," said VanEpps. "I've been working there for three years."

Right: Money handler, looking sharp and professional, senior Victor Montoya was busy working with the cash register at the District 2 Skill Competition while counting money. "I learned great skills that will take me far at Burger King," said Montoya.

Busy at work, juniors Kharise Wright and Victoria Pruitt prepare some delicious sandwiches for the customers who come into the student store during lunch.

Left: Practicing for the real thing, junior Emma Newton and a judge role play during Districts at the high school. "Role plays can be nerve wracking at times but they teach you a lot about being prepared, being sure of yourself, and being confident," said Newton.

Future Farmers of America

FFA is a way for students to pursue their interest in farming as well as gain knowledge which they might use for many years to come.

Farming is a very important profession, and these students understand its importance and are willing to contribute to its future. Not only do they learn to become valuable members of society, but they also build relationships and gain friends who share this interest in farming and agriculture.

"I love Ag and this is a great chance to learn important things," said sophomore Lindsay Noble.

Above: Rockin' the uniform, members walk together at an agriculture expo and tractor show. "My favorite part about FFA is getting to go places and meet new people. I also like fair, it's a really fun time for all of us," said senior Amy Tacy. Left: Relaxation, senior Rashelle Ufford sits comfortably inside a tractor wheel. "We were taking officer pictures and seeing how well we could fit inside," said Ufford, who holds the position of reporter and is in charge of the clubs scrap booking. Right: Lunch is served, students and staff are treated to a delicious barbecue served by members of FFA on the first day of school.

Middle: Macy Dirks, Tressa Turnbull, Alex McClain, Amy Schmadeka, Amy Tacy, Stephanie Hilpert, and Lindsay Noble. Back: Drew Snook, Coury Gagne, Stuart Roosa, Jordan Christian, and Christine Tanner.

Sharing a laugh, freshmen Nicholas McLarrin and Brad Eilers exchange words at a meeting. Both joined FFA partly because of the scholarship opportunities, and both are involved in sheep projects.

Serving you, seniors Amy Tacy and sophomore Drew Snook serve food at the school barbecue, illustrating their motto "learning to do, doing to earn, earning to live, living to serve."

Left: Friendly words, junior Jordan Wilson and senior Courtney Smith exchange some words while at a tractor show. "FFA is awesome and I encourage everybody to join and try new things," said Wilson when asked what she liked about the club.

Right: Combine ride, sophomore Coury Gagne and seniors Sydney Snook and Jordan Christian stand tall on the combine they were examining. "Both of my parents were members and I wanted to try it out. I LOVE IT!" stated Snook, the club's vice president.

Left: Reach for it, senior Macy Dirks stretches her arm out to grab a dropped ball during a relay race at the ag olympics. The school's clubs competed for points during various games and events the entire FFA week during lunch, providing entertainment for all who watched.

Right: Speech, junior Casey Nelson stands up to speak her part at a meeting at the start of the school year. "I stand by the door and greet all the people and give them the agenda. I say my part and set up all the stuff and take it down." Said Nelson, explaining her job as sentinal.

Left: Fun and games, seniors Kaylob Harmon and Teri Sloan enjoy the festivities during the ag olympics that went on during FFA week. "There's never a dull moment when you're in FFA" said Sloan. "The ag olympics made things actually fun, and kind of funny."

One Faith Generation Life

In a world full of strife and anger, a little refreshing fellowship is always a good thing.

"The people there to guide us are great, meeting new people and learning new lessons is an amazing experience," said junior Jacob Byerley.

It is a place where students can go and feel as if they will not be ridiculed for their beliefs.

Being a student run club, they welcome any adults who wish to sit in, and also extend the welcome to any students who would like to join.

Front: Tom Goodrich, Jaquellynn Napper, Levi Lammert Courtney Woodel and Rachel Fry. Second: Anthony Denham, Keith Finster, Eric Bowser, Jamie Lambert and Jonathan Hudson. Back: Aaron Smalley, Daron Schmadeka and Flint Yoder.

Gather around, Anthony Denham, Tom Goodrich and Jeff Fantus sit in Andy Olstad's class and listen to the lesson given during the meeting.

Above: Undivided attention to the speaker, senior Rachel Fry listens to president Tom Goodrich during a speech at a Wednesday meeting. Generation Life meets every Friday on both lunches, but on half days, the entire group is brought together and given a chance to meet with their peers. "My favorite part about Gen. Life is being able to be with friends and learn and grow spiritually while at school, it is great," said Fry. This is Fry's first year of attending Generation Life regularly, she enjoys it thoroughly.

Inspiration, junior Nichole Luton and freshmen Megan Benedict and Veronica Steward sit in and listen to the lesson of the week.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes

Student athletes already have a hard time in school. They have to practice for their games, and have the regular amount of homework and school work they must accomplish.

Making time to spend with other people of similar religious belief's is something they need to make time for, and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes helps them achieve just that.

"It's good to have other Christians in school so I don't feel totally alone," said sophomore Stephen Silva.

Left: Focus, being a freshman, attending F.C.A. is really encouraging and it helps you be yourself in sports," said Jaquellyn Napper. Right: Lesson time, senior Steven Patterson shares an occurrence from the week preceding the meeting.

Above: Enjoy your meal and listen, junior Justin Albion sits down with his lunch and gives his attention to the speaker. "F.C.A. is a group of athletes who gets together every week. You don't have to be an athlete, but most of us are. It's student led, pretty much every week we delegate who's going to take on the next task. We do things about friendship and trust, and how you can be a leader in your sport. Mr. B and Mr. Stolsig are our supervisors. It's nice to know that there are other people who find the Lord in the sport, and are true in playing, and that life is for the Lord," said Albion.

Overcome

Special Education

Dealing with problems is something everyone goes through, and for some, problems are harder to handle than for others.

Even so, these students seem to always be smiling, brightening the day for themselves and others. They go through life with an optimistic perception of things in the world, the way others should learn to do as well.

“Working with the kids is awesome fun. There is never a dull moment around here. It’s a group that really enjoys life,” said Brick House teacher Roxy Miller.

Left: Paper Sorter, senior Jeff Lang goes through some of the old newspapers in the back room of the Brick House across from the main campus. The Brick House offers a bunch of other activities for the students to do from working on the computers, coloring and recycling old papers.

Right: A hard earned sweat, senior Joe Rood takes out a cart of different shapes of used and old wood out the Brick House back doors after helping Jeff Lang sort through some old newspapers and recycling them.

Clean up, senior Charles McDonald helps with cleaning up all the trash and food in the commons every day after both of the lunches.

Cheer for the home of the brave! freshman Spencer Dennis jumps up and raises his hands in excitement at the end of the National Anthem.

Morning delivery girl, senior Jessica Read dresses up as Raggedy Ann for Halloween while she hands out the daily newspapers to the classes.

Front: Marty Long, Nicholas McKellar, Charles McDonald, Christopher McKellar, Steven Kau and Brian Walton. Second: Lois Kelly, Mary Jeeneser, Anna Yost, Whitney, Hannah Flowers, Kanda Starby and Erica Kruse. Back: Shawn Truett, Joe Lang and Stephanie Felipa.

Left: Priceless entertainment, senior Ashley Day and educational assistant Lucy Hodson watch the pep assembly introducing the Valentine's day court. The princes and princesses performed creative skits that they made up.

Left: For the land of the free, senior Erica Kruse and educational assistant Mary Jeeneser stand to respect the flag during the National Anthem. "I like the princesses when they're wearing their crowns, and seeing all the students together," said Kruse. Right: Sit in on a pep, sophomore Kaylyn Searles and seniors Stephanie Felipa and Marty Long listen and watch the gym as it fills up with people waiting to see what the next pep assembly will be about. Above: Just a little chat, Eric Stuart and educational assistant Stacey Horn talk to each other and the rest of the group quietly before the pep assembly begins.

Heard VOICE

VOICE is a group of students who have been gathering for several years. The numbers had been dwindling and activity decreasing until now.

This year, they are making themselves known once again.

Through attending different conferences and participating in activities, they are learning to become student leaders and to improve our community.

"We have just been working really hard to build the unity up around the school," said sophomore Vice President Tayler Burrows.

Watch closely, junior Coddie Marshall jots down a few notes during one of the important meetings to find out what their next event will be.

Front: Ramanjit Sranna, Coddie Marshall and Luke Armstrong. Back: Megan Tucker, Benjamin Williams, Sarah Vojnovich, Tayler Burrows, Joshua Urrutia and Lindsay Nelson.

Above: Show the love, senior Joshua Urrutia kneels down to the sand and begins making an image to show his love for VOICE. The group traveled to the coast this year to attend a Leadership camp through the Oregon Association of Student Councils (OASC). The retreat is available for all students so the group decided that it would be a good experience for them to go and learn what they could about student leadership. "At first I was skeptical about VOICE, but through working on our projects it taught me to be a better person and changed my outlook on life. I always look at life as a glass half full now," said Urrutia.

Bust a move, junior Kaixiang Zhang was having fun dancing. He was doing a move that had him pushing up with his legs and get back up to feet.

Move It

Hip Hop Dance

Until now there has never been a dancing opportunity at this school besides the dance team.

With the arrival of junior Kaixiang Zhang from Fushun, China a new type of dance became a possibility for everyone. Hip Hop.

For most people coming into the group, hip hop dancing is something completely new.

"I think that we are getting better. I have danced before this, but not at all like this. It is hard to change styles so quickly. It is more fun than professional," said senior Amandine Graeven.

Above: Keep up, seniors Elle Roed and Naja Mayer dance as fast as they can in attempt to keep up with the music as they try to nail down the choreography that they have just been learning. Neither have much dancing experience. "I have never done dancing before, so it does not look that great. The dancing group is fun but it is kind of unorganized because there are not very many of us and it is still building. We are getting better though. Kai is putting a lot of hard work into it and he is really good. He is trying really hard to teach us," said Mayer.

Awaken, junior Kaixiang Zhang attempts to rise from his lifeless position on the gym floor while the students in the crowd cheered him on.

Style

Fashion

There are more ways of expressing yourself than one might think. Some people use art or music, but how one dresses is just as much of a way to express one's personality as any other form of art.

"I love purses, I have about fifteen or more," said sophomore Lauren Alley.

When dressing in the morning or picking clothes out at night, some think about how they are feeling and dress to use clothing to express their emotions.

Do you?

Chillin' out, freshmen Ian Horton, Cody Bry and sophomore Peter Clark hang out during lunch. "I like baggy clothes," said Horton.

Craft time, sophomore Zack Lowery contemplates what to do next on his art project. "I just throw on whatever is in my closet," said Lowery.

Above: Cons, Converse were found to be the most popular choice in footwear for both Social and Information Systems. "I usually wear Converse All Stars," said junior Adam Taylor. Left: Your feet have style, a few random students create a star-like shape with their shoes. "I buy my shoes wherever I see ones I like. I wear different shoes everyday," said sophomore Jessica Bates. Right: Nike style, Nike brand shoes were voted the most popular by both Living and Physical System students.

Hard at work, sophomore Sarah London stays busy doing her class work while sporting a uniquely patterned hoodie.

Discussion, freshmen Kelsea Vierra, Ashley Murray and Chanale Rivera rest a bit on the floor. "My style is cute but comfortable," said Vierra.

Left: Time for some sweets, freshman Travis Richardson takes a break in the hall while enjoying a sucker. "I actually only own chick pants. My favorite piece of clothing that I own, it'd have to be my Harry Potter jacket," said Richardson.

Left: Can I get a hall pass? Freshman Corey Kutsch walks out of class while wearing her warrior fashion. Many students show their warrior pride by what they wear. "I like to be comfy and a lot of my warrior clothes are lazy clothes. I like to show my warrior pride," said Kutsch.

Left: Lunch break, sophomore Samuel Cole stands with a group of his friends and opens his muffin to take a bite during lunch. "My favorite hat is my Globe hat. It's my own style pretty much, it fits my personality," said Cole.

Right: Intensity, sophomore Nicole Street walks through the hall as she checks her phone for messages. Street is wearing an outfit which is layered, a popular style among teens. "I just wear whatever I feel like that day," said Street.

Left: Ready for class, junior Ted Kraemer takes a break from work to chat it up with his friends. "I keep it real, I wear what I have. I have a lot of band shirts but I would have to say my favorite shirt is my Playstation shirt. My favorite brands of shoes are Nikes and Pumas," said Kraemer. Right: A nice little stroll, freshman Jacquelynn Napper takes a stroll through the commons during her lunch break. "Simple and colorful would describe my personal style the best. My favorite brands of shoes would be Circas or Converse," said Napper.

Thank you Mr. Ray

It has been said that the true test of a persons worth is measured in what they leave behind when they retire . When Ken Ray walked out the doors of Lebanon High School on March 21st for the last time, we as a staff and as a building as a whole lost a great advocate for students.

What he leaves us with is a legacy of kindness and concern for kids as well as for his staff and the community at large. Ken Raw has great compassion and empathy for all students, regardless of educational ability and/or economic status. He is a profound advocate for the rights of students and cares deeply for each and every student he comes in contact with. Ken Ray has the ability to find the “greatness” in individuals and helps those people to realize their potential. He refuses to allow students to give up on themselves and helps them to find the path which will ultimately lead to their success. How will Lebanon High School Proceed after Ken Ray retires? We will proceed as always, but with a sense of loss for ourselves and our students. It is up to us to remember the legacy he leaves us with and to keep his passion and enthusiasm for kids foremost in our minds.

Love Forever ~ Mom

Crystal, I'm so grateful that you are my sister, and being there for me
from the beginning and I know you'll be there through the end. You've been there through thick and thin.
You will always be my bestfriend. I love you!
- Cassie

Crystal, I am so proud of the young woman
you have become.
Love, Mom

Take your candle and light your world.

We love you,
Mom, Dad,
Luke and Sierra

Daughter:
When I imagine the life
you will live,
I think of the pleasure your presence will give.
I see the joy your smile will light and the wonders you'll weave when your dreams take flight.
I feel the hope that will grow with your grace and the difference you'll make to each heart you embrace.
I imagine your life as I know it will be;
for my daughter,
you've given all this,
all this to me.

Love,
Mom, Pat, Tylor, Hannah, Cody,
Dad, Traci, Mason, Alivia, Trey,
Lawson & Kautiana.

May God bless you and keep you always
 May your wishes all come true
 May you always do for others
 And let others do for you
 May you build a ladder
 To the stars
 And climb on every rung
 And may you stay
 Forever young

May you grow up
 To be righteous
 May you grow up to be true
 May you always know the truth
 And see the lights surrounding you
 May you always be courageous
 Stand up right and be strong
 And may you stay
 Forever young

Kaitlyn,
 I am so proud of who you are,
 and amazed by everything that you do!
 Love,
 Mom

To my graduating publication seniors!
 You have been the best friends I could have ever asked for. We have gone through a lot of ice cream, coffee and energy drinks through out the years but we have all made it. I'll always be here if you need someone who will listen or help relieving stress. I love you guys and wish you the best.

Love Always,
 Ash

You're my first born and what an Awesome son and brother you are. I am so proud of you. It's time to spread your wings and fly.

*Love you to the moon and back,
 Mom.*

Randi, you are my shining star. You are a beautiful, talented and loving young lady. We are very proud of you and love you so very much.

Love,
Mom, Blake & Skyler

Randi, you are such a wonderful person and you have such a big heart. Thank you for always being there for me when I needed you. I know you are going to go so far in life. I love you best friend.

*Samantha, Shauna & Briana
Best Friends!
Lord Bless You!
Have fun at college!
I will miss you!
Love you Girls,
Mommy*

Before I met you I thought I knew what true love was but you showed me different. You are my best friend and my perfect everything. You mean the world to me, and that will never change! I'm so glad I found the person I was meant to spend the rest of my life with at such a young age. You make me the happiest I've ever been. I can't wait to have adventures and make memories with you! We will never be bored! I promise. I love you!

Love always Pebbles

Some people come into our lives and quickly go. Others stay awhile and make footprints on our hearts and we never, ever are the same. -Anonymous

Lessons We Learned

From you laughter...joy

Your innocent trust...child-like faith

Your friendliness...thinking the best of everyone.

Your waving at total strangers...concern for your neighbor.

Your dancing and singing...freedom of childhood.

Your playing in puddles...joy in simple things.

Your dragging us to see things...the importance of being parents.

Your prayers...how to pray.

Your pain...putting ours into perspective.

Your helping...appreciation of all efforts perfect or not.

Your hair, or lack thereof...looking beyond physical appearances.

Your hugs and kisses...love and forgiveness with no strings attached.

Your independence...to not make assumptions.

Your voice...excitement and zeal for life.

Your touch...the touch of Jesus.

And in the end,
It's not the years
In your life that count,
it's the life
In your years.
-Abraham Lincoln

It's not who you knew,
It's not what you did,
It's how you lived.

And the greatest of these is love.

Sam, Leah, Betsy & Danii,
 You've helped lead the staff in making an amazing book. We had our tough times, but we always got past them and worked for the final prize. Not many understood the ethics of leadership, but those who did, realized that how you acted was not just because, but because that is how to be a leader at times. We will miss you all so much. Thank you for such a great book, and your extraordinary dedication. Thanks to you especially Sam, you put more time and dedication in than anyone else. Oh but Sam... Get your car tuned up.

Sincerely,
 Mr. Whitson, Aaron, and the entire yearbook staff.

The yearbook staff would like to show our gratitude to our Herff Jones representatives: Bill and Cindy Dube, and past LHS graduate Jeff Smith.

Thank you for everything you have done for us this year!

TAYLOR

We are so proud of you. Thank you for all the great memories you have brought the family. Congratulations!
